¡BIENVENIDOS!

EL DIA DE LA CULTURA HISPANICA SE CELEBRARA A PBJC EL 24 SEPTIEMBRE

El Centro de Asuntos Multi-Culturales presenterá su segundo espectáculo - una celebración de la cultura hispánica-jueves el 24 de septiembre a PBJC. La atracción principal tendrá lugar en el salón del Centro de Actividades Estudiantiles desde las 12:30 hasta la 1:30 de la tarde.

El invierno pasado presentó el Centro "UN DIA POLACO" que fue recibido con gran entusiasmo. El Centro ya está preparando "UN DIA ALEMAN".

If your Spanish is as non-existent as ours, (we enlisted Joan Jones to translate for us), you are probably wondering what this is all about. Here it is: (translated for meaning, not word-for-word).

* * * * *

You are all invited to Hispanic Culture Day to be celebrated at PBJC Central on Sept. 24.

The Center for Multi Cultural Affairs is scheduling its second event, a celebration of Hispanic Culture on that day, with the main event set for 12:30-1:30 PM, in the Student Activities Center Lounge.

Last winter the Center held a very successful Polish Day on campus, and a German day is in in the planning stages.

* * * * *

John Townsend, Continuing Education's advisor to the Center, has promised us costumes and flags from Colombia, Cuba, Nicaragua, Puerto Rico, Venezuela and the Republic of the Philippines on that day.

The cafeteria has promised the following items on the menu: Fricase de Pollo, Picadillo, Arroz Blanco, Frijoles Negros, Plantanito Fritos and Natilla.

Which list translate to (we are told): Chicken Fricassee, ground beef, white rice, black beans, banana chips and custard.

Luis Martinez, chairman of the advisory committee for the Center, will make introductions at the 12:30 meeting. A slide and sound show

Senior Group Theatre

The Group's 1981 production will be "The Man Who Came to Dinner", a venerable and hilarious 3-act comedy by Moss Hart and George S. Kaufman. It will be performed Dec. 11, 12 & 13.

They will hold auditions IN TE-24 on Sept. 28 & 30, from 11-noon and 1-2pm. Interested persons may sign up for an important "backstage role" as well as auditioning for playing parts.

Last year's performance of "Arsenic and Old Lace" was a big hit, with overflow audiences all shows.

Bud Wunder, this year's president, said that persons through 79 years of age had great satisfaction and fun in contributing to that success.

The entire Eissey family wishes to thank all those whose expressions of love, understanding, sympathy and words of strength supported us through our bereavement. The flowers, cards, personal contacts, etc., sustained my family greater than words can express. There is not anything that could have been done that meant more than knowing the care of my personal and professional friends. The death of Erin Townsend Eissey put many things in perspective - love, kindness toward one another, appreciation of an individual - are all so much more meaningful and important than many other considerations. Our deepest appreciation for the way in which you have touched our lives.

Trustees Agenda

Our trustees have a relatively short agenda for their September meeting, Monday, September 14, at 7:30 PM.

Only two items of Old Business remain, a rule forbidding hazing, required by the legislature, and a slight change in the board rule on vacations.

Four items of New Business appear to be routine with the exception of a proposed change in board rules on sick leave. This would allow more liberal partial payment for unused sick leave, and follows permissive legislation passed this year.

One of the 11 items under Business Affairs involves creation of a new position to allow hiring of part-time coordinators on each campus to work with Adjunct Instructors.

There are five items of construction and development and eighteen bid awards on the agenda. All appear to be routine in nature.

Collective Bargaining

Prior to the collective bargaining session of September 8, the college and the United Faculty were 10% apart on pay and completely opposed on waiving the right to impact bargaining on unforseen matters during the life of a contract.

After the session, they were apparently 12.5% apart on wages, completely opposed on all management's rights (even those agreed to in previous contracts), and faced with the prospect of a long and laborious renegotiation of the entire contract.

The union presented a number of graphs and charts supporting its higher wage request.

The session made it abundantly clear that attorneys for each side have many areas of disagreement as to the meaning and effect of the Public Employees Relations Commission order on management's rights.

It was also clear that very little progress can be made toward a new contract until many legal questions have been resolved by PERC and the courts. A date for the next session was left open to a call from either side. ...JK

Book by Doris, Illustrations by Ruth

A Teacher's Manual for Clothing Construction, one of three books written by Doris Gaunt, is illustrated with drawings by Ruth Lafferty, graphic artist in our print shop.

The books, available in published form, will assist home economics instructors to implement a competency-based educational system for consumer and homemaking courses in textiles and clothing.

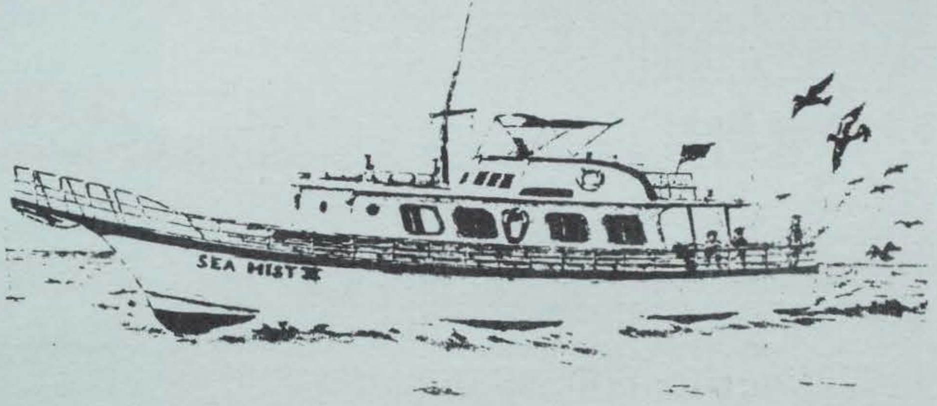
Doris, now teaching Sewing for the Working Woman at the college, is expecting a baby in February to join her lawyer-husband Richard and their 17 month-old daughter, Sarah Elizabeth.

In addition to the Manual, Ruth has done illustrations for children's books, and is presently working on drawings for a book by Dr. Kathy Bowser, director of the PBJC Center for Early Learning.

Ahoy Landlubbers!

We are not going to shanghai anyone, but we do want to let you know that Capt. Dan of the Sea Mist is putting together a crew for a trip down to the sea on September 25th (Friday) at 7:00PM.

If you enjoy being together with your friends; want to be out in the cool ocean breeze, and want to fish - we invite you to join us.



If you plan to go, and we hope you do, please call in your reservation at extension 8011. Your check (payable to the Palm Beach Junior College Foundation) should be sent to John Townsend at mail station #12 by September 16th. RESERVATIONS ARE LIMITED TO THE FIRST 40! Adult family members are also welcome. This is a project of the Social-Cultural & Welfare Committee of PBJC.

New Communication Course Numbers

The course numbers for communication courses, with two exceptions, have been changed by the state. The change is mandatory for this term, but was not made available to us until most of our students were already enrolled.

To avoid confusion in the middle of registration, it was decided to continue on through Drop and Add, and then to change all the numbers on the computer.

The list below is official, and will be in the catalog supplement and, of course, the new numbers will be in next year's catalog. Old numbers are in parenthesis.

PBJC MONDAY REPORT:

Volume IV, Number 2 September 21, 1981

Library, Swimming Pool, Sports Complex

Dr. Eissey To Ask For Joint County/College Complex

Dr. Eissey will appear before the county commission tomorrow to make an appeal for combined county/community college facilities at PBJC North, saving taxpayers millions of dollars with no reduction in service to the people.

He will specifically ask the commissioners to pledge county funds toward a jointly used library, swimming pool, and sports complex, to be located at PBJC North.

If these funds from the community can be assured, Dr. Eissey can then ask for matching funds from the state to obtain the facilities, resulting in immediate savings to local taxpayers of half the cost.

The real economy, however, is not in duplicating library buildings, swimming pools, gymnasiums and other athletic facilities, Dr. Eissey says.

The savings in insurance, maintenance, staffing and supplies for a single larger, more complete library unit instead of two smaller ones could amount to many thousands of dollars every year.

"I intend to emphasize to the commissioners that we are a community college," Dr. Eissey said. "We are here to serve all of the community, just as they are.

"If we can give the people the service they want at a greatly reduced tax burden, I believe this is the way to go," he said.

Dr. Eissey will also remind commissioners of his long-standing offer of land and other assistance for a performing arts center, in view of the renewed possibility of local tax support for it.

"We are committed to active involvement with the community we serve at every level," Dr. Eissey says. "Nothing would give us greater pleasure than to be able to give needed services to the community while at the same time advancing the education of our students."

Since there may be a number of our readers who fall into the "six to nine years of service" for non-unit employees, it may be of particular interest to read the fine print in the legals on page 2. A new sick leave policy was passed on first reading at the meeting of the Board of Trustees on Sept. 14.

PERC Issues Order To Vacate Stay

The Public Employees Relations Commission has once again acted from incorrect data to arrive at an erroneous conclusion, and has issued an order that is not likely to bring about the result it seeks.

PERC has ordered the automatic stay on its Management's Rights order to be vacated. The college will ask the District Court of Appeals to reinstate the stay.

PERC's order, and its reasoning, are based on the incorrect assumption that there is "a complete halt to the collective bargaining process at the college." Eight sessions declare this to be untrue.

This incorrect data leads PERC to the conclusion that the stay is responsible for our not bargaining, (when, of course, we are), and therefore the stay should be vacated so we might begin to do what we are already doing!

The decision is likely to impair rather than enhance public sector bargaining.

There has been an assumption on the part of the union, and possibly on the part of PERC, that ratification of the 1980-81 contract, even though the contract year is already over, will give unit members an immediate 9.5% raise.

That may be so, and again, it may not be so. It is debatable. Trips to the bank are not warranted, just yet.

In any case, if the college wins its appeal on Management's Rights, and it will if reason and rationality are to prevail in public sector bargaining in Florida, the amount of the increase obtained in what would then have been declared an illegal manner would have to be paid back. Public funds would have been spent illegally, and they would have to be returned.

Even PERC suggests further bargaining on this point, plus reinstatement of the stay and a bond if agreement can not be reached on some arrangement to protect the college during an appeal.

It must be noted here that the union, after losing at least 15 months of a 9.5% increase for every unit member on the altar of more power for unionism through the threat of impact bargaining, is now showing great interest in obtaining the increase.

The administration and the trustees have made their position clear many times.

No matter how much they might want to grant a raise on humanitarian grounds, they must use what trustee Willard Findling called the "economic lever" to retain the right to timely and orderly management. Not to do so would be to risk destruction of the institution.

They departed from that principle, on humanitarian grounds, last April 1, and their gesture was misunderstood, subject to unnecessary delays, and, even in the current round of bargaining, has been disparaged by the union negotiator. Such a reception is not likely to encourage more of the same.

A recent union newsletter stated, incorrectly, that the Management's Rights decision could only be appealed once -- to the District Court of Appeals. As a matter of legal fact, that is not true, and the possibility of further appeal should not be discounted. ...JK

Volume IV, Number 3 September 28, 1981

First Play Of The Season

Thieves By Herb Gardner

Thieves, a comedy by Herb Gardner (who also wrote A Thousand Clowns) will be presented by the PBJC Players two weekends in October -- the 16th and 18th, and the 23rd and 25th. Frank Leahy is faculty director with Art Musto in charge of the technical end.

The cast is already in rehearsal, and the stage is being transformed into a series of high-rise apartment terraces on the Upper East Side of New York City.

The action takes places on these terraces, as well as on the street below, with thieves of various kinds stealing everything from merchandise to hearts.

The high-rise is an upward mobility move for Martin Cramer who, although originally from the Lower East Side, is now a principal in a posh private school.

His wife, Sally Kaminsky Cramer, on the other hand, teaches in a public school back in the old neighborhood, something both of them had agreed to do when they were first married 12 years ago.

Their marriage is threatened by this difference of opinion.

How their lives intertwine with neighbors on nearby terraces, as well as with the street people below, makes for both laughter and pathos.

Cramer is played by Joey Pouliot, a Vietnam War veteran, who plans eventually to go into acting, writing, directing and producing. Pat Gomersall, married for ten years and the mother of two children, who has a double major: theater and nursing, will play Sally Cramer (a part successfully acted by Marlo Thomas on Broadway).

Cast members are Kim Hite (playing Nancy Gresham) who won the PBJC High School Drama Festival best actress award for two years in a row, and Danny Finch, an apprentice at the Burt Reynolds

Current Students To Register Earlier

In order to avoid the computer problems encountered during the Fall Term registration, the dates for enrolling currently registered students have been changed from Nov. 5-20 to Oct. 29-Nov. 11.

As in the past, registration will be by appointment, based on semester hours completed, according to Charles Graham. The exact time for specific categories has not yet been assigned, and will be published in the Monday Report, placed on bulletin boards throughout the campus and made available to the Beachcomber when completed.

The problems during the Fall Term came about because all three community colleges who have been using our computer--PBJC, Edison and Indian River--were registering at the same time. It had been anticipated that Indian River would have its own computer in operation, and the three colleges have outgrown the capacity of the one computer.

"When all three colleges came on at the same time, each college utilizing several terminals, the computer would go down," Graham says .

"Even when this did not happen, there were unaccustomed delays in operation so that the registration process was slowed down."

To avoid this problem in pre-registration, PBJC has moved its time period up to Oct. 29-Nov. 11, and Edison will begin

New Faculty

. . . At PBJC Central

Alice T. Duxbury, Lantana, Sister Gwen Koza, North Palm Beach, and Jack N. Potenza, Palm Beach Gardens, are among the new faculty members.

Mrs. Duxbury, who will teach in the Communications Department, is originally from Jacksonville, Florida.

She received a Bachelor of Arts and a Master of Arts in English from F.S.U., and taught previously at PBJC for four years. For the past eight years, she has been an instructor with Adult and Community Education.

She and her husband are parents of three teen-age children.

Sister Koza, of the PBJC Mathematics Department, is a native of Hammond, Indiana, received her Bachelor's Degree from Edgecliff College and her Master's Degree from the University of Cincinnati, both in Cincinnati, Ohio. Koza has served as an adjunct instructor at PBJC for the past two years.

Potenza, born in Utica, N.Y., comes to PBJC after six years of teaching physics in Buffalo, N.Y.

He received both his Bachelor's Degree and his Master of Arts, Teaching Degree from the State University of New York, Stony Brook.

His hobbies include racquetball, chess, sailing, real estate, and SCUBA diving.

. . . At PBJC South

The arrival of three new faculty members for the Fall Term includes Wayne DeBee, Boca Raton, Frank A. Guerrera, Lantana, and Linda Summers, Delray Beach.

DeBee returns as a full-time counselor to PBJC South after a year of graduate work and anoth year as a temporary counselor.

He had served PBJC Central as an educational counselor for five years, and prior to this, had counseled in the mental health and rehabilitative fields.

DeBee, originally from Pittsburgh, Pa., received a Bachelor of Arts Degree and a Master of Education Degree from Florida Atlantic University (FAU) and is currently working toward a Doctorate in Administration and Supervision at FAU.

DeBee and his wife, the former Patricia Click, are parents of an eight-month old baby girl.

Guerrera, who has been an adjunct instructor in mathematics and logic at PBJC South for the past two years, was formerly an associate professor at Daniel Webster Junior College, Nashua, N.H. for six years, where he was selected as an Outstanding American Educator.

Originally from Lawrence, Mass., Guerrera attended Boston College, Chestnut Hill, Mass., where he received both his B.S. and M.A. Degrees in Mathematics.

In his leisure time, he enjoys golf and Hi Fi.

Guerrera is married to the former W. Ottilie Allard, and they are parents of five grown children.

Summers, who teaches art and photography, is a native of Washington, D.C., and received both her Bachelor's and Master's Degrees from FAU. Earlier, she attended the New York Phoenix School of Design, Northwestern University, Chicago, and the Instituto Allende - San Miguel de Allende, Mexico, for studies in art.

Summers has been an adjunct instructor at PBJC South for seven years. Prior to this, she served as art director for an advertising agency and supervisor of the Delray Beach Civic Center. The instructor, who is a member of the Society of Photographic Education, has won awards for her photography. She is currently working on her doctorate at FAU.

. . . At PBJC North

Frank S. Mossadeghi, Palm Beach Gardens, is a new member of the full-time faculty.

Before coming to PBJC as an adjunct instructor in 1979, he served as an economic and statistical analyst/manager in New York and London.

Mossadeghi, who teaches Principles of Economics, received his B.A. and M.A. Degrees from the University of Tulsa, Oklahoma, and a second B.A. and Post M.A. work in Econometric Studies at FAU.

He plans to continue his advanced econometric studies as well as social science statistical studies at FAU.

He was elected to the National Scholastic Honorary Society, Phi Kappa Phi, and had his Master's Thesis published by the University of Tulsa.

Mossadeghi is a co-advisor of Phi Beta Lambda, a national business organization at PBJC North, is a member of the Palm Beach Gardens Chamber of Commerce, and treasurer of Grove Park Elementary School PTA, and in addition, belongs to a number of other area business organizations.

His leisure time pursuits include chess, photography, reading, tennis, and jogging.

Frank and his wife, Janet, are parents of three daughters and a son, ranging in age from one to twelve.

The Vote - What Does It Mean?

Monday Report deadlines mean this must be written prior to the meeting called by the United Faculty last Friday afternoon for a "ratification vote" on the 1980-81 contract. Assuming that vote was in favor of ratification, (and that's a safe assumption!), what does this vote mean to the individual unit member?

body knows. It could mean absolutely nothing, or it could mean a change in the status quo perhaps with a pay raise, perhaps not, effective as of some date not yet determined.

The action was hasty, and did not track PERC regulations as to procedure. Whether this is fatal, nobody knows.

The college has asked the court of appeals to reinstate the stay. If the court does this, and if the college then wins its appeal on Management's Rights the "ratification vote" will mean nothing. If the college doesn't win the appeal, we are again in unknown territory.

If the appeals court does not reinstate the stay, the "ratification vote" could conceivably be useful to the union is establishing a date.

One thing the vote will not mean is any change in the Oct. 5 paycheck, and probably no change for some time thereafter.

Perhaps something more might be sorted out by Tuesday, Oct. 6, when a collective bargaining meeting has been set at 3 p.m. in the Credit Union Office. I'm glad I'm not the person responsible for knowing the legal basis on which we will be proceeding at that time. ...JK

Dr. Eissey To Legislature

PBJC North Needs: $25,864,666

Our immediate need for at least two more buildings at PBJC North and for planning money for PBJC South was stressed by Dr. Eissey at a public hearing for the Palm Beach County legislative delegation Tuesday in the Foodservice Center at PBJC Central.

The hearing was the first in a series to be held in different areas of the county prior to the next legislative session in Tallahassee.

Dr. Eissey presented a prioritized list of needs for PBJC North with estimated 1981 construction costs. The list, on this page, contains 11 items and a total of $25,864,666.

He said he realized that not all of the list could be funded in one year, but he hoped to have the campus completed in five to seven years. He asked for the library and the academic labs funding this year.

For PBJC South, Dr. Eissey asked for $100,000 for planning money, explaining the necessity for site planning. Both Dr. Eissey and Dr. Glenwood Creech, FAU president, who followed Dr. Eissey on the agenda, told the legislators that FAU's Engineering Department would not have the required experience to do the site planning.

Dr. Eissey said he believed the legislature should place a moratorium on creation of totally new Community College and University campuses and centers until those already in existence have had at least their minimum needs met.

He pointed out to the legislators that new facilities for both the public schools and the universities are provided with libraries, labs, food service and other essential services as well as classrooms before any students are enrolled.

At community colleges, even after thousands of students have enrolled, as is the case at PBJC North and PBJC South, all these facilities must be acquired during the annual scramble for funding at the legislature.

Policy Change On Annual Leave

At its Sept. 14, 1981 meeting the Board of Trustees approved a change in the accumulation of vacation or annual leave for twelve month regular full time personnel. In the past if any personnel accumulated 44 days he or she would be obligated to take time off during the next month or lose the accumulated vacation time in excess of 44 days.

Under the revised rule it is possible to have more than 44 days accumulated at a given time as long as vacation accumulated does not exceed 44 days on June 30 and December 31 of each year. If any employee is unable to take time off for vacation days in excess of 44 days by June 30 or December 31, that person will have his or her accumulated vacation reduced to 44 days on the day following June 30 or December 31. ...J. An exhibition of the paintings of Paul Aho, Lake Worth, and Connie Rudy and Roger Rudy, West Palm Beach, will be shown in the Humanities Gallery Oct. 5-30, according to Jim Houser. All three are former PBJC students, who are now members of the PBJC adjunct faculty.

Dr. Eissey told of efforts to inform other key legislators of PBJC needs, and said two key people from the governor's office were here Monday to get a personal look at our problems.

"We have to come, hat in hand, and beg for facilities that should have already been provided in some systematic way," Dr. Eissey said.

During questioning about the relationship between PBJC and the school system in regard to vocational classes, Dr. Eissey said the Palm Beach County Coordinating Council was the best such council in the state. He also volunteered his own opinion that all post-secondary education in the county should be through the community college.

He said he believed that the prestige of going to a college was a motivating factor that was lost when post-secondary vocational education was under the public school system.

Pedal Power

No gasoline is required for the three-wheel bikes now being used by maintenance personnel on our 117 acre central campus.

"The bikes not only save energy, they are more convenient," says Ed Cassidy, supervisor or maintenance. "They get you closer to your work."

Three wheelers are preferred because they are slower, and therefore under better control, are slower, and therefore under better control, are more stable, can carry light equipment and stay upright without special parking.

Bruce Boden, supervisor of grounds and landscaping, Don Pearsall, air-conditioning mechanic, Olga Laraway, custodian, Jim Soule, lock and window mechanic, and Christine Carter, grounds department, are others who are using pedal power.

"It's really great when the weather is right," Cassidy says.

In addition to energy savings and convenience, the bikes fit nicely into the physical fitness program on campus.

Southern Exposure

Budding Journalists at PBJC South are taking matters into their own hands, and have organized an effort to publish their own newspaper.

Students in Mrs. Cassandra Hancock's journalism class have planned an initial run of 1,000 and will begin to sell ads to try to pay for the class project.

"They have a full staff, and have chosen Karen Oehme as editor," Mrs. Hancock says, "and they plan to do their own layout and makeup from the beginning. I think it is a terrific class project, and I'm sure they will learn from it."

Other students at South are invited to submit articles and ideas to the new publication.

Information Concerning Early Registration

For Currently Enrolled Students

Early registration for currently enrolled students for the Winter Term will be held Oct. 29 through Nov. 11 for current day and evening students. Day students will register 9:00 AM to 3:00 PM and evening students will register 6:00 to 9:00 PM.

Currently enrolled students may register after but not before their priority dates.

Evening Former and New Students

Former evening students of PBJC may register for the Winter Term Dec. 1-10, 1981 between 6:00 and 9:00 PM. New students may register for evening classes Dec. 2-10 between 6:00 and 9:00 PM.

Former and new students are encouraged to take advantage of the early registration periods in order to avoid the rush of regular registration, Jan. 4 and 5, 1982. Students may have a better choice of classes by choosing the early registration period to enroll.

Evening counselors are available during evening hours (6:00-9:00 PM) Monday through Thursday, to assist evening students with academic, social, or financial problems. ...Jesse Ferguson

Monica Moves To Music

Monica Montagnino, secretary to Jim Brannigan, director of development, will teach a 12-session Dance Therapy class on Thursday and Friday afternoons from 4:30-5:30 p.m. in CJ-9.

Monica, originally from Queens and Long Island, N.Y., has been in this area for almost two years; before coming down, she worked as a secretary to the vice president for public information, Federal Reserve Bank for ten years.

"I've loved to exercise all my life," she says.

"At first, as a child, I played football with my brother and his friends, and did a lot of running.

"Later, I went to gyms and health spas for exercise, and even took Karate for awhile".

After coming to Florida, she began taking a dancercize class, and before long, her instructor asked her to teach several classes for her.

"I enjoyed this, and now I've decided to start teaching on my own," she explains.

"I've put my own program together, and it should be fun for those who sign up."

"I love to bake, so you can see that it's important for me to work off those extra calories," she adds.

Monica and her husband, Warren, a piano technician, like Florida. "I really like working at PBJC", she says.

Hints Of Compromise As Impasse Nears

Collective bargaining between Palm Beach Junior College and the United Faculty, which moved several steps away from agreement in its eighth meeting last month, continued briskly in the same direction in the ninth session last Tuesday.

Attorneys for both sides, Jesse Hogg for the college during the session and Jeff Pheterson for the United Faculty to a reporter after the meeting, mentioned the possibility of an impasse in the near future.

But nobody went quite so far as to declare impasse, and there were even a few hints at compromise that have not been present before. Hogg hinted that the college might be willing to reconsider its demand for a 40 hour week and an extra class in return for some acceptable compromise on management's rights.

Pheterson said the union's position on management's rights was not completely inflexible, and hinted at some meaningful compromise.

The union asked for the same sick leave policy recently granted other PBJC employees. After a caucus, the college bargaining team said they saw no difficulty in making that policy a part of a general settlement.

The union then requested that the sick leave policy be treated outside the collective bargaining framework by board rule, but college bargainers said they would need to take that under advisement.

There was no movement at all on salaries, where the difference recently widened from 10 per cent to 12½ per cent.

Another bargaining session has been set for Tuesday, 3:00 PM, at the Credit Union office.

Order To Show Cause

The session took place against a legal background that has been somewhat altered by an order issued on Oct. 2 by the First District Court of Appeals to the union to show cause within 15 days why the college motion to reinstate the stay on the management's rights decision should not be granted.

The immediate effect of this order is to reinforce the college decision to do nothing about the recent ratification vote taken by the union until after the court rules on this motion.

The more interesting effects are speculative. Since the 15-page college motion to reinstate contained a considerable argument in regard to the merits of the basic appeal on management's rights, does this order indicate an inclination on the part of the court to agree with that argument?

No one but the court can say. But if you are looking for straws in the wind, this particular straw is blowing in a direction favorable to the college position. ...JK

National Dental Exams Here

PBJC Dental Health Services Department hosted the national exam for Certified Dental Technicians Sat., October 10. Fifty-six persons from the eastern U.S. took the all day exam.

There are only 10 sites chosen in the U.S. for the exams, on the basis of the best facilities available for the practical lab work exams. The afternoon session consisted of written tests. To be eligible for the examinations, five years of Dental Tech experience (or four if an accredited school grad), are required.

Want To Go To Europe?

Trustee Approval Sought For Faculty Exchange

An international Faculty Exchange, a program in Postal Service Technology, and a proposed land sale are three of the 28 agenda items facing the trustees Wednesday, 7:30 p.m., in the Foodservice Center at PBJC Central.

The Faculty Exchange Program will be offered in concept only, since considerable work is involved in further planning, and the administration wanted to obtain approval of the board before proceeding.

The program would allow faculty members to exchange teaching positions with faculty members at institutions in other countries, with cultural enrichment for both faculty and students during and after the exchange, improved teaching methods and other goals in mind.

The new program in Postal Service Technology, by contrast, will be ready for its first implementation in January if it is approved by the board.

It is the result of a request from the local post office and is primarily intended to develop the career potential of postal employees, although it will also be open to those not already employed.

An advisory committee has worked with the college in preparing the program, and instructors for such classes as Customer Service I and II and Mail Processing I and II will be provided by the Post Office.

Postal Service Technology will be a two-year, Associate in Science Degree program.

The trustees will be asked to sign a resolution approving a plan by Perini Land and Development Co. which would allow sale of 10 acres of the 20-acre parcel of land now owned by FAU on 45th Street in West Palm Beach.

The plan would allow FAU to utilize the money derived from the sale to build classrooms at PBJC North on PGA Blvd. The two colleges share facilities at the FAU main campus at Boca Raton, and hope to share at PBJC North.

Gemutlichkeit! 11 A.M.-1 P.M.

Translated loosely, the word can be interpreted as meaning "warmth, good cheer, contentment, pleasure or fun."

Such is the hope of the Center for Multi-Cultural Affairs when the Oktoberfest Concert bands will play on the green north of the PBJC Administration Bldg.

Imported for the major Oktoberfest celebrations at their Lantana Road clubhouse in suburban Lake Worth, are the piece brass band from Zuchen, and Peppie's Yodeler Band from Garmisch, Germany, who will lend their enthusiastic sounds to the October 21 concert here.

Open to the public, the free concert is expected to attract a number of hand-clapping, foot-stomping devotees of Germanic folk music.

The cafeteria will serve knockwurst, bratwurst, sauerkraut, German potato salad and German Chocolate cake.

This is the third in a series of Multi-Cultural "folk-fests" which have been instituted by that department. Since the advisory committee consists of sixteen representatives of various countries, we can look forward to future ethnic festivals on campus.

--------NOTICE--------

The bulletin board located outside on the east wall of Continuing Education Bldg, near News Bureau bulletin board, has been designated exclusively for Union business. Please refrain from using this board for other purposes.

The priority system for evening students will be:

Thurs. Oct. 29 6:00-7:00 PM Grads Only - 7:00-9:00 PM Any Currently Enrolled Student
Nov. 2-11 Any Currently Enrolled Student

Currently enrolled students may register after but not before their priority dates.

Evening Former and New Students

Former evening students of PBJC may register for the Winter Term Dec. 1-10, 1981 between 6:00 and 9:00 PM. New students may register for evening classes Dec. 2-10 between 6:00 and 9:00 PM.

Former and new students are encouraged to take advantage of the early registration periods in order to avoid the rush of regular registration, Jan. 4 and 5, 1982. Students may have better choice of classes by choosing the early registration period to enroll.

Evening counselors are available during evening hours (6:00-9:00 PM) Monday through Thursday, to assist evening students with academic, social, or financial problems. ...Jesse Ferguson

Negotiators Ask For Federal Mediation

Negotiators for the college and the United Faculty were unable to agree on wages, hours and the management's rights clause Tuesday, but did agree to disagree and to ask for Federal mediation.

Neither side calls this an impasse, but movement seems very slight, and it is possible mediation may help.

Mediation has occurred three times before in the six-year history of collective bargaining at the college. Once it produced a narrowing of the issues which made subsequent Special Master hearings simpler. Once it produced an agreement. Once it produced nothing.

Earlier in the meeting, college negotiators said they would find little difficulty in making a revised sick leave policy part of a general settlement. They noted, however, that on several occasions the union negotiator has declared that making settlements outside the contract was bad practice.

After consultation, they said, it has been determined not to go outside the contract and the revised sick leave will not be available until there is a signed contract.

A discussion of management's rights served mainly to show the great gulf between the viewpoints of the two sides.

While it is always possible for either side to ask for additional meetings, none are contemplated until the mediation can be arranged.

CLARIFICATION

It has come to our attention that some persons have confused the 10 per cent raise granted on April 1 with the offer of 9.5 per cent in contract negotiations for 1980-81. They are different, and have no relationship.

The 9.5 per cent offer was a part of a contract settlement which included a management's rights clause which would allow the college the same right to manage it had during other contracts. The college at no time agreed to this raise absent an effective management's rights clause.

The 10 per cent plus a one time payment, was granted as a humane gesture by the board and the administration despite the fact that the union had not agreed to an acceptable contract and still has not done so.

The gesture was greeted with suspicion and distrust. It has been belittled, ignored and criticized. The college negotiator said at Tuesday's meeting that it is not likely that such a gesture will be repeated.

OPINION

It is possible that mediation may accomplish something about the remaining differences on wages and hours. It will probably be necessary for the courts to decide the management's rights issue.

A time table for a definitive answer from the courts is not possible, but it is some weeks, possibly some months away.

Readers with long memories may recall that the Monday Report forecast several months of litigation last December at a time when others were saying an answer could come in two or three weeks.

We take no pleasure in being right about the time involved.

It appears that the only hope for a speedy resolution of the deadlock that has gripped us for more than a year is an early decision from the court of appeals. ...JK

PERSONAL

Congratulations to Ethel Fowler, RD (Registered Dietitian) who teaches Nutrition in the Consumer Affairs/Home Economics Dept. at PBJC Central. Ethel recently received the Lorraine Frederick Award for Outstanding Service from the Massachusetts Dietetic Assn. for her "contribution of so much time and effort to the organization..." A native of New Bedford, Mass., Ethel was in instructor at Framingham (Mass.) State College for five years before coming to PBJC in January, 1981.

PALM BEACH JUNIOR COLLEGE
PBJC MONDAY REPORT

Volume IV, Number 7

October 26, 1981

Patricia Wilson Is Acting Director Of Development

Patricia Wilson has been named Acting Director of Development at Palm Beach Junior College to replace James Brannigan, who is leaving the office for reasons of health. Mrs. Wilson, known to everyone as "Pat", is currently a Continuing Education Coordinator directing the work of the Institute of Governments.

"We are fortunate to have someone at the college who is as well qualified as Pat who can step into the office Jim is vacating," Dr. Eissey said.

Prior to her graduation from Kent State in 1973, Pat worked as an administrative assistant to the Vice President, Relations and Development for two years.

Several of her positions after graduation from Kent State, and her subsequent Master's Degree in Rehabilitative Administration from the University of San Francisco, involved both direct and indirect training for her new position.

From 1977-80, for instance, Pat served as Grants Services Specialist and Manager, Assistant to the Administrator of the Department of Health and Rehabilitative Service for the State of Florida.

Prior to coming to PBJC last year, Pat was best known locally for her three years as Director of Evaluation and Training at Palm Beach Habilitation Center, Inc.

In addition to her work as director of the Institute of Governments, Pat assisted Dr. Eissey in his informational work with the legislature at Tallahassee during the last session.

Pat will continue both of these activities in her new position as Acting Director of Development.

Danish Gym Team Here Tomorrow

A free performance of the Danish Gym Team will be sponsored by the International/Intercultural Education Program on Tuesday, Oct. 27, 10 AM in the Gym.

"This performance is not only for the PBJC students and faculty, but we also welcome members of the community to join us for this event", said Dr. Elisabeth Erling.

The team, presently on their annual world tour, is made up of skillful gymnasts--both men and women--most of whom are in their early twenties. They are directed by Erik Flensted-Jensen, assisted by his wife, Lise Flensted-Jensen.

Some of the members of the team are students, and others, representing a number of different careers, have taken time off, without salary of any kind, to take part in these presentations of modern Danish gymnastics and folk dances.

The Danish Gym Team is a non-profit organization approved by the Danish Government. Their home base in the United States has been Kent School, Connecticut, for many years.

Excerpts of press clippings from newspapers include the following remarks: "Fluency, grace and perfect timing kept the crowd breathless...a fantastic performance of rhythm and timing...it was the teamwork, the beauty of movement, and the charm of the Danish Folk Dances that captivated the audience..."

New Sick Leave Amendment

At the meeting of the District Board of Trustees on Wednesday, October 21 the Board approved an amendment to the sick leave rule which allows for payment of sick leave to eligible personnel at the time of termination. The revised rule reads as follows:

> "d. Classified and other non-unit personnel who terminate prior to normal retirement, except for personnel who are discharged for cause, will be eligible to receive payment for accumulated sick leave based upon the following amounts:
> (1) After the completion of six (6) years of continuous full time college service through the completion of nine (9) years of service, an amount equal to 45 percent of the employee's daily salary times the number of accumulated sick leave days at the time of termination;
> (2) After the completion of nine (9) years of continuous full time service, an amount equal to 50 percent of the employee's daily salary times the number of days of accumulated sick leave at the time of termination. Such accumulated sick leave may be transferred to another Florida community college, the Florida Department of Education, the Florida University System or a Florida district school board in lieu of receiving the payment indicated above.
> If service of such non-unit personnel is terminated by death, the employee's beneficiary as designated by the employee for retirement purposes will receive such terminal sick leave payment.

The rule change also allows the unlimited payment of sick leave days at the time of normal retirement. In the past a maximum of 60 days could be paid.

The rule changes do not apply to bargaining unit personnel.

Trustees Act On Major Items

The concept of a faculty exchange program, the Perini Plan for FAU land on 45th Street and a new program in Postal Technology were all approved by the trustees at their regular October meeting Wednesday.

These three actions were discussed in last week's Monday Report.

The board authorized the issuance of Florida Capital Outlay Bonds in the amount of $250,000 for PBJC.

Dr. Eissey announced plans for expenditure of the amount as follows: Roofing repairs and replacements, remodeling of photo studios in HU 50 and 51, outdoor kilns, cafeteria remodeling for lounge area, cooling tower enclosures, and some improvements in students affairs areas.

The board approved a holiday schedule for 1982-83 which follows closely the schedule for this year. Since the 82-83 schedule requires only six days to retain the break from Christmas through New Year's instead of the seven required this year, it was possible to put back the Veteran's Day Holiday on Nov. 11, 1982. There is no Veteran's Day Holiday this year.

The full schedule will be printed in the Monday Report at a later date.

Seventh Anniversary For Institute

Short courses and individual lectures are offered by the Institute as part of Continuing Education at PBJC. Their seventh year of operation begins today, with classes on Mondays and Wednesdays at the Central Campus (Social Science Building, 1:15-4:15) and Tuesdays and Thursdays at the 45th Street Campus (12:30-3:40). Dr. Etta Ress is the director and Anita Furst the administrator. This program brings enrichment in the humanities, sciences and the arts with the assistance of persons retired from the arts, sciences and professions.

For a fee of $15.00 per year, members may take as many classes as they wish, on a space-available basis. Catalogs listing the 1981-82 courses may be obtained at the Office of Continuing Education. For further information call 848-1470 (Monday through Thursday).

New Women's Center Counselor

Jennifer McCormick is already at work doing one-to-one counseling at the Women's Center.

"Displaced homemakers who have lost a spouse through widowhood or divorce, and who need help in adjusting and getting back into the labor market, are an important part of our counseling program," Jennifer says.

"We also see women in crisis situations, and those who are changing careers midstream."

A former airline attendant, Jennifer has a Bachelor's Degree in Psychology and a Master's Degree in Counselor Education from FAU.

"I'm quite excited about working with the Women's Center at PBJC," Jennifer said.

She will be at the main campus Mondays, Tuesdays and Thursdays from 9:30 AM to 2:30 PM. and at the North Gardens office Wednesdays, 8:30 AM-1:30PM and at South on Fridays.

Beachcomber Places Second

The Beachcomber placed second in the Columbia Scholastic Press Association national competition, according to Art Noble, advisor.

"This was for the 1980-81 academic year when Michelle Kurteff and William Meredith were co-editors," Noble said.

The Beachcomber staff participated in the "colleges with more than 2,000 enrollment" category.

Of a total possible score of 1,000, the Beachcomber received 794.

The Opinion/Editorial page was given a high rating, and there were also good comments about the news pages, front page design, and a "hard-working staff."

First Swim Meet Results

PBJC Central won the first Multi-Campus Swimming Meet, held recently at PBJC South, Harris McGirt said.

South came in second, and North took third.

South's relay team won the 100 yard relay, and Central won the 100 yard T-Shirt relay. Individual events won by Central were the 50-yard Women's Butterfly, the 50-yard Men's Butterfly, the 50-yard Women's Backstroke, the 50-yard Men's Backstroke, the 50-yard Women's Freestyle and the 50-yard Men's Freestyle.

South's winning individual events were the 50-yard Women's Breaststroke and the 50-yard Men's Breaststroke.

Scoring was awarded on the basis of eight points for first place relay events and four for individual, with four points relay and two points individual for second place, and third place gaining two and one points respectively.

Point count was 40 for Central, 31 for South and 14 for North. Judges were McGirt and Leonard Bruton of South, Freddie Harrell, Glades, John Jenkins, North and Bob Moss, Central. The next multi-campus activity will be a bowling tournament sponsored by PBJC North on Thursday, November 12 at Garden Lanes, from 2-4:30 PM

Only currently enrolled students at any of the four campuses are eligible to compete.

Mark Your Calendar

Channel 5 TV will present a news segment at 6:30 PM, November 7, regarding the possibiliti of the college having a Performing Arts Center here on our campus.

Firearms On Campus:

(Commissioner of State Department of Education, February 4, 1972)

No recruit officer student will be permitted to remain armed or in manual possession of a firearm within the classroom area of any basic recruit training program conducted under the supervision of the Department of Education except as follows:

(1) Where a facility contains a proper laboratory and is designed to accommodate firearms identification and ballistics experimentation, a firearm may be securely maintained or utilized by a student under supervision and control of a qualified instructor.

(2) When under the close supervision of a qualified instructor, unloaded guns may be used by students when instruction is being given in the handling and use of firearms.

(3) When a recruit officer student successfully completes the required firearms training portion of the basic recruit training program as is required by the Florida Police Standards Board.

All trained law enforcement officers will be expected to use utmost care and caution when wearing their firearms in classrooms.

Decertification Petition Dismissed

As anticipated, the Public Employees Relations Commission has dismissed the petition for decertification of the United Faculty signed by Dr. Richard Yinger and more than 70 other teachers, librarians and counselors.

The commission concluded that the insistence on a management's rights clause to the point of impasse by the college had influenced unit members in their decision to seek decertification.

The dismissal said another petition could be filed after the effects of the unfair labor practice have been dissipated, but did not say when that would be -- except to note that the college had filed an appeal to the commission's order on management's rights, and had not yet complied with the order. ...JK

Morgan To Maracaibo

Betty Morgan will leave November 6 for an eight day visit to Venezuela. She is going with a group from the Baptist Bible Institute from Cottondale, FL, in the state's panhandle.

She will visit health care facilities in Maracaibo and participate in Christian life outreach at a mission in Zulia.

The Nursing Dept. chairman will return November 14, just in time to kick off ADN (Assoc. Degree in Nursing) Week starting the following day, when she'll appear on Call The Doctor on Channel 5 from 10:30-11AM, and take part in Open House in the Allied Health Building.

Everyone is invited from 2-4PM, especially former nursing grads. "We're hoping to form an alumni group" Betty said.

All are happy to hear that Dorothy Rees is home from JFK recovering from her heart attack. "We miss her very much -- she's my right arm," Betty added.

MONDAY REPORT:

Seed Money For Performing Arts Center

College Receives $10,000 Donation

Seed money for a performing arts center has been given by the legal firm of Montgomery, Lytal, Reiter, Denny and Searcy to the PBJC Foundation. Atty. Robert M. Montgomery, Jr., making the $10,000 presentation to Dr. Eissey, said the gift was being made public in the hope that it would stimulate other professional people to be more generous in donations to the community.

"We are all interested in the quality of life in our community," he said, "and there is no doubt that the availability of the finest in music and drama, in opera, symphony, and ballet is of the utmost importance in determining the quality of the people who move here".

As to the need for a performing arts center, Montgomery said that when a nationally known ballet company "tells you they love it here in the Palm Beaches, but they won't come back again if they have to dance on that board floor, that ought to be enough to tell you something has to be done."

PBJC recently renewed its proposal to the community to provide a location for a performing arts center, attempt to gain matching funds from the state for any local donations, and provide a number of other advantages in continuing a successful joint operation after the center is open.

Montgomery said he wanted the community to fully understand and explore this possibility and any others that are offered.

"We need to operate with a full deck when a decision is made," he said, "but we need to make a decision and unite in a common effort, and the need is urgent."

Montgomery's firm recently helped launch a fundraising campaign for Palm Beach Opera with a gift of $25,000.

"Previously, we had kept our gifts private, but by making them public now, we hope to remind others, and perhaps stimulate them to do likewise," Montgomery concluded.

PBJC And Science Museum

The College has joined with the Science Museum and Planetarium for a week-long Computer Fair, with lectures and demonstrations pertaining to present and future use of computers in education.

Exhibits previewing the impact of computers on our everyday lives will be on display throughout the museum from Nov.7-29.

Nearly all manufacturers of micro-computers will be represented. It is a rare opportunity for potential users to compare them side by side.

The 4-day presentation of lectures runs from 1:00 PM thru the evening, each day Nov. 10 thru 13. At 7:00 PM on the 13th there will be an award of door prizes drawn from all who have registered during the week. Top prizes include a Commodore Vic Micro-Computer and a Sharp Pocket Computer.

Wed. Nov. 11 is PBJC Day. Coordinator for the programs is Jim Howell, Instit. Research. Jack Kelly, EDP; Paul Dasher, Science; Buck Rader, Engineering; and Phil Gans, Faculty, Computer Tech. will present afternoon demonstrations and lectures and take part in an evening symposium to be moderated by Howell. Pat Schuette, long time museum supporter, acted as liaison for the two groups.

That computers will be found in every facet of our lives seems to be inescapable. See them in action..or better yet sit down to try them yourself. No experience necessary. If you have considered computers "the enemy", this may change your mind. The Science Museum is at 4801 Dreher Trail N., open daily except Mondays. Phones:832-1988; 832-1348.

On Your Own?

Community counselors, ministers and therapists will lead a two session schedule of panel discussions and workshops aimed at singles -- parents, widows and other adults without partners. "On Your Own" will be presented from 8:30 AM to 4:00 PM on Saturdays, November 14 and 21.

Opening with a "coffee and" type breakfast outside the auditorium lobby, the registrants will disperse into various classrooms for small, group workshops.

A few of the titles follow,: "How to Fight Fair", "I'm OK, You're OK", Divorce Recovery", "Love and Sex", and "Goal Seeking and Creative Relationships". For a complete agenda of the series, contact the Continuing Education Dept.

A partial list of names include Charlotte Wicker, George Foster, Ruth Bolton, Ruthann Salinger, James Hibel, Robert Shaw, Roderick Firth, (all M.A.,Ph.D.). Mack Douglas, Ray Kennedy, Hal Rosencrans, William Larrison, John Button, Dr. Everett McClintock, Kathy Eggleton, Phillip Yorston and Nancy Ellis will also participate.

Purpose of the course is to 1) grow with outstanding counselors and conference leaders, 2) meet other singles from all over the community, 3) learn how many other groups are serving singles, 4) celebrate wholeness on the journey toward responsible relationships, and 5) find that there is a singles family and how to become involved in it.

Coordinator for the course is John Townsend, of Cont. Ed. The fee is $5.00 each day. Call 8006 for registration information.

Collective Bargaining Comments

The series of moves suggested by the United Faculty in its newsletter of Oct. 16, now given the rubber stamp of approval by a small number of our faculty at a meeting Wednesday afternoon, has such a small chance of success that serious comment would not be called for except for the implication that our trustees are not doing a good job, and the ridiculous idea that we could get better ones by electing them.

I do not mean to imply anything negative about the elected boards in our county, but I will state positively that our board of trustees -- for intelligence, for knowledge of their job, for integrity and for ability is unmatched.

The quality possible in the current process of selecting trustees speaks for itself.

At this stage, however, we can't expect much interest from anyone. If the UF can only get "about 20" of its own faculty members out to discuss these things, how much interest will the general public have?

It was not to be expected that the UF would rejoice at the College's appeal to the courts of PERC's ruling on the "management's rights" dispute. It is therefore not surprising that the UF's most recent handout carries on at some length about the College's paying for legal representation "to deny you your 9½% by going to the appellate court" and/or "to deny us the right to collective bargaining".

The truth, of course, is that the College's uses of legal counsel, throughout the six years of its involvement with the UF has always been strictly responsive. With only one exception, (and that, too, was in reality a response), it is the UF which has precipitated the litigation in which the College has been enmeshed.

The entire campaign by the UF to limit expenditures by the College and particularly against the College appeal of the Management's Rights decision should be placed against the context that the UF wants no limitations on its own expenditures, and would almost certainly have appealed the Management's Rights decision had it gone the other way. The trustees followed the due process of law in going to the District Court of Appeals. The union, in my opinion, would have wanted to utilize the same due process procedure.

You also know that the College has not sought to deny anyone the 9½% raise offered in 1980. It was the College which offered this money, and the College has never revoked that offer.

The Union is again in error in saying that the first draft of the administration's legal brief in the current appeal "was rejected by PERC". The case, of course, is no longer before PERC. The brief was submitted to the Court with a request by motion to exceed the normal 50-page limit, and had to be reduced when the Court denied that motion. Such occurrences are routine in litigation.

The UF's complaint that it is being "denied" the legal right to collective bargaining" is not original, but is standard union propaganda. Unions always say such things. The truth is that the College's good faith in dealing with the UF has never been successfully called into question. In the current litigation, even PERC, in the course of ruling against the College's position, affirmed that the position was "well argued" and "certainly not frivolous".

The obvious truth is that the UF is not really after good faith bargaining. It has been getting that for years. What it really seems to want is a degree of status and authority that the collective bargaining law neither contemplates nor provides. ...JK and others

PBJC MONDAY REPORT:

Volume IV, Number 9 November 9, 1981

Coordinated By PBJC Glades

Foreign Service Personnel Study Glades

An intensive study of Glades agriculture by 24 professional and mid-management foreign service personnel from third world countries will take place Nov. 15-25, with PBJC Glades as the central coordinating point.

The participants have served five to fifteen years in such places as Yemen, Niger, Cameroon, Kenya, Mali, Chad, Sri Lanka, Somalia, Tunisia, Pakistan, Mauritania, Swaziland, Zaire, Sierra Leone, Rwanda, Benin and other locations that remain only names on a map for most Americans.

The project is directly in line with the college's increasing interest in International/Intercultural education.

The program is under the direction of Dr. Jerry Williams of the Agency for International Development, who will bring six other staff members from Washington, D.C. to act as faculty and staff for the study.

The purpose of the on-site study is to provide an understanding of agricultural problems and procedures which will be helpful to an overseas worker.

After investigating labor, economics, socio-political involvements, water, land use and pollution control in the Glades, the group will develop a report which can serve as a reference document for use in AID offices for other workers to consult prior to foreign service in agricultural and developmental programs.

At a reception Nov. 15 at the Holiday Inn, Belle Glade, they will meet with farmers, growers, businessmen and professionals who live and work in Belle Glade and surrounding communities.

On Nov. 16, a briefing has been scheduled at PBJC, with five Glades residents who have specific knowledge of the areas they will discuss. A tour of the area will take place in the afternoon.

College Day
85 Are Expected

Eighty-five colleges from all over the country--most of them from the southeastern United States--will be represented at the annual College Day to be held tomorrow, Tuesday, 9 AM to 1 PM in the gym.

The activity will be limited to high school students and their parents from public and private schools throughout the county, according to Gwen Ferguson, unselor and chairman of College Day.

She added that career representatives will not be included in the event this year.

"In the past, we have held a College and Career Day together, but our committee decided not to include careers this year, since most of the high schools have career days of their own," Miss Ferguson pointed out.

The college will sponsor a separate career day next semester for PBJC students.

College Day is sponsored by PBJC in cooperation with the Personnel and Guidance Association of Palm Beach County.

Soroptimist Scholarship

Soroptimists of PB have $150 awards for women over 30 re-entering job markets. Apply before Dec.15 to n.Aid,AD-04, Women's Ctr., or tha Madge Royce, HU-03, Schol.Chmn.

Sporting "Goods"

Fall All-Stars

Three PBJC baseball players appeared in the Florida Junior College Fall All-Star games Nov. 7 & 8 in Orlando.

Mark Baker, pitcher, set a school record last year by appearing in 23 games, pitching 65 1/3 innings, striking out 71 and walking 39. The Twin Lakes grad is a sophomore majoring in Phys. Ed.

Tim Owen, catcher, led the team in offense last year. He was leading hitter with a .375 avg. and also led in home runs (6). He played in 52 games, had 38 RBI's, 11 doubles and 5 triples. The sophomore is an Engineering major, and hails from Lake Worth High.

Robby Thompson, infielder, was second in base steals (22) and doubles (14). Defensively, he plays two positions, short stop and second base. A sophomore majoring in Phys. Ed., he came from Forest Hill H.S.

"These guys have worked hard and deserved to be on the All-Star team. They all played exceptionally well last year, and have been team leaders this year. I am proud of them," said coach Dusty Rhodes.

Pre-Season Exhibition Games

Joe Ceravolo's basketball Pacers may not yet be Division IV contenders, but their initial court debut against PB Atlantic on Nov. 4 showed promise.

Two minutes into the game, the Pacers jumped to an 8-0 lead and never relinquished it. Top scorer with 20 points was Danny Sheldon. Dwayne Turner, a former Twin Lakes forward with recent AAU experience, scored with 14 points and Reggie Tribble and Elroy Williams added 10 each to the total. Final was 89-63.

There will be a second meeting between the Pacers and PB Atlantic Nov. 11, here, at 7:30 PM.

Television And Radio Schedules

Jane Coleman's Palm Beach Report on Channel 2 will have a segment on Nancy Goodwin's (and Cont. Ed's) Senior Players visit to the Eason Nursing Home. The segment will air Nov. 13 at 10:30 PM, with a repeat Saturday, the 14th, 2:30 PM.

* * * * *

Betty Morgan will make appearances on Channel 5's Call the Doctor from 10:30-11 AM, Sunday, Nov. 15; on Channel 12's Good Morning Palm Beach at 6:30 AM, Monday the 16th; on WDBF Radio's Ginny Stephens' Show (Delray) from 10-11 AM on Tuesday the 17th; and on WPBR Radio's Aspinwall Show from 11 AM to noon on Thursday, the 19th, in conjunction with the observance of Associate Degree in Nursing Week.

Ethel Fowler appeared on WJNO's Mike Levine Show on Thursday, Nov. 5, and Celeste Beck will be a guest on the WJNO Mike Levine Show from 1-3 PM, Nov. 15.

Topics and participants are: Local History; Dr. J. R. Orsenigo, past president, Glades Historical Society, and a resident for 22 years. Labor Recuitment; Lester Dean, Jr., head of labor recruitment for Florida Fruit and Vegetable, Inc. Labor Organizations; Don Mason, attorney with Florida Rural Legal Services. Agriculture and Soils; Ken Shuler, Agricultural Extension Agent for western Palm Beach County. Water Management and Lake Okeechobee; Dr. Wilbur Curless, now with the PB County school system developing programs that cover these subjects, and formerly with PBJC Glades.

Dwyer On Foundation Board

William T. Dwyer, newly elected member of the PBJC Foundation Board, is a man whose responsibilities include representing his company in State, County and community affairs. Besides active participation on the Foundation Board, he has served as guest lecturer for community programs here at the college.

The VP of Pratt & Whitney, Government Products Division, brings years of expertise to his position. He has served the United Way, the Economic Council, the Jupiter-Tequesta and West Palm Beach Chambers of Commerce, and the Commission on the Future of Florida's Public Universities.

He has also been involved with FAU, the Palm Beach Festival, the Council of the Arts, Urban League and the South Florida Coordinating Council.

The Notre Dame graduate also has assisted the Public Broadcasting of PBC, the U. of Notre Dame Club of the Palm Beaches, the Foundation for the Arts of PBC, and the Habilitation Center.

Awards include the U.S. Jaycees Distinguished Service Award (1975), Knight of the Year by the Lighthouse Council 6569 Knights of Columbus, and the Bar Association's Liberty Bell Award in 1980.

As recently as last Monday, at the Breakers, Dwyer received the 1981 Human Relations Award from the Institute of Human Relations of the American-Jewish Society. Previous recipients include Robert Lilly of AT&T, David Rockefeller, Jos. Albritton, of the late Washington Star, and D.D. Eisenhowever (of WW 11 and presidential fame.)

He, his wife and eight children have lived in Tequesta since 1962, when he joined Pratt & Whitney. We welcome a man of his stature to the Foundation Board, and look forward to his sharing in our growing future.

Noticias

The International/Intercultural Education Program, under the auspices of the Department pf Continuing Education, plans to offer a non-credit course in Conversational Spanish, open to Faculty and Staff, during the Winter Term.

The course would be offered twice a week for eight weeks during the lunch hour, sometime between 11:30 and 1:30 PM. The approximate cost would be $16 per student. No fee waivers would be offered.

Anyone interested in this course, please call 8086 or 8087. In order to offer the course, a minimum of 18 students must be enrolled.

PALM BEACH JUNIOR COLLEGE
MONDAY REPORT

Volume IV, Number 10

November 16, 1981

Of PLATO, Gooch And Votrax

Meeting Of Florida PLATO Users At The College

In the State of Florida, there are approximately thirty or more sites using the PLATO programs for educational enhancement. PBJC is one of them, and on Friday, November 20, the college will host the FPUG (Florida PLATO Users Group) from 8:30-4:30. THE FSU Computing Center is the sponsoring group.

PLATO is the acronym for Programmed Learning for Automatic Teaching Operations. It is a "main-frame" type of computer developed by educators for education, and has been in wide use for twenty years. There are PLATO networks in Europe, South Africa and several in the U.S., with an estimate of more than 15,000,000 student terminal hours accumulated, at the rate of about 500,000 hours per year.

There will be demonstrations of PLATO hardware (including a Gooch synthesizer, named after a real Mr. Gooch who developed it for Music notation), a Votrax (voice synthesizer), and the 110 stand-alone delivery system. PLATO uses a telephone line for data transmission.

More than 9,000 hours of taped programs exist for PLATO users, a veritable mountain of knowledge. According to members of FPUG, it benefits slow learners or those in need of remedial help as well as being of enormous benefit to advanced education. In the average case, where PLATO has been used as a teaching adjunct, grade levels have been raised by 1½ years after only 20 hours of terminal use.

A raft of glowing anecdotes contain a frequently repeated theme...that many young students who had previously been truant or guilty of vandalism, have been "turned around" by the immediacy of response and gratification received when answers are correct, and have volunteered that "we aren't made to stand in front of a class and be embarrassed when we're wrong." PLATO may not only correct the math question, but should there be a mis-spelling in the answer, that too will be pointed out by underlining the correct spelling. Often, the confidence gained carries over into another class, leading to subsequent successes.

Of the 64 terminals in PB County, PBJC has eight, with 1,500 students using them. SC-17 is the meeting site, Bill McCracken has info at 8132.

Golden Anniversary Slogan Winners Named

Thanks to all the slogan senders for the Golden Anniversary Contest. Fifty-eight suggestions were submitted with the North burying everyone with quantity (and quality, too, since they won 1st place).

Ottis Smith, Sarah Pappas and Frankie Davis brainstormed a number of entries, followed by 2nd place winner Flo Fitzwilliam of the Development Office, and Betty Linn of the News Bureau taking 3rd place.

Award winners know what they were competing for...it's too embarrassing to repeat...but if you won the certificate, it's F.Y.O.F., folks! (That's furnish your own frame..we never promised you a rose garden, did we?)

Determining the winner involved tallying votes based on 6 points for each 1st, 5 for each 2nd and so on. "PBJC-50 Years of Golden Service 1933-1983" accumulated 17 points for the Smith-Pappas-Davis combine, with PBJC-"A Golden Opportunity" gathering 16 for Flo, and "A Half Century of Progress at PBJC" bringing in 14 for Betty.

The calendar is beginning to take shape though nothing is yet ready to be told, according to Dr. Lis Erling, Anniversary Committee Chairman. She added that Reuben Hale has accepted the challenge to design an appropriate "logo" for the theme.

Another possibility being bruited about is an oral history to be taped by the earliest class members and faculty.

Trustees Advance Agenda

A first look at planning for mandatory entrance and exit testing will be given to college trustees at a regular board meeting, Wednesday, November 18 at 7:30PM in the Foodservice Center at PBJC Central.

The program is the college response to CSHB 1689, passed by the legislature in 1979, and has been under intensive planning at statewide and local levels since that time.

Dr. Eissey will brief the board on the testing program, and the board is also being asked to approve an administrative directive regarding mandatory placement testing to begin in the Fall Term, 1982.

Although a total of 41 items appear on the agenda, all except eight are involved with construction, finance and bids.

100 Per Cent Is Perfect!

For the second consecutive year, 100% of the Occupational Therapy Assistant (OTA) graduates from PBJC passed the national certification exam, said John Schmiederer.

"We are proud of this achievement, which indicates we have a good OTA program here, with fine instructors."

The two year OTA program has been developed under the guidelines of the American Occupational Therapy Association. Occupational therapists and assistants are health care professionals who serve a wide range of people with varying types of mental and physical disabilities. They combine a strong interest in medicine with the physical and social sciences, and demonstrate the ability to teach and communicate well with handicapped persons.

North's Distinguished Student Of The Month

Named for November Student of the Month is Karen L. Moates, a Jupiter second-year student who will graduate in December, '81. Though a housewife and mother of a 12 year old son, Karen has managed a grade point average of 3.92.

She will continue at FAU, with plans to teach at the junior high school level. While admitting it has been hard work to get through her studies at the North campus, she feels it is worth the effort, and can understand what her future students will feel.

News Of Shamu And Mickey

Sea World is offering a "Double Discount" program from November 21, 1981 to January 17, 1982. Employees who visit Sea World with their new Shamu's Dolphin Club Card during this time will receive a 30% discount instead of the regular 15% discount. New cards are available in the Personnel Office.

Walt Disney's Magic Kingdom Club membership guides for 1982 are also available. These guides give information on special ticket purchases, vacation and travel adventures, along with full details on the entry of the "Tencennial" Sweepstakes which will be given away from December 1981 through September 1982. Guides can be picked up at the Personnel Office.

Master Plans Program Set

PBJC will be represented by Dr. Eissey, trustee Willard Findling, all the Vice-presidents the college and Dr. Patricia Dyer at a meeting called by the State Community College Master Plan Steering Committee at Broward CC Wednesday.

The meeting is the first of five planned throughout the state, and Broward, Miami-Dade and Florida Keys will also be making presentations during the all day session.

Each college will be given an hour to give an overview of: 1) Where it is now and where it hopes to be in five years. 2) Its major concerns now and for the next five years. 3) Its views concerning nature and scope of the state Master Plan.

Attending each of the five meetings planned throughout the state will be a member of the Master Plan Steering Committee, a member of the Post-Secondary Education Planning Comm., and a member of the Community College Coordinating Board.

The development of a state Master Plan for community colleges is an important part of the efforts instigated by the state legislature to bring about coordinated development of higher education in Florida.

"Nice Guys Finish Third"

With a nod to Leo Durocher's famous line, we note that Beachcomber photographers Ted Hurt and Bruce McDowell took third place awards in the Florida Community College Press Association State Competition held Oct. 29-31 in Miami Beach.

Hurt, photo editor of the student publication, placed third for a news shot and McDowell received third for sports, both taken in the 1980-81 academic year.

McDowell, who will graduate PBJC in May, 1982, with an Associate Degree in Journalism, plans to attend Florida Southern College, Lakeland, for a degree in Public Relations.

rt, who works for a Palm Beach art gallery, will graduate in 1983, and has plans to study for a degree in Photography, with a minor in Business at the U. of F., Gainesville.

Turn About Is Fair Play

Doctors Hospital Auxiliary has donated more than $111,000 to PBJC for nursing scholarships over the past seven years, according to Hamid Faquire, director of Financial Aid.

"We're very appreciative of their substantial scholarship help, and now we have an opportunity to help them help us," Hamid said.

The Volunteers will hold a White Elephant/Bake Sale Tuesday, Nov. 24 from 8AM to 4PM in the lobby of the main building on 10th Avenue North, with all proceeds going to the scholarship fund, of which PBJC is the chief recipient.

Everyone at the college is cordially invited to attend, and the Auxiliary is also asking help in collecting items for the White Elephant tables (no clothing or large items, please). If you have things to donate, please bring them to the Financial Aid Office through Friday, Nov. 20. An excellent way to clear out those extra candlesticks you'll probably never use.

Mediation Scheduled

Federal Mediator Robert C. Leitner, Ft. Lauderdale, has scheduled a mediation session between PBJC and the United Faculty for Dec. 1, at 3PM at the Federal Bldg., West Palm Beach.

Although no formal impasse has been declared, recent negotiation between the college and the union produced little movement, and both sides agreed to try mediation.

PALM BEACH JUNIOR COLLEGE
MONDAY REPORT:

Volume IV, Number 11 November 23, 1981

Freeze On Hiring, Travel, Purchasing

College May Lose $200,000 In State Funds

Dr. Eissey has ordered a freeze on hiring, travel and purchasing until more can be learned of the impact of cuts in funding proposed by Gov. Robert Graham. He was to attend a meeting in Orlando Friday to find out more about the governor's plan to cope with a shortfall in tax revenues expected this year.

Speaking at the close of the Trustee's meeting Wed. night, Dr. Eissey said he had been informed that community college funding statewide could be cut by more than $5 million, and that PBJC might lose $200,000.

He said that the PBJC budget is tight, and that most of it is already encumbered for expenditures that cannot easily be reduced.

He pointed out that 80% of our budget is in salaries, about 14% in utilities and part of the remainder is in fixed expenses.

"We have very little room left in which to absorb this kind of a reduction," he said.

Earlier in the meeting, Dr. Eissey gave a brief introduction to the extensive changes which will be occurring at the college as a result of placement tests and entrance tests for the junior year at college mandated by the 1979 legislature.

The Monday Report will carry articles in future issues about college planning for the quality enhancement program. On page 2 in this issue is the text of an administrative directive approved by the board at Wednesday's meeting.

After considerable discussion developed concerning the method of the selection of architects, the board tabled architect selection for the Student Services Facility until a special meeting, announced for Wed., Dec.9, 1:30 PM.

The special meeting was called primarily to award bids for the parking lot at PBJC Glades, and the architect was added to that agenda.

After Wednesday's meeting, Dr. Eissey said he hopes the college will be able to absorb the loss of state funds without serious curtailment, and the temporary freeze was instituted to give time to find out where we stand.

Community Colleges Develop Master Plan

The needs and concerns of the college as we face the future were outlined by Trustee Willard Findling, Dr. Eissey, Dr. Graham, Dr.Haynes, & Dr.Tate in a public hearing at Broward CC Wed. AM.

The hearing was called by leaders of the state community college system who are developing a new Master Plan for community college education in Florida. It was the first in a series of meetings to be held in all sections of the state.

Each of the PBJC speakers covered a wide range of topics including, but definitely not limited to: the impact of the new testing procedures, quality enhancement in general, better salaries, physical plant needs at North, South, Glades and Central, counseling and other student services.

Dr. Eissey added variety to the short meeting through means of a short slide show giving a brief picture of the college as it is today.

Mr. Findling spoke of the major concerns of the trustees in setting policy for the college.

Dr. Graham and Dr. Haynes were each concerned with the impact on students, faculty and counselors of the new testing programs now being planned and with many other problems and opportunities in their respective areas.

Dr. Tate spoke primarily about adequate funding.

Every speaker mentioned at least once the need for some plan for community colleges to have adequate funding for a new campus at the time the state

PBJC North Is Planning Its Future

More than 100 leaders of business, industry and government in the northern part of Palm Beach County have agreed to attend an all-day workshop Tuesday, Nov. 24 at the Jupiter Hilton Hotel to help Palm Beach Junior College North plan its future.

"We are overjoyed with the response to our request for time from the lives of these busy people," says Dr. Ottis Smith, PBJC North Provost. "We have 110 positive responses, and some who will be out of town on that date have called to express their interest and their willingness to help in the future."

The workshop is one of the results of a steering committee of citizens which has been working with the staff of PBJC North as it plans for the best and fullest use of its new campus on PGA Blvd., which will be ready for use next year.

"We will have every facet of life in the north county represented," Dr. Smith says, "and we hope to obtain some real input as to present and future needs."

An expert in such workshops, Dr. Robert Berringer, president of Brookdale Community College, Lincroft, N.J., will direct the investigative phase of the workshop, beginning at 9:45 a.m.

Dr. Berringer, a North Carolina native whose 17 years in community college administration includes several years of service in Florida, will be introduced by Julie Noble, of Bankers Land Co.

The meeting gets underway at 9 AM, and introductory remarks by Dr. Smith, a welcome from Dr. Eissey, and an historical overview of the North campus by Dr. Betty Woolfe, plus a statement of mission by Dr. Sarah Pappas, will precede the worshop phase.

A working lunch is scheduled at noon, and an evaluation and concluding remarks are scheduled at 2:15 to 2:30 p.m.

It is hoped that one of the outcomes of the meeting will be the formation of a permanent advisory council for PBJC North.

"This meeting is a sample of the kind of cooperation with the community necessary if Palm Beach Junior College is going to fulfill its overall mission in our county," says Dr. Eissey, who was directly involved in inviting north county leaders to the workshop.

"The response to our invitation has been fantastic," he said. "We are looking forward to a great meeting."

Heart Risk Screening Results

The recent American Heart Association screening tests held here Sept. 15-Oct. 7 have been tabulated. Of 376 college personnel and students tested, 76 were referred to their doctors for such risks as elevated triglycerides, cholesterol, sugar, blood pressure and abnormal EKG. The following chart shows the ages and totals referred in each group.

AGE BRACKET	Number Screened	Total Referred
18 - 20	56	3 (5.36%)
20 - 29	81	12 (14.81%)
30 - 39	58	6 (10.34%)
40 - 49	57	13 (22.81%)
50 - 59	60	18 (30. %)
60 - 69	49	20 (40.82%)
70 and over	15	4 (26.67%)

Mary Cannon, college nurse and coordinator of the program said "we have once again provided a valuable service to our college students, faculty and staff."

Administrative Directive On Entry-Level Testing

The provisions of CSHB 1689 stipulate that appropriate tests be administered upon entry to the freshman year for the purposes of guidance and placement. The rationale behind the requirement is that since first-time-in-college students vary a great deal in their mastery of basic skills, care should be taken to assure that they receive academic instruction that matches their educational ability. An effective way to achieve the desired match is to use tests to determine a student's level of achievement in communication and computation skills and then to provide appropriate academic advisement. The following directives are established:

1. Beginning the Fall Term 1982, the American College Test (ACT) shall be used in the initial placement of students in mathematics, English and reading courses. (During the first year of this program, the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) scores will be accepted and converted into their ACT equivalent scores.)

2. Each first-time-in-college student entering a credit program shall be tested for placement purposes.

3. A student may not take a mathematics or English course which is higher than the level that is indicated by the placement test results.

4. Developmental-level courses in mathematics, English and reading shall be for institutional credit.

5. The placement scores for the ACT for mathematics, English and reading courses shall be those given in the following table:

ACT Cut-Off Scores

MATHEMATICS			ENGLISH
Score	%ile (National)	Course	Score	%ile (National	Course
0-15	0-45	Developmental Math (MAT 1002)	0-16	0-38	Developmental English (ENC 1000)& Reading (REA 1105)
16-21	46-70	Intermed.Algebra (MAT 1033)	24 & above	90	Honor's English (ENC 2301)
22 & above	71	College Algebra (MAC 1104)
25 & above	80	Trigonometry & Analytic Geometry (MAC 1144)
28 & above	90	Calculus I (MAC2411) (High School Trigonometry Prereq.)

6. ACT scores from high school testing will be accepted. (The test is administered in the secondary school systems on national dates established by ACT Corporation).

   The ACT will be administered on Palm Beach Junior College campus at frequent intervals throughout the year.

   The student will bear the cost of the test.

Palm Beach Junior College is committed to providing appropriate academic advisement for every student who enrolls at the college.

PBJC MONDAY REPORT

Volume IV, Number 12

December 7, 1981

Getting Ready For The Fall Term

Academic Advising Workshop On Friday Afternoon

The college will be taking another in the series of steps preparing for greatly expanded placement testing on Friday, Dec. 11, when David Crockett, vice president of the American College Testing Division of Educational Services will conduct a workshop, arranged for us by Student Affairs.

Recent decisions have made it certain that placement testing, beginning with the Fall Term, will result in mandatory placement of many students (perhaps as many as one half of all students entering credit programs) in developmental classes carrying institutional credit.

The test of choice will be the ACT, (with SAT accepted for the first year), so it is important that we learn as much as we can about the ACT.

The workshop, however, will cover much more.

Crockett is an authority on many phases of academic advising, and has directed 22 national academic advising seminars attended by more than 2,200 college administrators and faculty from 700 campuses.

He served as editor of two major resource documents designed to assist college personnel in improving the advising process. These works are the most comprehensive set of materials assembled on academic advising. He has also authored several articles related to advising.

Friday's workshop, 1-4PM, in Allied Health Lecture Hall, will examine some basic assumptions about academic advising, review its current status and relationship to student retention. A working definition of academic advising will be formulated.

Participants will explore an academic advising model based on a logical and sequential series of steps designed to facilitate student growth.

Responsibilities and characteristics will be discussed. Using filmed simulated situations, participants will discuss the skills and techniques necessary for effective advising. Basic elements to develop successful advising programs will be identified and discussed.

All faculty, chairpersons, and other personnel connected in any way with advising are encouraged to attend.

County Cultural Heritage Recognized

Representatives of ethnic organizations throughout the county will be honored at a reception in Conference Room C, (formerly the Board Room). PBJC will play host to such groups as the Center for International/Intercultural Affairs, Students for International Understanding (SIU), college trustees and ethnic group committee members and advisory groups.

Prior to the 3PM reception on Tuesday, the Advisory Committee for the Center for Multi-Cultural Affairs will have a business meeting, to be joined later by the SIU membership at 2PM in CJ-8.

The Center for Multi-Cultural Affairs has, in the past year, brought to the central campus such events as Polish, Hispanic and German Days, with entertainment and food specialties of the respective countries. Programs such as "Shogun" and the recent appearance of the Danish Gym Team were also due to their efforts.

PBJC is a member of the Florida Collegiate Consortium for International Intercultural Education. Dr. Erling heads our committee with John Townsend serving as liaison. Center advisory members include representatives from 18 countries and cultures.

Freeze Relaxed

The emergency freeze on hiring and purchasing has been relaxed, since it appears the amount of funding the college expected to lose will be less than estimated. Dr. Eissey told of the possible adoption of a number of suggestions made at a meeting in Orlando of community college presidents, to spread the cutbacks more evenly throughout all state agencies and tap reserve funds, as well as other possibilities.

THE BOOKSTORE WILL BE BUYING BACK USED BOOKS ON THE FOLLOWING DATES AND HOURS:

Dec. 15,1981 (Tues) 8:00 A.M. - 12:00 P.M. 1:00 P.M. - 3:30 P.M. 6:00 P.M. - 8:00 P.M.

According to all who attended, the FACC convention held recently in St. Petersburg s an informative, stimulating exchange of ideas and opportunities. From PBJC, delegates were Donna DiSesa, Al Fellner, Freddie Jefferson, Rosaline Kochel, Gordon Kramer, Frank McLaughlin, Jeanette Sanders, Dot Suttle, Jim Tanner, Marily Vasquez, Pat Wilson and Dr. Joan Young.

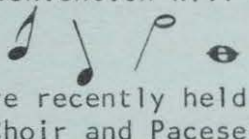
Also participating were Dr. Samuel Bottosto, Dr. Edward Eissey, Willard Findling, Otis Harvey, Ron Moses, Dr. Sarah Pappas, Dr. Robert Suttle and Dr. Betty Woolfe.

There will be a joint regional meeting in Palm Beach April 16 & 17 of the Faculty Commission and The Curriculum & Instruction Commission. Joan Young is the elected secretary-treasurer of the Faculty Commission for 1981-82. Chairman of the Curriculum and Instruction Commission is Sarah Pappas.

Appointed as judge for the Student Development Exemplary Practice Awards Finalist Presentation is Frank McLaughlin, PBJC's chapter FACC president. He will serve at the Student Development Practioners Workshop to be held in May at FAU.

Next year, the FACC state convention will be in Jacksonville.

A Time For Music



Two successful concerts were recently held featuring PBJC's Brass and Woodwind ensembles, and Pat Johnson's Concert Choir and Pacesetters. Upcoming is the Senior Choral Group Concert Dec. 12 at 7PM in the auditorium. According to David Chandler, director, the singers, all of whom are 55 or older, "wake up singing", continue "in the shower" and "sing all the way home after practice."

A Baroque Chamber Orchestra made up of professional musicians will perform and accompany the chorus on several arrangements. John Townsend, Coordinator, negotiated the loan of $11,800 organ, which will be played by Mrs. Eileen Goodwin of Trinity Methodist,Palm Beach Gardens. Thanks to Blackwell Baldwin of Boca for that. The Gloria by Vivaldi is scheduled, as well as Adagio in G for orchestra & organ. Tickets $3, $2 for children.

Leftover? Maybe. Left Behind? Not Often.

Six members of the faculty and staff got the "bird" for Thanksgiving, thanks to their prowess in the annual Turkey Trot held on campus. Helen Auchterlonie and Max Faquir won a turkey for 1st place finishes, with Bobbie Knowles'and Hamid Faquir's 2nd good for a turkey roll, and chickens went to Barbara Matthews and Richard McCook, as 3rd place finishers. Roy Bell presided over the annual race. Students Ann Filipkowski and Jeff Davis came in first, with Ari Alkio and Debbie Knupp 2nd, and Betsy Smythe and Mark Grebs bringing home chickens. Congratulations to all those fit people.

Mediation Closed, New Session Set

After a thorough examination including closed sessions with negotiators from the college and the United Faculty, Federal Mediator Robert C. Leitner concluded Tuesday that a 1981-82 contract would be very difficult to reach until litigation on the 1980-81 contract is over.

He closed the hearing subject to recall at any time the negotiators feel his services might be useful. Leitner said current contract talks were difficult because "both sides are looking over their shoulders at the First District Court of Appeals."

Though there was no move to begin current contract talks again, the two sides are planning to meet Dec. 10, 3 PM at the Credit Union to discuss what action will be taken on a temporary settlement of the 1980-81 contract pending a decision by the court of appeals.

PALM BEACH JUNIOR COLLEGE

MONDAY REPORT

Volume IV, Number ~~12~~ 13 December 14, 1981

Accreditation Affirmed

The College Delegate Assembly of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools reaffirmed the accreditation of PBJC Dec. 9 during its annual meeting in Dallas.

The Committee on Standards and Reports made the recommendation that PBJC had satisfactorily completed its institutional self-study program and recommended that accreditation be reconfirmed to the Executive Council of the Commission, who agreed with this report and forwarded it to the Commission on Colleges, who, in turn made a favorable recommendation to the Delegate Assembly.

The chief basis for reaffirmation is the quality of the institution's self-study program, as reflected by its Self-Study Report. It is apparent that our self-study program and subsequent Self-Study Report met with the approval of the Southern Association; therefore I should like to take this opportunity to recognize and thank the members of the Steering Committee, the Standards Committees, the Board of Trustees, students and other certified and classified staff members who generously contributed to the success of this decennial effort. ...Paul W. Graham

Training Workshop Report

A total of 75 office personnel attended a workshop on Friday, Dec. 4 in the Allied Health Lecture Hall. The session was scheduled for 6 hours from 8:30AM to 3:30PM. A late afternoon count revealed that at least 14 personnel either had to return to duty or found the 6-hr. workshop too long.

Whatever the case, 58 actually completed the evaluation forms at the end of the session. Of the 58, 55 completed them so that a summary evaluation was possible. All rated the program content as good or excellent, with 2/3 (37) declaring the content excellent. The seminar leader also received all good and excellent ratings with 39 rating him as excellent.

The meeting room and facilities also rated high although there were several fair ratings with a few comments that the room was too cold.

Overall ratings indicate that the first workshop of this type was very well received by the participants. ...J. Schneider

December 18 Meeting

All full-time personnel should have received an invitation by now to attend the annual Fall Term meeting in the auditorium Friday at 10:30AM. Opening the meeting will be our resident male quartet, the Earth Tremors, resurrected after a year's absence due to the retirement of Jim Miles. With the addition of Dave Chandler, adjunct faculty member who conducts the Senior Chorus, they are off if not running again and have promised to do at least one number, possibly two, with their famous fractured lyrics. You won't believe it 'til you hear it, and maybe not then.

Dr. Eissey will give us a brief state-of-the-college message, followed by a speech recorded during the last FACC convention. We have heard it, and you won't believe that unless you hear it, either. And maybe not then.

Temporary Settlement

A temporary settlement of the 1980-81 contract between the college and the United Faculty was agreed to at a collective bargaining session Thursday afternoon.

The agreement calls for a special interest bearing account to be established into which the 9.5 per cent pay increase for unit members will be deposited until the appeals court rules on Management's Rights. If the college wins its appeal, the money will go back to the college. If the college loses its appeal, the funds will be distributed to the individual unit members.

Beginning date of the salary deposit will be Sept. 28, 1982.

Details of the agreement have not yet been worked out, but the idea of establishing a special account for the funds was accepted by both college and union representatives.

Trustees Meeting

College trustees approved a plan whereby the Water Management District will deposit 40,000 yards of land fill on the northwest corner of the PBJC Central Campus, at the December meeting of the board, Thursday, 1 p.m.

The fill will come from dredging operations on the West Palm Beach canal, and will be used to make some desirable landscaping changes considered too expensive before now.

The district has agreed to shape, fertilize and seed the fill area.

The board agreed to administration recommendations for architects on the Student Services Facility project, but will study the method of choosing architects for a possible change to be considered at the January meeting.

THE BOOKSTORE WILL BE BUYING BACK USED BOOKS ON THE FOLLOWING DATES AND HOURS:

Dec. 15-17 from 8 AM-noon, 1-3:30 PM, 6-8PM
Dec.18 from 8 AM-noon and from 1-3:30 PM ONLY.

A USED BOOK BUYER FROM THE NEBRASKA BOOK CO. WILL BE IN THE BOOKSTORE TO TRY AND BUY BACK ANY TEXTS THAT THE BOOKSTORE IS UNABLE TO BUY BACK DUE TO OVERSTOCK, OUT OF PRINT, OR CHANGE OF TEXT. HE WILL BE IN THE BOOKSTORE ON DEC. 16, 17, AND 18.

"One Of The Best"

Dental Millage Update Wins Full Approval

The status of PBJC's dental hygiene program has been raised from conditional approval to approval, according to action taken at the December meeting of the American Dental Association Commission on Dental Accreditation.

"Thanks to the generosity of the people in the community who voted for the 1980 millage election, it was possible to purchase updated equipment in the Dental Health Services Department" said Dr. Eissey.

He added that the conditional accreditation had to do primarily with outmoded equipment and its maintenance and nothing to do with the program.

Remodeling and new equipment cost $650,000. Dr. Hal Hutchins says the dental facility is now one of the best in the country.

The Dental Health Services dept. has been at the college almost 20 years, but many people are not aware of what is offered to the community. For example, more than 3,000 had their teeth cleaned by students in the past year, and 1,086 were seen by dentists in the Atlantic Coast Dental Research Clinic, a non-profit organization offering continuing education for its 114 dentist members. However, the primary purpose of the dept. is still education.

Forty modern reclining chairs, of the type used in the new "sit-down" dentistry, are new, as well as air-driven hand pieces used in cleaning teeth, mounted view boxes for x-rays, 3 x-ray rooms, and a machine which takes x-rays of the entire mouth externally.

Dental Lab Tech, which involves bridges, crowns, etc. has been expanded and reworked to provide separate labs for casting, ceramics and plaster.

Atlantic Coast Dental Research Clinic has also been refurbished with ten new chairs and other new equipment. Persons with dental conditions which may be of value to the continuing education program of dentists, or to the Dental Assisting program, are seen in this lab. A minimal fee is charged for services, and patients are screened to determine who shall be accepted.

PBJC recently hosted the national certification exams for Dental Lab Technologists, where 56 people from S.E. states spent a full day using our facilities, one of 10 in the entire U.S.

We Are Setting A New Winter Term Record

The numbers are not yet firm, and certainly not complete, but as this is written on Thursday AM, it appears that registration for the current term is remarkably similar to that of last year.

We show a slight increase in numbers ---10,746 this year to 10,683 last year---and that increase will widen slightly after senior citizen registration Wednesday afternoon.

We show an even healthier increase in registered hours--84,186 to the 79,874 of last year. This will be reflected in larger FTE numbers, and up to a certain point, that is good news for the college in terms of funding. With other funding news being as bad as it is, we can use any good news on that front.

Distribution among centers also appears close to last year, with North's increase of 118 the most notable change in these preliminary figures.

Since last Winter Term was the largest in the history of the college, it appears that we will again have a record-setting registration for the current term.

We will wait for better figures before making the story available to the news media, since they like their news to be a bit firmer than we can make this at the present time, but we thought you'd like to know that we seem to be going just a bit above our previous all-time high in the Winter Term.

Fair Volunteers Needed

The South Florida Fair will open Friday, January 22 and run through Sunday, January 31. The gates open week-days and Saturdays from 10 AM to 10 PM and on Sunday from 1 PM - 10PM.

Exhibits must be manned during the hours the buildings are open to the public. Consequently, volunteers are needed to staff the College exhibit. If you are willing to donate some time, please contact Dr. Erling at 8086 or 8087.

Each volunteer will be provided with an admission ticket.

Social Science Notes

Barbara Bottosto, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Sam Bottosto, was married Sunday, Jan 3, to Carl May. Both Barbara, who owns a pet shop "Pets and Stuff", and Carl, who is with the Palm Beach Police Dept., are former PBJC students.

The Social Science Dept. is pleased to announce that instructor and Mrs. Ray Daugherty's son Larry received an appointment to the U.S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, MD. Larry, a straight "A" student who excelled in math and the sciences, was among the top 100 selected.

Three faculty members are welcomed back...Mrs. Eleanor Salisbury, returning after surgery, Dr. Arnold Freedman and Mr. Edwin Pugh are back from sabbaticals.

Announcements (Continued)

The following millage renovation projects are anticipated to be under construction in May of 1982.

Both AD Wings
Center for Personalized Instruction
HU-50 and 51
Student Activity Center

Several other projects will also be undertaken but plans have not been finalized to date. Any department utilizing any of the above facilities either for classrooms or offices should contact Dr. Graham for temporary facilities during the construction period.

Dr. Richard Yinger spoke on Exobiology and Future Defense last Thurs. at the Science Museum & Planetarium in Dreher Park. He will also moderate a meeting to be held Feb. 10 at Lake Worth H.S., at which Dr. Helen Caldicott, president of Physicians for Social Responsibility, and Dr. Gordon Adams, economist, will speak.

Mrs. Ethel Fowler, member of the Consumer Education/Home Economics Dept. faculty, will speak on "New-trition" at the Florida Home Economics Convention to be held April 23-24 at the Marriott Hotel, Fort Lauderdale.

Doodling And Drawing

PBJC has a series of works hanging in Conference Room C because our president knows the difference between doodling and drawing. The story started many years ago, when Dr. Eissey was teaching his very first class, at Central Junior High, WPB.

June Zent, a professional artist and art teacher in Jupiter remembers her 7th grade there as a time "when I was definitely not into academics."

That was apparent to her teacher. "She was always doodling when I was trying to teach her math," Dr. Eissey said. "After a while, I noticed that she wasn't just doodling. She was drawing, and with real talent."

Using art as her motivation, Dr. Eissey got his young student interested in such things as proportion, scale and anything that combined art and math. It worked.

"I still don't know how he did it, but Ed Eissey had a way of making me want to do the work in his class, and I did. He also encouraged my art. I remember drawing an angel for the class window at Christmas time, and another time, I drew a replica of the United States seal for him," June said.

June's path took her away from here for a number of years, but eventually she came back to the county and her studio and gallery on Indiantown Road in Jupiter 5 years ago. Dr. Eissey maintained an interest in the art career of his former student, and when art work was needed for the new conference room, he knew he had a friend in the art world to call upon.

June has loaned some of her pencil drawings, all but one in the "hands and feet" theme for which she is best known, and she plans to update the collection with recent landscapes and seascapes later.

Faculty Artists Represented

The PBJC Art Department will be well represented in the Community College Capitol Art Exhibit, part of the Silver Anniversary celebration of the Community College system of Florida. Reuben Hale received word last week that 11 submissions -- six paintings and five photographs -- from PBJC were chosen by the selection committee.

A reception celebrating the opening of the exhibition is scheduled for Wednesday, Jan. 20 on the 22nd floor of the Capitol.

SAB Scholarships Awarded

Six PBJC South students received awards of $100 each from the Student Advisory Board at South. Qualified students are selected at the end of the Fall and Winter Terms. Both full-time and part-time students are eligible. Criteria and applications are available at the PBJC South office, according to Harris McGirt, director of student services there.

Mark Scott, Mark Bartlett, Patricia Lizasoain, James Slaight and Mary-Louise Schoenemann, all of Boca Raton, were recipients, as was Irene Mann, of Boynton Beach.

PBJC MONDAY REPORT

Up Up And Away!

PBJC Enrollment Continues To Rise

The continuing rise is college enrollment -- eight percent this term overall -- points up the continuing need for additional buildings and added funding for the college, Dr. Eissey said Friday.

The enrollment figure of 11,520 tops last year's 10,683 by 837, and the number of semester hours (up seven percent) is 85,486 over last year's 79,874, according to registrar Charles Graham.

The North campus showed a 14.6 percent enrollment increase and a 7.7 percent increase in semester hours, while the South campus showed a 3.7 percent increase in students and a whopping 13.1 percent increase in student semester hours.

PBJC Glades was down three percent in enrollment and 3.7 percent in semester hours.

Day registration increased eight percent and evening registration 5.5 percent overall.

As Graham said, "it is too early to analyze the figures but we're glad the overall enrollment continues to go up."

$18 In-State, $36 Out-of-State Increase in Student Fees Requested

PBJC trustees will be asked to increase fees for resident students from $16 to $18 per credit hour beginning with the Fall Term, in August 1982. They will meet Wednesday, Jan. 20 at 7:30 PM in the Foodservice Center.

Non-resident fees, (for students whose residence is outside the State of FL), would increase to $36.00 from the current $35.20 per semester hr. if an administrative recommendation is adopted by the board.

Both fees are the maximum set by the State Board of Education, and have already been adopted by Miami-Dade, Valencia and St. Petersburg junior colleges, with other colleges now planning the increase.

Costs of almost every aspect of college business, and a loss of anticipated revenue from the state this year, and the legislative intent to hold the line on appropriations this year, are forcing colleges to adopt higher student fees.

Of the four-page agenda of some 40 items, most appear to be routine in nature. Seven of the items involve construction and development, including a request for final inspection of the Cultural and Instruction Center at PBJC Glades.

The 13 items of Business Affairs include a renewal of the agreement with Edison Community College to provide data processing services, and a specific salary schedule for part-time teachers assigned to the American Management Association Extension Institute .

Turlington Accolade

The State of Florida Dept. of Education sent a memo to all community college presidents regarding the subject of the students "Need to Know about College-Level Testing."

Attached to the memo was our PBJC brochure, "The Essential Skills", developed by Dr. Paul Graham and Jonathan Koontz, which was held up as an example to the other institutions who might not have taken action on the legislation which requires sophomore tests to begin in October of 1982. It is surely nice to know the State Board recognized our early bird activity on this matter.

JACK BUNIS

Encouraging News for Grandparents

We are all proud grandparents. We all have adorable grandchildren, and we thrill to their accomplishments and successes. Many of them are now attending colleges and universities throughout the country. Their younger brothers and sisters will soon be entering other institutions of higher learning. Only a few short years ago, they were babies. We've been hearing and reading "stories" about what transpires in our colleges. It has made us apprehensive about our young darlings suddenly being left on their own, and such a long way from home. They tell us it's good for the "kids." They'll become independent and self-reliant and will develop the desirable qualities that will make them better men and women. Yet, they being so young and impressionistic, we can't help wondering and worrying whether they will be able to take care of themselves. Will they be able to cope with the new adjustments, the peer pressures, the transition into adulthood, the difficulties of college studies, the new routines of college life, the fear of not being accepted? And, what about the use of drugs, and alcohol, and smoking pot, and living together, and sex, and intermarriage? There's so much of that going on in our colleges. It's something to think about and worry about.

I have some gratifying news that may relieve your anxiety. My darling wife, Edith, had organized and arranged a luncheon, fashion show and Chinese auction for one of our outstanding local clubs. The affair was to be held at Palm Beach Junior College at Lake Worth. Edith and another committee member had gone up there a few days before the event to confirm all the arrangements with the college cafeteria director. Before meeting with him, and subsequently after the program was finalized, Edith and her friend spent approximately one hour leisurely and delighted to hear it. You, too, will be delighted. Let her tell it in her own words.

"I was truly elated with what I observed as I walked leisurely around the campus. I must have passed about 300 students, only one was smoking a cigarette. I was greatly impressed with the general appearance of the students, both boys and girls. The cleanliness and freshness of their clothing was quite a contrast with what the "hippies" wore in the 60's. Although clothes do not make the man, nor the woman, still a nice appearance does help. The girls wore pretty blouses, and the boys were attired in T shirts, and jeans, which is the standard college apparel today. The boys were clean-shaven. Their hair was not disheveled. Those who wore beards had them neatly trimmed. I saw no head-bands.

The few students that I had engaged in brief conversation were cheerful, pleasant and courteous. There were no tensions anywhere. The boys were not uptight, arrogant nor nasty. They had no "chip on their shoulders." They were not looking for trouble. I recall in previous years, in the 60's, when Jack and I had visited a prestigious university in California and the tensions we felt as we walked around the campus. We were most uncomfortable. The "kids" were just sitting there barefoot and in their dirty clothes, doing nothing. They were cynical, angry, belligerent. Their language was inflammatory and intemperate. The atmosphere was like a cauldron waiting to explode.

At Palm Beach Jr. College, we were going to hold our affair in the cafeteria. I naturally went in there to examine the area that they were going to reserve for us. The students were eating and studying at the same time. They seemed serious about their studies. They ate their lunch and studied with determined concentration. They know what they were there for. During the time I was at the college, classes were changing and the students were all going to their new classes. There was no kidding around, no horse play. The climate was one of tranquility and stability. The "kids" were simply marvelous. At one point they helped us by giving us directions and volunteered graciously to carry some of our equipment.

Audience Wanted

Everyone is invited to attend the Vocal Artist Competition to be held in the auditorium on Sunday, Jan. 24 at 3 PM, which is sponsored by the Westboro Business and Professional Women's Club in conjunction with the college.

The winner will receive a $250 scholarship and will be eligible to compete in the district contest competition, to be held in Atlanta. Winners of each district contest will compete in the nationals in Washington, D.C. in August of 1982, at which the winner will receive a $1,500 scholarship.

Each contestant's repertoire must include an aria from an opera, to be sung in the original language and key, (an aria from an American opera is encouraged but not required); an aria from a major oratorio, mass, requiem or cantata to be sung in the original language and key; one German lieder from such representative composers as Berg, Brahms, Hadyn, Mahler, Schubert & Strauss

The contestant may sing one song or aria of his/her choice at the competition; the balance of the numbers to be heard will be requested by the judges from the repertoire submitted.

The decision of the judges is final. Contributions for a Westboro Business and Professional Women's Club/PBJC Music Scholarship Fund will be accepted at the competition.

Bookstore Closings

Daily, during the busy registration weeks, the bookstore has had to close from 12 to 1. The reason is that of the four new Point-Of Sale Registers, which can handle only half those days transactions.

The long and patient lines outside attest to the volume of business. But the discettes which record information cannot hold all the data fed to them.

There are 3 slaved registers and 1 Master, which receives all data and stores it for all four machines. When it is "full" it doesn't "burp" it just refuses to record transactions. Then the store closes and replaces the full discettes with fresh ones. It does take time, though, as any one who has waited for the doors to open can verify.

REP Gains Sunny

Sunny Meyer will appear in the theatrical debut of ISADORA: ARTIST IN CONFLICT, to open January 23 at the Actor's Workshop & Repertory Company.

Not only will she portray the life of the exciting Isadora, but Sunny has also written the script for the one-woman play.

Our talented assistant professor of speech and dance will perform on the weekends of Jan. 23-24, Jan. 28-31 and Feb. 4-7, at 8:30 PM, with matinees on Sundays at 2:30PM Sunny invites those who attend to comment after the performance.

Actor's Workshop and Repertory Company is located at 308 S. Dixie, in downtown WPB. Reservations for tickets may be made by calling 832-2972.

Inside Kings Point

It's a sign of academic and emotional maturity The "kids" are motivated again. Their enthusias for learning is undiminished. Rebellion and disruption against the Establishment is no longe fashionable. It's a happy commentary. Thei standards now are what the great majorit of Americans approve. We're back to tranquilit and stability on the campus. It's a soberin thought. Hopefully, their contemporaries in othe colleges have the same new outlook and image.

We'd like it understood that we're not comin to any definite conclusions — not after such a shor visit on the campus. We are merely stating th visible patterns of behavior. What Edith mentione above is merely her impressions and observations of just one college after a brief cursor assessment. I'm sure we all realize that this is n criterion, that it may not be typical of th many American colleges and universities we hav in our country. Hopefully, it is. It may not even b typical of Palm Beach Jr. College. But, on that particular morning, and at that point in time, this i what she saw. To us, as grandparents, it' encouraging news.

"Going Fishing"

Evening Registrar Jesse Ferguson Retiring

Jaunty of step, merry of eye, dapper of dress, a familiar face and figure on campus will retire January 29. Most of you know him...Jesse Ferguson, Evening Registrar at PBJC Central for six of his eleven years here.

As one of seven children, four of whom are still living, it seemd natural to pursue a career in education. Of the four, all were educated, and three of them share this field.

Jesse's Master's Degree in Education and Vocational Guidance came from N.Y.U. Prior to that, he took his baccalaureate in Agriculture at Hapmton Institute in Virginia.

Three and one-half years after serving the navy in California, Hawaii and Okinawa, he began teaching scientific farming to vets. He says it didn't take him long to realize that he did not know enough about farming, which led him to N.Y. and guidance training.

Before coming to PBJC, Ferguson was associated with the Florida State Employment Service in Jacksonville as a counselor/interviewer, then as coordinator of attendance and counselor with the P.B. County School Board.

Active in community posts such as lay leader and superintendent of his church, and member of Omega Psi Phi fraternity, he has also served on boards of the NAACP and Project Rescue, a tutorial service.

Jesse and his wife Ardata, who teaches at North, have two sons and one grandson. His retirement plans are relaxed and low key, possibly including some travel and, he says "some checker games and fishing."

Lunchtime Spanish Starts Noon Today

Don't miss the first of 15 Monday and Wednesday classes in Basic Conversational Spanish starting TODAY, 12 noon to 1 PM in the cafeteria, co-sponsored by International/Intercultural Education and the Center for Multi-Cultural Affairs.

Registration fee is $15. No fee waivers.

The text "Spanish Made Simple", from Doubleday, by Jackson and Rubio, is available for $3.95 at local book shops, including Waldens.

The course instructor is Nancy Zeiger, and John Townsend the coordinator.

Floridians Have Chance To Win Scholarship At Fair

On January 31, Sunday, at 3 PM, the last day of the South Florida Fair, Dr. Lis Erling will draw the name of some lucky Floridian. That party will win up to 32 credit hours of in-state tuition at the college for Fall and Winter Terms of 82-83.

Anyone who is a Florida resident, and who can meet the qualifications for enrollment, may register to win. Free tickets for the drawing will be at the College booth in Building 9, during the 10 days of the Fair, January 22 through 31. Entries must be deposited prior to 3 PM, Sunday, January 31.

Board Approves Fee Increase

As anticipated, the increase of student fees was passed at the meeting of the Board of Trustees on Wednesday, Jan. 20. It becomes effective with the 82-83 Fall Term.

The Florida student raise will go from $16 to $18 per credit hour, and out-of-state students will pay an additional 80¢ per credit hour over the present $35.20.

Reduction in the college budget by the state, amounting to $136,000 for this year, and legislative intent to "hold-the-line" for next year's budget, will effectively reduce the college's purchasing power by 9-10%.

Utilities, personnel benefits, expendable materials, cost of maintenance contracts, have been rising. Add to that the cost of opening North Campus this coming Spring, and the reasons for the increase become evident.

The traditional February board meeting will be held on the 17th at the PBJC Glades Campus.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Wednesday Afternoons In February

College-Wide Millage Committee Meeting Again

The college-wide millage committee is again in action, hearing requests from department chairmen for projects to utilize the remaining funds from the half-mill, two year levy approved March 11, 1980 by county voters.

The dramatic upward reassessment of property in the county last year, an event in which the college played no part at all, resulted in an increase in value of our half-mill, making it possible to fund some additional projects.

Money from the tax is limited to repairs, remodeling, renovation and equipment, and is not available for salaries or any other recurring expenditure.

Even so, according to Tony Tate, chairman of the millage committee, there will be more needs than can be met by the additional funds. It is the committee's responsibility to listen to presentations from department chairmen and others, and to judge where the available money can best be spent.

The committee will be meeting on Wednesday afternoons, 1:30 PM, in Conference Room C, hoping to complete its work by the end of February. Visitors are welcome.

Presentations got underway last Wednesday with Dr. Tate outlining general college requests, Mel Haynes appearing for Student Personnel, Bob Suttle for the Business Department, Hal Hutchins for Dental, Ruth Brofft for the bookstore, and Dick Jones for Purchasing.

Dr. Tate outlined more than a million dollars in general college projects, including an estimated half million for a major addition to be added north of the wing now housing the reading center for Personalized Instruction. He said that amount would probably not be large enough.

Other items under general college were a central fire alarm system, burglar alarms for selected buildings, renovation of administration building to district administrative complex, relocation of utilities for the new student building, additions to energy conservation projects and a new central clock system.

Dr. Hutchins was greeted with good natured

Outstanding Young Woman

Dr. Kathleen Aieilo, coordinator, Continuing Education at PBJC Central, has recently been notified that she was selected as an Outstanding Young Woman of America for 1981.

Kathy came to PBJC as a program specialist for the Women's Center in 1979.

Prior to that, she taught English at Twin Lakes High School, where she also coached the drill team. She also taught English and Education courses at PBJC North, where she completed her administrative internship.

A PBJC graduate, she went on to FAU for her baccalaureate in English Education, and her Master's and Doctorate in Educational Administration and Supervision.

She is active in the Zonta Club of Lake Worth, and has been elected to the board of directors of the FAU Alumni Association for a three year term.

A certificate has been sent her "in recognition of your personal and professional accomplishments" and she will be included in the 1981 edition of Outstanding Young Women of America.

Kathy and her husband, Eugene, are residents of Palm Beach Gardens.

Institute of New Dimensions Goes To Washington

Presenting a paper at the 32nd annual conference of the National Council of Aging, will be Dr. Etta Ress, founder and volunteer director, and Anita Furst, adminstrator. The conference will run from March 31 through April 3.

Oral Argument Scheduled

Oral argument in the Management's Rights case has been set for Feb. 17, 10:30 a.m., by the First District Court of Appeals, Tallahassee.

The appeal by the college is from a ruling of the Public Employees Relations Commission holding, among other findings, that Managements Rights is not a mandatory subject of bargaining in the public sector, and is therefore not arguable to impasse.

The court, which already has the record, briefs and answers on file, limited each side to 15 minutes of oral argument.

Oral argument is frequently the last step before the court renders a judgment, but there is no set time interval between oral argument and the court order.

It could be mid-March or longer before the decision is available, in view of the work load on the court at this time.

The disagreement over management's rights dates back to bargaining prior to the 1980-81 contract between the college and the United Faculty.

Subsequent conflict both in legal hearings and at the table are traceable largely to that basic disagreement.

Blue Key Leadership Awards

Each year Florida Blue Key, the Leadership Honorary Society at the University of Florida, sponsors the Community College Leadership Awards. These awards are given to the outstanding female and male from each of Florida's community colleges.

Nominations are based on campus activities, honors, achievements, scholastic average, and community service.

Please submit names, along with a brief resume, to Dean Moss by Friday, February 5, 1982.

Social Security Questions?

As a result of discussions I have had with a number of people regarding transferring from the Teacher's Retirement System to the Florida Retirement System, it may be advisable to invite a representative to the College from the Social Security Administration if there is sufficient interest in learning more about social security benefits.

If you are interested in attending a meeting with a representative from the Social Security Administration to discuss social security benefits, please contact Mrs. Marilyn Vazquez on 8018 and let her know when your schedule would permit you to attend such a meeting.

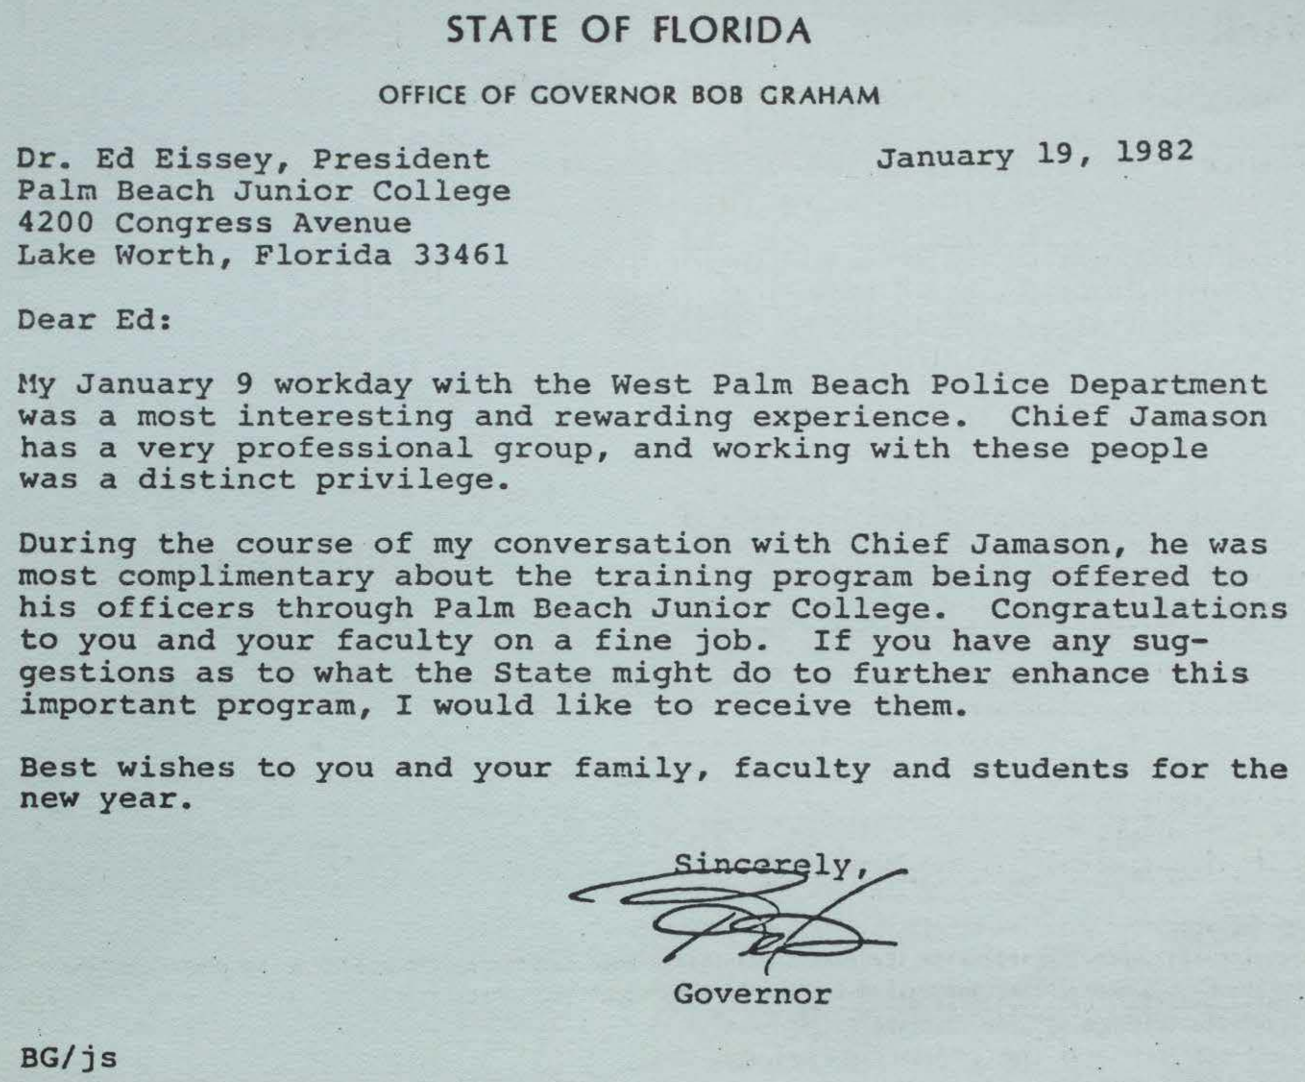
Senior Chorus Resumes Practices

Weekly rehearsals have been resumed on Mondays from 4-6PM, said David Chandler, director. The group is made up of singers 55 years or older. They presented their first concert in December , and are now working on patriotic music and show tunes for a spring concert.

Interested persons are welcome to come and join in the music making. Registration is under the dept. of Continuing Education and may be made at rehearsal time also. Fee is $5.00.



STATE OF FLORIDA

OFFICE OF GOVERNOR BOB GRAHAM

Dr. Ed Eissey, President
Palm Beach Junior College
4200 Congress Avenue
Lake Worth, Florida 33461

January 19, 1982

Dear Ed:

My January 9 workday with the West Palm Beach Police Department was a most interesting and rewarding experience. Chief Jamason has a very professional group, and working with these people was a distinct privilege.

During the course of my conversation with Chief Jamason, he was most complimentary about the training program being offered to his officers through Palm Beach Junior College. Congratulations to you and your faculty on a fine job. If you have any suggestions as to what the State might do to further enhance this important program, I would like to receive them.

Best wishes to you and your family, faculty and students for the new year.

Sincerely,

Governor

BG/js

reminders from the committee that they had already given him everything he asked for last year, and he requested only two items, acknowledging they had been overlooked in the massive renovation already accomplished, one that has given us one of the best equipped dental departments in the country.

Dr. Suttle's major request was for additional word processing equipment for student use, plus minor requests for Retailing and Co-op.

Student Personnel needs a new test scoring machine and a graphic titler, according to Dr. Haynes, costing about $50,000.

Purchasing needs a micro-fiche reader, and a computer for better control of stores inventory, according to Dick Jones.

Mrs. Brofft had a large number of specific requests, partly occasioned by the fact that bids for the prior renovation were high, and all equipment had been deleted in order to be able to award the project.

The committee will listen to all requests before making any decision.

Eighth Annual Drama Fest

Seven High Schools Will Participate

With an 8:30 AM kick-off time this coming Thursday, February 11, a round-robin of one-act play adaptations will begin. Seven high schools are competing, with the award winners to be announced that day about 3:30 PM.

This is the eighth annual PBJC High School Drama Festival. Frank Leahy, Director, will be assisted by Sunny Meyer and Art Musto, as well as 30 PBJC drama majors, who will aid in the technical details of the plays.

Guest critic for the festival will be Pamela Hope Levin, drama instructor and director at Broward Community College. She did her drama internship here at PBJC.

Awards will be presented for the best overall actress and actor, as well as the best play, and the best actor or actress in each play.

The award winning plays will be presented on Friday and Saturday evenings at 8PM, along with a student production by members of the PBJC Players. As usual, the performances are open to the public, with no admission charge.

The participating schools, the plays to be presented, and the directors include: Cardinal Newman, "Portrait of a Madonna," Hal Johnstone; Forest Hill, "Egad,What A Cad!", Barbara Musgrave; Glades Central, "Twelfth Night", Sarah Bennett; Jupiter H.S.," An Overpraised Season", James Hilliker; Lake Worth, "Pound on Demand", Budd Merson; Palm Beach Gardens, "Portrait in Black", Doris Price; and Twin Lakes, "Spoon River Anthology," Burt Merriam.

Of the seven directors, five are former PBJC students. They are Johnstone, Musgrave, Bennett, Price and Merriam.

If there is time on Thursday, between your busy schedules, you are encouraged to stop in during the day of the competition, and of course, you are welcome for the evening shows.

PBJC Notes Another Outstanding Young Woman

Our personnel coordinator, Ardease Johnson, has been selected as an Outstanding Young Woman for 1981.

Mrs. Johnson is a native Floridian, hailing from Live Oak, and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carter Gaines, soon to celebrate their Golden Wedding Anniversary.

She is a graduate of St. Petersburg Junior College, received her Bachelor's in Education from FAU, and plans to pursue a Master's Degree in public administration.

Nearly ten years have passed since Ardease came to PBJC as a personnel secretary. She was offered a teaching position after graduating from FAU, but opted to remain here, and was promoted to personnel representative. She was made a coordinator last July.

In addition to her work at the college, Ardease is very much involved in her community. She serves on the Usher Board of St. John Baptist Church of WPB, and is assistant secretary of the Gold Coast Voters League. A volunteer with the American Cancer Society, she serves as secretary of its Minority Involvement Committee, and as a member of the General Education Committee of that organization.

She and husband Matthew are parents of a 15 year old boy. The 1981 edition of Outstanding Young Women of America will detail her bio and accomplishments.

INCLUDED WITH TODAY'S MONDAY REPORT IS AN UPDATED INSERT FOR THE CURRENT COLLEGE STAFF DIRECTORY.

New Mental Health Program Offered

The Mental Health Association of Palm Beach County announces the formation of a new self-help support group for individuals with Anorexia Nervosa or Bulimia. This Eating Disorders Support Group will begin twice-monthly meeting on Wednesday, Feb. 24th, 7:30 PM at Doctor's Hospital of Lake Worth.

Among the symptoms of these disorders may be: preoccupation with weight, food and calories, distorted body image, amenorrhea (loss of menstruation), binge eating, regular laxative use or vomiting.

Anyone with either of these conditions, along with interested family members, is invited to attend. The informal, self-help group atmosphere will offer mutual support, sharing and understanding. There will be no charge for the program. For more information, call the Mental Health Association, 832-3755 or 276-3581.

Voter Registration Results

In a one-day blitz last week, 123 voters were registered here at the college. Ed Pugh, faculty advisor to the Political Union directed the event, which was aided by the Delta Omicron chapter of Phi Theta Kappa. Members of both organizations took training to become duly sworn campus registrars.

According to Pugh, if district lines are re-drawn before May, the opponents for the new districts will be invited to the campus. He has already blocked out the date of Friday, October 8 as Candidates Day at PBJC. It will follow the second primary, and will feature candidates for governor, U.S. Senate, U.S. House of Representatives, State House and Senate and county offices.

Community Interfaith Meeting

The public is invited to attend and participate at the Community Interfaith Brotherhood Meeting, scheduled for Tuesday, Feb. 16 at 8PM. It is sponsored by the B'nai B'rith Lodge #3401 Lt. Col. Netanyahu of Palm Beach, and will meet at the new Senior Citizens Center (formerly the China Blossom restaurant), on S. Dixie Hwy and 2nd Ave. North, in Lake Worth.

Discussion leader will be Dr. Eissey, who recently commented that "Interfaith is the foundation of the American heritage and that community brotherhood is necessary for universal survival."

There will be refreshments and a social hour following the meeting. Lester Levy, of the Lodge, can be reached at 586-5129 for further information.

Daytona Bed Race Prize

Seven PBJC students participated in the annual Pepsi-Daytona Bed Race over the week-end of Jan. 30th. They won third place and $50 for bed decoration, and sixth overall in the race.

Team members were Gary Noel, Bill McAllister, Mike McGee, Nush Sapiehs, Christy Collado, Bruce McDowell and Chris Roaf. "The bed was painted green, we had a PBJC license plate, and we had a yellow sheet on the bed with PBJC stenciled all over it in green," said Bruce McDowell.

They all agreed the event was great fun, but most of their $50 winnings went to replace a blown tire on the car used to transport them to the competition.

Seminole Sun Dance Here

Saturday and Sunday, Feb. 20 & 21 will see the annual Seminole Sun Dance here at the college for the first time. It has annually been a Flagler Museum event. It will be just east of the Lake Worth Rd. entrance to the grounds. Hours are 9AM-5PM Sat., and noon to 5PM Sunday. John Townsend is coordinating the affair with the Historical Society of PB County, and has more information at 8161.

PALM BEACH JUNIOR COLLEGE
PBJC MONDAY REPORT

Volume ~~VI~~ IV Number 19

February 15,1982

Don't Call Security

Those Strange New Numbers Are Good News

Those strange workmen who are coming around and replacing our familiar room numbers with new and strange designations are not involved in some weird scam -- and it won't do any good to call security.

They are the first wave of Phase I construction of PBJC Central's campus signage project, and when the entire project is completed, you'll be glad you did not try to chase the workers away.

In the meantime, your offices and class rooms and other building facilities are still utilizing their familiar designations.

Phase I, now underway, is roughly on one-third of the total plan--but here are a few features of the entire plan.

There will be three major new signs, one for Congress between the two entrances,and one each near the entrances on Sixth Ave., and Lake Worth Road. They are big--14x14ft. with a large message board, internally illuminated with 6" letters. Only one of these in Phase I.

In the full plan, there will be 3 major auto directional signs, complete with color coded maps, 5' x 10', with turnouts, at the N. Congress Ave. entrance, at 6th, and at Lake Worth Road.

There ill be 5 smaller auto signs (5'x5') and 7 pedestrian site directories, also with maps and color codes, at strategic points on campus.

Six parking lots will be identified by letter, a, b, c, d, e and f. All signs will be in Helvetica Medium, lower case, and we are providing you with a sample of this type:

A major effect of the project will be to add a sense of unity to the entire campus--lacking at the present time.

One important addition will be overhead signs on walkways as you approach buildings. When the plan is complete, there will be 55 of these, and there are 30 in the first phase.

Trustee Agenda

Meeting at the Glades campus this week, the college Board of Trustees will be asked to approve procedures for a faculty/administration exchange program, among other things.

The new policy would allow faculty/administrators to exchange positions with comparable staff from cooperating colleges in other countries for a year.

The exchange participant would be under the jurisdiction of the host institution, but would receive his regular salary from the home institution. The exchange program has been adapted from regulations governing successful exchange programs already in use at other colleges.

Gains for students and faculty of the host institution , in terms of international education and continuing gains from the increased international understanding of the faculty/administrator who takes part have been reported.

This is another step in implementing the board's commitment to international/intercultural education.

Other items before the board include a letter of agreement with the "American Management Associations Extension Institute"; a list of obsolete equipment to be auctioned at the college's second auction, scheduled for March 9; and a summary sheet showing Federal Vocational Funds Requests totaling $249,478.33.

The designation "Old Administration Building" is being dropped, and Finance will be in the Finance Building, and Continuing Education in the Continuing Education Building.

Each building will have a Building Directory sign on the walls adjacent to the major entrances. These will not only name departments, they will have names of individuals and where applicable, hours of operation.

All over campus, first floor room designations will be 101,102,103 etc, second floors 201,202,203, etc., and third floors 301,,302,303 etc. Numbering will be clockwise from the main entrance to a building.

Staff identification will be on the same sign with room identification.

Throughout the campus, where needed, we will use international signs for wheel chairs, no smoking, smoking, toilets, elevators and telephones.

Phase I is being paid for mostly by millage funds, but with some money from state Safety To Life and Handicapped funds.

The millage committee is now considering funding for more the the total project.

Phase I will be completed in about 3 weeks, and dept. chairmen will be asked for comment and any needed revision.

Even after the entire project is completed, we are sure that you will be called upon once in a while to exercise patience, tact and charm as you explain to someone how to get to their next class. We are also sure it will be easier to give your directions, and that you won't get half as many questions are you now get.

Rule 6Hx-18-4.14
Fees - Resident and Non-Resident Matriculation and Tuition (Amendment)

WRITTEN STATEMENT OF THE FACTS AND CIRCUMSTANCES JUSTIFYING THE AMENDMENT OF THE RULE: The student matriculation fees will be increased from $16 to $18 for in-state students and there will be an additional tuition fee of $18.00 per credit hour for out-of-state students.

SUMMARY: This amendment will make it possible to charge a fee which is more in keeping with the actual costs of operating the College. This will become effective in the Fall Term, 1982.

ECONOMIC IMPACT: Florida residents matriculation fees will be increased $2.00 per credit hour and non-Florida residents fees will be increased $.80 per credit hour.

SPECIAL LEGAL AUTHORITY UNDER WHICH THE AMENDMENT IS AUTHORIZED AND THE LAW BEING IMPLEMENTED, INTERPRETED OR MADE SPECIFIC:

General Authority 240.313 FS. Law Implemented 240.345 FS.
History: Formerly 4401.01; Readopted 2-27-75; Amended 6-22-75, 7-10-77, 7-26-79, 5-29-80

IF REQUESTED A HEARING WILL BE HELD AT:

Time: 7:30 P.M.
Place: Belle Glade Center
Date: February 17, 1982

Copies of the rule are available at the Library Learning Resources Center, the Office of the Vice President of Student Affairs, and the Office of the District Board of Trustees of Palm Beach Junior College.

EA/EO Grant

A pilot tutorial program, aid to the Student Retention program, and minority cultural events will be funded by a grant of $11,159 from the Equal Access/Equal Opportunity offices.

For tutorial services, $4,000 will be divided equally among the four PBJC campuses, with tutors to be selected from PTK, the national honor fraternity and others who are academically above average. Most tutoring is expected to be in the areas of math and English. Student tutors will receive the minimum wage of $3.35 per hour.

To aid in student retention, the Registrar's office and the Data Processing dept. are carrying on an "academic alert," compiling a student data base, and studies on student characteristics, so that students will be helped to better plan their academic work, hopefully marking an increase in the retention rate.

As to the cultural events, the Vocal Artists Competition was held here recently, and a series of five seminars emphasizing Black contributions to the area of such fields as religion, civic service, social service, business and education are planned. The seminars will kick off with the first one at Roosevelt Junior H.S. on March 14.

Art Faculty Show

Jim Houser, who has won numerous awards for his spare, tranquil, super-real paintings, has a one-man show through February 27 at the Gallery Camino Real, Boca Raton.

Among his honors, he has twice received the $2,000 Atwater Kent Awards, a Channing Hare Award, and four Hors de Concours from the Society of the Four Arts, Palm Beach.

He is listed in Who's Who in American Art, exhibits regularly at the David Findlay Gallery in New York City, as well as other galleries. A number of major museums and universities have purchased his works for their permanent collections.

Community College Day Planned For FAU

Our assistance in disseminating information on our campus about FAU Community College Day has been requested by Dr. Jack Guistwhite, Director of Inter-Institutional Relations at FAU.

Phi Theta Kappa Alpha of Florida Alumni Chapter and the FAU Alumni Association plan to host Community College Day on Thursday, March 25, from 9AM to 5PM on the Boca campus.

Suggestions from community college personnel have initiated this special day, in order that interested students and staff members could become better acquainted with FAU, and to improve articulation and transfers.

Campus visitors will have an opportunity to tour the facilities, meet with faculty, students and staff members, in addition to obtaining admission, financial aid, housing and academic program information.

DSOM -- North

Michelle Patricia Sephes was named the Distinguished Student of the Month for the North Campus, January, 1982. She is a native of West Palm Beach, a graduate of PB Gardens, where she belonged to the National Honor Society, won the all-around DAR award, was president of the Girl's Athletic Assoc., co-captain of the volleyball team, manager of the softball team, and won an award for four years of perfect attendance.

She is an accounting major, an active member of PTK, carries a grade point average of 3.7, and is mother of an active three year old girl. She plans to continue at FAU.

PBJC Provides Escape Route

Eight Week Dual Enrollment Term Approved

High School Seniors who will lose social security funds through their college years unless they become full-time college students by May 1 have been given an escape route by PBJC...if they can qualify for dual enrollment.

Funding Problems Getting Serious

A memo from Dr. Lee G. Henderson, Director of the Division of Community Colleges, informs us of actions by the House Appropriations Subcommittee on Thursday, Feb. 11, which will be extremely damaging if approved by the full House and Senate.

Although remedial action is already underway to curb excesses in the use of fee waivers at some community colleges, (not PBJC), the subcommittee chose this year, when adequate funding seems almost impossible, anyhow) to administer economic punishment. The result is a $12 million dollar reduction, system-wide, before adding amounts they can then claim are for cost of living, raises, etc.

System-wide, the net increase will be 3.5 per cent--not enough even to hold our own, and certainly not enough to provide for growth, or quality, or anything else. Dr. Henderson says a one cent sales tax addition is probably the only solution.

If you would like to protest the action of the subcommittee in taking away before giving, the best person to write would probably be Rep. Franklin B. Mann, chairman, House Appropriations Subcommittee III, 218 Capitol Bldg.,Tallahassee, FL 32301.

If you want to urge a one-cent sales tax, do that to anyone you know, any time and anywhere--but especially to legislators. They need to know how you feel.

The escape route--an eight week term beginning March 8 offering two general education courses, received trustee approval at the February meeting Wednesday at PBJC Glades.

The two three credit courses--Freshman Communications I and Social Institutions--will give the students the six credits necessary in an eight-week course to be considered full-time.

ENC 1101 will be offered Mondays and Wednesdays, 3 to 6 p.m., and SOC 1200 Tuesdays and Thursdays, 3 to 6 p.m.

Students must meet dual enrollment standards, which, as you know, lean heavily upon a recommendation from the high school principal.

The college began receiving telephone calls in late January from parents, students, and principals who had just become aware of the cut-off date of May 1 established by Social Security when funding for full-time students age 18 to 22 would be abolished.

The cut-off date, coming as it did before the end of the high school year when students would graduate and become eligible for college enrollment, and in particular since it was not announced until after the Winter Term had already begun, left many students trapped with no means of preserving desperately needed funding.

As it become evident that there were a number of students who had been counting heavily on social security for helping to fund their college education who were trapped in this way, Charles Graham, Frank McLaughlin and others began working with Dr. Eissey and Dr. Graham to try to find something the college could do.

In connection with the opening on March 9 of the Exhibition of Daumier lithographs and other materials at the Norton Gallery, Faculty Services Librarian Ben Roberts is presenting background material to the museum guides today, according to Wiley C. Douglass, Library Director.

Roberts will discuss the social, economic, and political influences in French life from the early Nineteenth Century until the close of the reign of Napoleon III. It was during this period that Daumier was most active in caricaturing French life. The exhibition is a loan from Armand Hammer's extensive collection.

In addition to the lecture, Roberts has prepared chronologies of both Daumier's life and works for the edification of gallery visitors.

Women In China Today

PBJC's Center for Multi-Cultural Affairs and the U.S. China Friendship Association will present an informative talk -- Women in China Today -- by guest speaker, Zhou Shaochun Tuesday, February 23 at 10:30 AM in the AH Lecture Hall.

Zhou Shaochun is the wife of Liang Yufan, Ambassador to the United Nations from the People's Republic of China.

She has served as Section Chief of Foreign Affairs in Shanghai; an administrator with the Jin-Shan Petro-Chemical Complex; Vice Consulate General in Geneva, Switzerland; and is currently serving as Consul at the Chinese Consulate-General in New York.

The free lecture is open to the public.

Don't Say We Didn't Tell You

Of Jazz, Students, Astronauts, and Leader Dogs

We thought you ought to know about the Jazz Festival coming up this Wednesday, March 3. For many years, the public has attended the annual festivals here, and this year will be no disappointment, according to Sy Pryweller.

Seven jazz groups will participate in the free festival, including the redoubtable FAU Jazz Band and five area high schools.

The high schools and their directors are: Glades Central, Willie Pyfran; Lake Worth, Louis St.Laurent; John I. Leonard, Ubaldo Montesino; P.B. Gardens, Wayne Miller; and Atlantic, Andrew Kidd.

...and, if you have ever had a yen to visit the famous Diamond Exchange in London, or to find out how Rolls Royces are made, you will be interested in the Study Tour being offered again this summer, under the auspices of the PBJC South Business Dept., with Noel Smith as guide. Call him for information at 393-3981 or 439-8158.

...when Dr. Ed Mitchell addressed the North chapter of PTK on Saturday, he spoke of developing character and cultivating fellowship. That, of course is the object of membership in the national junior college honorary fraternity.

Fudge and Deputy are rather special, and to PBJC grad Victoria Montaltos, her lifeline. She and F.Roy Haas were the hit of a recent program presented at the college, where they showed a film and presented a plaque of appreciation to the Lions Club Leader Dogs for Blind Program, accepted by Sam Mindell on behalf of the Jewish War Veterans #408.

...and the February Distinguished Student at the North campus is Dagny Arnum, of P.B. Gardens, mother of two, and a serious student who plans to go on to the U. of Florida in the future. She carries a 3.55 grade point average, and hails from New Utrecht H.S. in Brooklyn, N.Y.

...and a round of applause, please, for the Student Advisory Board of PBJC South, who planted 12 trees in the area surrounding the trailers, during a campus Beautification Day.

To All Faculty

The contract agreement which is now in effect has one section which changes the mid-term grade reporting procedure. Article XIII Mid-Term Grade Procedure, Section A states:

Within one week after the close of the mid-term grading period a mid-term grade for each student will be posted by social security number outside the office of each faculty member for each class that that faculty member teaches. To facilitate this procedure the Registrar or his designee will provide duplicate computer class lists. Individual mid-term grade slips will no longer be used.

Please disregard the grade slips sent to you last week. A new class list of the students by social security number which you can post by your office, will be sent to you as soon as possible.

...Charles Graham

Union Questions Faculty Exchange

The United faculty has asked for a collective bargaining session to discuss the Faculty Exchange program recently passed by the board of trustees.

A meeting has been set for Thursday, Mar. 4, 3PM, at the Parks and Recreation Bldg. This will be the first bargaining meeting since Dec. 10, when bargaining was suspended by mutual consent pending outcome of litigation before the First District Court of Appeals in Tallahassee.

The "Colonel" Is Coming

College Auction Rescheduled To March 16

PBJC's second annual auction has been scheduled to begin at 9:30 AM, Tuesday, March 16. Originally planned for March 9, it had to be postponed for one week due to a legal technicality. Fortunately, there was an opening in "Colonel" Russell Beebe's schedule, and he will once again conduct the sale.

Among the four pages of closely typed inventory are 18 color TV sets, with 25" screens. Dick Jones, of the Purchasing Dept., who is handling the disposition of surplus equipment, said "all offers will be taken. There are no floors under the prices of anything here."

Other items include the usual electric typewriters, shorthand machines, cash registers, a number of Wang electronic keyboards from the Math Dept., and lots of equipment from the Dental and Science Departments, which has updated, upgraded and replaced much of their equipment through the millage project.

The physical plant area, east of the gym, is the location of the auction. Preview time is 8AM to 9:30AM on the day of the sale.

One of the larger items to be disposed of is an IBM 370-125 mainframe computer. Anyone wanna buy a big beige box? Sounds like an old Joe Penner joke, but at about 5' x 6', that's what the buyer gets. All the accessory equipment was leased from IBM, so the stark computer is for sale. It is, according to Jones, suitable for a private school or a small business, and was used here through December of 1981 as a back-up unit. It was purchased new from IBM in 1977.

Just as background, you might be interested to know that we have only been given the right to dispose of surplus or salvage property by ourselves since last year. Prior to that, we were required to turn over all such items to the School Board of Palm Beach County. Last year's auction contributed in excess of $8,000 to the general fund.

Registration is required in advance of the auction, as buyers will be assigned numbers.

CHARITY BALL TONIGHT
(Basket, That Is)

If you are a Dolfan who would like to get a look at some of your favorite football players "up close and personal," you'll have your chance tonight at the PBJC Central gym.

The Miami Dolphins will play the Local Media All-Stars at 7:30PM in a benefit basketball game for the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation.

The game is sponsored by the Delta Omicron chapter of PTK. Tickets are available at the door or from PTK members, at $3.00.

The Dolphin players will be selected from the following roster: Don Strock, Jimmy Cefalo, Duriel Harris, Elmer Bailey, Bob Baumhower, Kim Bokamper, A.J. Duhe, Mike Koslowski, Eric Laakso, Ronnie Lee, Ed Newman, Ernie Rhone, Joe Rose and Andra Franklin. Also on the list are Nick Giaquinto, Cleveland Green, Steve Howell, Don McNeal, Nat Moore, Tony Nathan, Steve Schull, Jeff Towes, and Coach Alen Wilhelm.

The Dolphins, who finished last season with a 44-3 basketball record, will be available to sign autographs before the game starts.

A partial list of the Local Media All-Stars includes sportscaster Dick Sanford, Rick Powers, Charles Robinson and Dave Wirth, of Channel 12; Jim Schroeder, Chris Webber and Mike Leury (Channel 5); Russ Morely (WRMF); Jay Collins (WIRK); and John Zellner of the Evening Times. Play by play commentator is Channel 5's Buck Kinnaird.

Looking Good . . . Cooking Good

Students from PBJC, area high schools and vocational centers, as well as chef apprentices, will be competing in ten culinart arts categories at the Foodservice Dining Area Thursday March 18, from 8AM to noon.

Judging will take place from 8 AM to 1 PM. Celeste Beck invites everyone at PBJC to drop by between 1 and 9 PM when the food entries will be on display.

This is the first Culinary Arts Show to be held at PBJC, and the public is welcome too. There will be live demonstrations of ice and vegetable carving between 7:30 and 8:30PM.

Ninth Annual Childrens Walkathon

All those adorable kids will be out and around campus for the ninth year, with a Spring Festival and Homecoming too....on Wednesday, March 24. Look for them at the PBJC tennis court area from 9AM to noon.

The event is again sponsored by the PBJC Early Learning Club (ELC) and the Center for Early Learning, a pre-school attended by 20 children of PBJC students, faculty and staff. It also serves as a training facility for Early Childhood Education majors and Montessori trainees.

"Because the public schools will be closed for Spring vacation at that time, we're inviting all of our former students to come back for Homecoming on this day. It should be lots of fun," said Dr. Kathleen Bowser, director of the center, and better known to all as Kathy.

There will be a bake sale a toy flea market, a bood fair, as well as the walkathon. For the unitiated, pledges are given for each quarter-mile lap around the tennis courts walked by the 20 Center youngsters. Pledges may be made by members of the community as well as faculty, staff and students, said Kathy. Monies thus gained provides funds to purchase equipment and supplies for the school.

Helen Ketchum, president of ELC, is coordinating the Walkathon/Festival, and will accept pledges at 439-8046. Chairing the various other committees are three Montessori interns, Paul Maxwell, Nicola Phillips, and Nancy Mercier.

Last year's "endurance champ" was Tahira Faquir, who did 20 laps at the age of five. She regularly jogs with daddy, Hamid Faquir, of the Financial Aid Dept. She is now considered a distinguished "alumna."

March Schedule For Dunc's Book Reviews

Every Friday at 3PM at the WPB Women's Club, 105 S. Flager Drive, Watson B. Duncan,III, delivers his inimitable book reviews. On March 5th, his subject was "Totaled" by Frances Rickett and Steven McGraw. Upcoming on the 12th is "Clare Booth Luce" by Wilfred Sheed, an intimate view of the Dragon Lady of American Journalism, theatre and politics; the 19th will be "Reprieve: A Memoir" by Agnes deMille, the story of the great dancer-choreagrapher's journey back from death, and on the 26th, "William Shakespeare: A Documentary Life" by S. Schoenbaum.

Hold The Presses! Last Minute Stuff!

Just as we went to press, we learned from Buck Rader and Jan Bussell that the Navy's Blue Angels will be on campus from 9-10AM, Friday, March 26th. They will show a film and talk about their activities. More about the location next week.

New Co-Op Director Named

Recently named to head up the Cooperative Education program at PBJC is Dr. Naomi Conley, a member of the Business Department faculty, and a co-sponsor of DECA (Distributive Education Clubs of America) Sales and Marketing Club since 1981.

Dr. Conley hails originally from North Carolina, where she took her B.S. from Pembroke State University, and her Master's from the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill. Her doctorate was earned at the University of Tennessee, Knoxville, where her dissertation was "Factors Related to Teacher Effectiveness of High School Distributive Education Teacher-Coordinators." She obviously comes to us with the background ideal to the job.

On the four PBJC campuses, there are presently 226 students in the Cooperative Education program. Some of the fields included are Art, Banking, Criminal Justice, Home Economics, Retail Management, Music, Retail Management, Secretarial Occupations, Social Science, Technology and Theater.

Says Dr. Conley, "I'm pleased with the positive attitude of the administration and the coordinators for the program, Kathleen Cockrell, at PBJC Central and South campuses, and Roger Neilson at the PBJC North and Glades campuses.

"The philosophy of Cooperative Education is to combine theory and the practical in the experience. We will stress quality, to make it a meaningful experience for the student," she added.

Among her many interests is flying, (she has a student pilot license, and since she is married to Dr. Cecil Conley, Provost of the Glades campus, it seems to be natural, since he is known as "Lindbergh" by those who see him commute about the county in his "bird.") She is a member of Delta Kappa Gamma, a past president of the Xi Iota Alpha chapter of Beta Sigma Phi, vice chairman of the Belle Glade Municipal Library Board, vice president of the Glades Historical Society and an elder in the Presbyterian Church.

Collective Bargaining Meet Held

Three items were discussed at a collective bargaining meeting Thursday. Some of the editorial changes in the Faculty/Administration Exchange program suggested by the United Faculty will be offered to the trustees. Substantive changes were not accepted, but could become future bargaining items.

An item on accumulated sick leave pay at retirement was postponed. It was noted that an appeals court decision can be expected near April 1, and contract negotiations could be successful before anyone retires.

A question concerning pay rates specified in grants for non-instructional duties was clarified.

Kidney Opening

Continuing Education coordinator, Donna DiSesa, R.N., who is also president of the Palm Beach County Kidney Association, announces a ribbon-cutting ceremony of their new office on March 30th at 2PM. The address is 31 W. 20th Street in Riviera Beach.

Donna will introduce the first full-time Executive Director of the organization, Jevne Hosier. A large group of dignitaries will be on hand for the event, including the Honorable Philip D. Lewis, who will officiate. The association charges no fees for assistance or educational materials and speakers.

We wish to congratulate Donna, who will receive her Master's from Nova in Health Education at the end of March.

In Case You Haven't Met Yet

New Basketball Coach Hodges Settling In

He's quoted as saying "winning is a means, not an end," and when that threatened to reverse itself at Indiana State, head coach Bill Hodges left there to become the new basketball coach here.

Winning is what you do on the way to educating in the classroom, and in life, Hodges told a press conference March 8.

He said he had spent most of the day telling people why he woud accept a job several professional steps below the one he previously held.

He talked aout cold weather and snow so deep it broke down his carport roof, he talked about escaping the rat race and too much time spent in administration and not enough in coaching, and he talked about experiences in his personal life which led him to seek quality of living in a more favorable setting.

But mostly he talked about the success he hopes to have turning talented boys into young men of character and determination, skilled enough in basketball fundamentals and successful enough academically to continue their careers at four year schools.

"The greatest teaching, I think, in the country, is at the junior college level. Much of the teaching at major schools is done by graduate assistants. The qualified instructors are doing research."

Tom Mullins, athletic director, said timing of the college's action in bringing Hodges in as early as possible was aimed at recruiting for some seven spots available for next year's Pacer team.

TOMORROW, TUESDAY, MARCH 16 IS THE SECOND ANNUAL COLLEGE SURPLUS AND SALVAGE AUCTION. PREVIEWS AND REGISTRATION 8:00 AM - 9:30 AM

Grants Received

Two occupational studies grants amounting to $40,602 have been received. From the Florida Dept. of Education, a sum of $20,422 is marked to develop materials for a state-wide short course in Construction Productivity Improvement, for first-line supervisors in the construction industry.

Carleton Coulter, III, a management consultant and member of the PBJC adjunct faculty who has taught Building Construction Mgmt. here, will be principle investigator for the pilot program. He is a grad of the U.S. Military Academy, and received a Master of Engineering degree from Texas A&M.

The second grant, a Federal grant received through the state, is in the amount of $20,180, and is to be used for the development of Competency-Based Instruction, to define the performance capabilities expected by potential employers and by college instructors of students who complete certain pilot occupational courses.

Those courses include Computer Tech, Electronics Tech, Surveying, Drafting, Dietetics, Child Care, Hospitality Mgmt., Fashion Design, Fashion Merchandising, Water/Waste Water Mgmt., Corrections, Public Law Enforcement, and Marketing Management.

Questionnaires will be sent to employers in the community to be developed by the project managers, faculty members, and the Advisory Committee members of each occupational area, and will help determine the technical competencies expected beyond those required by the State in each pilot program.

Black History Effort Set

An effort to document the contributions of Black people to the history of Palm Beach County begins Sunday, Mar. 21 with the first in a series of five symposiums sponsored by PBJC and the Westboro Business and Professional Women's Club.

Initiated with funds from a small federal grant to PBJC, the project has received enthusiastic endorsement from scores of Black leaders. Coming from all sections of the county, twelve contributors are listed for the first symposium at Roosevelt Community School, from 3-5 PM.

Participants will bring pictures, slides, documents and any written material which may possibly be used as a part of a historical compendium, to be assembled at the close of the series.

The Education part of the symposium is divided into 5 epochs: Earliest Years-Up to and Including the Great Depression; Separate but Equal - 1940-54; Educational Transition - Post Brown Years; Unitary - Toward a Single School System; and concluding with Epoch V, Whither Now?

Other topics will be Political; Social/Civic; Business/Professional and Religious. Dr. Mel Haynes is project director, assisting is Jesse Ferguson.

PBJC South Student Of The Month

David Sollberger of Boca Raton has been named Student of the Month for March. He will graduate in June with a cumulative grade point average of 3.55.

His accomplishments are numerous and varied. A charter member of the Science Club, which he now serves as president, he has designed procedures for quantitative analysis of schlieren photography, and in addition, has produced a "Laserium Show" consisting of lasers, computers and wobbulating mirror effects. The show will be presented April 2 at Boca Raton H.S., and April 8 at FAU, 8PM in the Gold Coast Room.

David is a past senator and V.P. of the SAB, a member of Phi Theta Kappa, and is a reporter for the South News. He'll attend U. of F. with a majorin Aerospace Engineering.

Physical Fitness Center Doors Open (Quietly)

The long awaited Physical Fitness Center opened its doors quietly last Thursday. Though not everything is quite complete, Dr. Tate OK'd the start. Still missing are the scale and the ladder for the hydrostatic tank.

The Nautilus equipment is assembled and ready to use, the carpeting is down, the mirrored walls are up and some scheduling has been started, according to Max Faquir, who, with Dr. Howard Reynolds, will primarily be responsible for the new facility.

Since the hydrostatic tank is about 8' deep, the ladder is pretty important. The tank resembles a square ceramic well more than anything else, and is designed to determine body density. The subject sits in a special chair, exhales as much air from the lungs as possible, and submerges, holding breath for a few seconds. From this, the percentage of body fat is found. This will be a part of the evaluation procedure for all who enroll in the fitness program.

The Center is a teaching station for the physical education department, and will always be used under supervision. Timm Lovins is presently undergoing training in this area, and will assist Faquir and Reynolds during the hours it is open. Presently, the physical evaluations are being done for police in the Criminal Justice program. Eventually, it will open to other groups. State Attorney David Bludworth's office has a staff of 12 eagerly waiting to sign up. August is expected to see full scale use, according to Max.

Faculty and staff who are interested in having a regular exercise program worked out for them will be able to begin using the equipment this week. Call 8069 for an appointment.

The equipment is part of the millage improvement for the department. It also has hydraulic equipment funded by a grant from the Handicapped program considered safer in the event of ,omeone losing a grip on it. It is damped much as a door closer, and will not drop on the user.

Already, our physical fitness program is giving more practical experience than other schools in the area, certainly more than is ever expected at this level of education. Max, whose credentials in exercise physiology come from the top rated University of Louisville, states that this will be a unique school program, doing things not ordinarily done at the community college level.

Trustees Agenda

Palm Beach Junior College trustees face an agenda of 35 items at their regular meeting Wednesday, 7:30 p.m., at the Foodservice Center at PBJC Central, but quick action is expected since nothing seems controversial.

A new board rule on selection of architects, engineers and planners will be proposed as worked out during committee meetings.

The Faculty/Administration Exchange Program will be up for revision as worked out during a recent collective bargaining session.

Up for final approval is a rule on hazing and suspension of students and student organizations, but this rule, not needed at PBJC, was practically dictated by the legislature and the state department of education.

The three items of new business include an escrow agreement in regard to faculty salaries, also worked out during bargaining sessions.

In addition to personnel items, which include faculty appointments for next year, there are x items of business, 15 of construction and development, and seven bids to be awarded.

PERSONALS

Congratulations to......Sarah Pappas, who was recently elected to the steering committee of the statewide Council of Instructional Affairs for a two year term. Cancer Care And Intensive Care Notice

Mr. Leo Graham, insurance representative from American Family Life Assurance Company, which carries the Cancer Care and Hospital Intensive Care Plan available to college personnel through the credit union, has requested that I publish the following notice.

"The Intensive Care coverage through the Gold Coast Educational Credit Union has been changed. The daily benefit has been changed from $260.00 per day to $520.00 per day. Anyone presently covered on this plan may change to the new benefit for a slight additional premium. Please consult with the representative when he is in this area, regarding this addition or verification of your present coverage. Brochures will be available on this new intensive care plan and the cancer care plan for anyone not covered by either."

Mr. Graham will be in the Personnel Office Wednesday, March 17 from 10AM to 2:30PM.to

Something You Really Ought To Do

From Tallahassee there is good news and bad news, some news that is good and bad at the same time, and something you really ought to be doing about it all.

The good news is that our president, who freely acknowledges that there may be some higher power helping him look out for the interests of Palm Beach Junior College, has been able to get a line item into the Senate appropriations bill for the Academic Labs/LRC Building at PBJC North for $5,186,091.

That's the Senate bill, which is much tighter than the House bill, and Dr. Eissey has been assured by a number of powerful House committee members as well as members of our own delegation that they will get a similar item in the House bill.

That's the good news.

The mixed news is the House appropriations bill, which is based on one half of a proposed one cent sales tax increase going into general revenues -- which is good -- also insists on penalizing most community colleges for abuse of fee waivers at some colleges. While this does not fall heavily on PBJC this year, it is an unfair and unwise way to handle a problem that was already on its way toward a better solution.

The bad news is the Senate appropriations bill, except for our one bright spot. So far the Senate is refusing to consider an increase in the sales tax, and without that increase, or some other comparable source of revenue, we are all in big trouble.

Already, some community colleges are announcing personnel cutbacks. In one case, all non-tenured faculty are not being renewed.

Fortunately, our sound fiscal policies, (which sometimes get considerable abuse from the very people they are protecting), will probably get us through the current crisis without such a drastic step for the time being.

But without the revenue from that extra cent of sales tax, we and all other community colleges in the state will be facing some real austerity measures. The whole push toward quality education may be blunted, and perhaps reversed without sufficient funding.

What do do? Write. Write a senator. Write two senators. Write all of them.

A short note saying that we have to have that cent of sales tax. Nobody likes taxes, but it is obvious we need this one. However you want to say it.

You are a citizen, you have a right to speak.

Language Translators Needed

Sometimes emergency situations arise when there may be an urgent need for a foreign language interpreter. The Center for Multi-Cultural Affairs (CMCA) is developing a Translator Bureau. Only one telephone number will be listed (that of Continuing Education) and all requests will be processed through that number, which will be available from 8:00 a.m. to 8:30 p.m. Specific requests will be forwarded to the proper individuals (project volunteers.)

A survey of members of the Advisory Board for CMCA indicates that we have people proficient in: Hungarian, German, Greek, Finnish, French, Italian, Spanish, Norwegian, Danish, Arabic, Polish, Dutch, Hebrew, and Ukranian.

Won't you, the faculty and staff, join with the Center for Multi-Cultural Affairs to provide the community with this extremely valuable service? For additional information, please call hn Townsend at 8161. We need all who are proficient in any language in addition to English!

PALM BEACH JUNIOR COLLEGE

MONDAY REPORT

Volume ~~VI~~, Number 24
IV

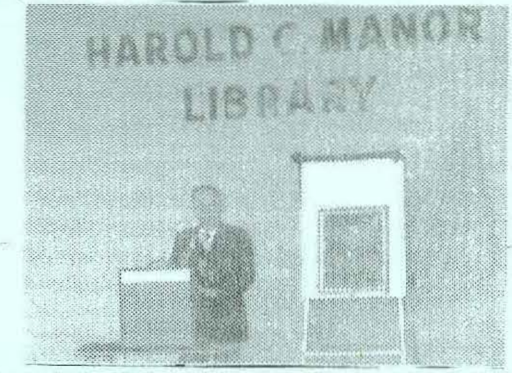
March 22, 1982

College Names Its First Building

Now It's The Harold C. Manor Library

Palm Beach Junior College dedicated its first building Wednesday, March 17. The imposing three story structure at PBJC Central, known til 6:15PM that day as the Library, will now be called the Harold C. Manor Library.

The man honored by the college, which has never before named a building, honored the the college with a 21 year career as its second president.



When Dr. Manor became PBJC president in 1957, there were "about 600 students," according to Dr. Eissey, who unveiled the sign already on the building.

"When he left, there were thousands of students," said Eissey.

Born in Ft. Wayne, Indiana, educated in their schools, and at Indiana University, Dr. Manor had 21 years of experience as an educator when he became PBJC president.

"Three years at Indiana University, 6 as chairman of the Fine Arts Dept. at Arkansas State College, 4 years as teacher and dean of the Evening Division at St. Petersburg J.C.gave him a superlative background for his 21 year career here," added Eissey.

Both Dr. Eissey and Wiley C. Douglass, director of Library Learning Resources unveiled a portrait to be hung in the library, and paid tribute to Dr. Manor's ability to train those with whom he worked.

"Two men in my life have taught me more than any others outside the classroom," said Douglass, "my father, and Dr. Manor."

Dr. Manor spoke of the importance of the Library, of his pride in the library staff, in the faculty, and in the college.

Trustees Postpone Annual Contracts

Acting on the advice of Dr. Eissey, the trustees of the college Wednesday night postponed appointment of all faculty on annual contract for one month.

Dr. Eissey said that in view of the uncertain funding situation in the legislature, it would be unwise to enter into these contracts for the time being.

Some 27 teachers in many different depts. are affected. All have been with the college less than the 3 years necessary for consideration for a continuing contract.

It is customary for the college to renew all faculty contracts in March, even though the contracts will not be effective until August. The postponement still allows plenty of time for action before the beginning of a new contract year.

All other faculty, those on continuing contract or recommended for it this year, were approved for next year by Wednesday's board action.

Dr. Eissey said the level of funding currently under discussion in the legislature, particularly in the Senate, might not provide enough money to continue the college at its present level of operation.

"We need to see where we can afford to go before we commit ourselves," Eissey said. The trustees agreed.

They did not agree, however, on a proposed new board rule governing selection of Architects, Engineers and Planners, and tabled adoption of that rule until further refinement by the Physical Plant Committee of the Board.

ANNOUNCEMENTS (Cont'd)

Representatives from Florida Atlantic University (FAU) will be in the cafeteria on Wednesday March 24, 9 AM-2 PM.

Representatives from Miami Education Consortium (Barry College/Embry-Riddle Aeronautical University) will be in the cafeteria on Wednesday, March 24, 9 AM-Noon and 6-9 PM.

The Art Department of PBJC has announced a show of the photographs of three instructors: Paul Hitchcock, Robert Morphew and Edward Kinney, as well as some pictures by two area photographers, Sue Kinney and Robert Strother, in the Humanities Bldg. Gallery until April 2, according to Jim Houser, exhibit coordinator.

Another exhibit from April 5-30 will be a cross-section of the work of PBJC art students, Houser said.

The exhibits are open to the public, with no admission charge. Gallery hours are from 8 AM to 10 PM, Monday through Thursday, and on Friday from 8 AM-4 PM.

The American Association of Community/Junior Colleges is interested in the possible placement of Scandinavian students at our College. Interested applicants should contact the Director of Personnel. ...J. M. Schneider

A new college organization, the College Republicans met March 16 and elected Bonnie Kirby of Delray Beach as chairman, Art Sorak of Boynton Beach, vice chairman, and Robert Lynes of WPB, secretary. They have all served as voter registration deputies, and are active politically. Two GOP representatives of the national group, based in D.C., were here to introduce the new GOP program. The charter will remain open for a month. Inquiries will be handled through the Political Union office, 101 Social Science Building.

He spoke of his close friendship with Dr. Eissey, and his happiness that the college is so successful under his leadership.

And he spoke of students, for whom the college exists, and of the community, without which it could not exist.

In attendance were some 250 persons, not only his colleagues at the college, but many representing Dr. Manor's wide interests in civic affairs.

Postal Service Technology At PBJC

Classes filled to capacity have greeted the initial courses offered in the new A.S. degree program in Postal Service Technology. The program was developed at the request of the Postmaster of the WPB area, to meet an existing need in this area.

Customer Service I, an evening course, and Mail Processing I, a day course have met with enthusiastic response. They began at the central campus in January, 1982.

Come Fall Term, the college will offer Mail Processing I, day and evening; Mail Processing II, day, and Customer Service I and II, evening. Later, technical courses will include Principles of Management, Finanace I and II, Employee Relations and Labor Relations, with the general education requirements to be taken at any time.

It is a 62 credit hour program, designed to prepare the student with an in-depth knowledge of all facets of the U.S. Postal Service, and to provide college training specifically related to the postal industry. Those students who have already earned a degree, or who do not wish to enroll in the general education courses, may receive a Certificate after completing 27 hours of technical courses.

Faculty Member To Present Paper

Ed Pugh will deliver one of four papers to be presented during the centennial of the oldest book club in America, The Chautauqua Literary and Scientific Circle. It was established in 1878, but this will mark their Centennial graduation as the program encompasses a four year program of home study and reading.

From the huge list which has been assembled over the past 104 years, Ed is charged with the review of one or two books focusing on the social issues of a particular period or movement.

He will have access to the collection of the Literary Circle as he participates in "Celebrating a Century of Reading."

Some of the famous and infamous members include Ida Tarbell, Norman Thomas, William Jennings Bryan, Margaret Mead, Archibald MacLeish, Dr. Carl Menninger, William Sloan Coffin, Alger Hiss, Edward Teller, Jane Addams, and T.R. and FDR.

The dictionary definition for Chau-tau-qua, 1, a village in SW New York on a lake, 2, a summer education center are too brief. Teddy Roosevelt is quoted as saying it is "the most American place in America." With that, we are sure Ed Pugh will agree.

PBJC's general fund gained about $4,500 from the second auction of surplus and salvage material, while ridding itself of obsolete inventory. Except for some broken chairs, everything was sold. An electric typewriter sold for the top bid of $200, while the least paid was for a venerable electric floor fan, which went for 50¢. A psuedo-African shield which has been peregrinating about campus since 1973 went for $14. The buyer said he didn't know why he bought it, and his wife would probably store it and him in the garage for bringing it home.

Open Letter to the United Faculty

For a number of months the Monday Report has been almost silent on matters of collective bargaining. It was the hope of the administration that the United Faculty would responsibly inform you of events involved in collective bargaining. That hope has been shattered by the newsletter of March 18, which claims two fringe benefits and the promise of a third "as the result of negotiations with the college on March 4."

The first benefit -- the Faculty Exchange program -- was proposed by the administration and adopted by the board of trustees on February 17, long before the March 4 meeting. After its adoption, the union suggested some cosmetic changes at the meeting of March 4. The board graciously consented to revise the policy it had already adopted.

The second "benefit" is not what the union newsletter claims. It is a minor matter which sets pay when it is the result of a grant at the figure proposed in the grant. This, too, was an administration proposal, and is designed to avoid constant revision of salary schedules.

The so-called "promise" to do away with the 60 day limit on severance pay for sick leave was a statement of intentions. It has always been the intention of the administration to provide benefits for all employees on an even handed basis. The legal entanglements of collective bargaining and the actions of the United Faculty have not made this easy. It has been necessary to by-pass normal collective bargaining procedures on a number of occasions, and the administration has been criticized for doing so.

The union newsletter also calls attention to the so-called "evaluation" of the administration and board of trustees. This is a destructive propaganda device, and can serve no useful purpose. It will be completely ignored by the administration and trustees, and it is certain that any teacher who has any sense of ethics will not take part in a procedure that can only be useful in a crude war that was described by Albert Shanker, national president of the American Federation of Teachers in the Miami Herald on March 18. He describes contract battles between teachers' unions and boards of education this way, (and I am quoting the article, the underlining is mine):

"The teachers say, 'The best way to get that contract is to weaken the image of the board of education in the eyes of the public. The teachers say the board is really made up of a bunch of incompetent people. They waste money. They're only there for their personal ambition.' The public listens to that.

"The school board isn't going to take that. That was a pretty nasty thing for teachers to do. The school board says, "Well, what about teachers who are constantly sick?' The public listens to the school board.

"The school board hits teachers and teachers hit the board. And the public believes both of us. There aren't any commercials that we could put on television that could overcome the job we do on each other."

Ever since the advent of collective bargaining at PBJC, the United Faculty has attempted to damage the credibility of the administration and board of trustees in the opening guns of the warfare described by Shanker. This warfare can only damage both union and management -- and ultimately harm the institution itself. It would be good if this national perception could filter down to the local level.

Sincerely,

Elisabeth W Erling

Arts Fair Planned For PBJC Central

Students, Faculty And Community Are Invited

An ambitious undertaking by the Central campus chapter of Phi Beta Lambda, the national business fraternity, will be launched on Saturday, April 17, 1982, at 10AM. That is the date for the first of what is hoped will be an annual affair, to be carried on by future student members of the fraternity.

Sculpture, prints, painting and photographs by students will be exhibited in a juried show, with awards to be presented.

Community artists will have booths displaying their works for sale, and a concert with several musical groups is planned for late afternoon.

Business major Jeff Davis is the moving force behind the project, and his hope is to assist students with marketing their products, and to establish a base on which future PBL chapters will continue to build. Eventually, the open air fair concept will attract large numbers of artists, dancers and musicians, as it develops over the years, Davis hopes. He adds that "it will give PBL an event they can organize and operate as a corporation."

Phi Beta Lambda is working along with the newly-forming Art Club, and they are getting assists and support from a number of faculty members and staff.

Davis, who is PBL president, and a freshman from Lebanon, Indiana, added that "many students feel that the PBJC campus here would be an ideal location for construction of a Performing Arts Center---a facility that would serve all the arts, for the community and the college. At the very least, we hope to bring the students and the community closer together."

A new record has been set for the CEL Walkathon......Robbie Given, III, son of a PBJC student, loped through 30 laps, for a distance of 7½ miles. 13 "alumni" returned to participate.

Plus Signs For Weekends

That popular feature of the summer months ---the four day work week---will be back again this year, beginning May 3 and extending to August 5, for almost all of our personnel.

Actually, the four-day work week is very unpopular--it's those three-day weekends that get my vote!!

Not only do they serve recreational and utilitarian personal purposes, they are very popular with those seeking to conserve energy, and also with those seeking to save on operational costs---air conditioning costs a lot more than most of us realize.

Almost all personnel on duty May to August will be involved, with some physical plant employees being the main exception. The information given below is for 12-month personnel. Those with varying contract lengths may be different in detail, and questions should be checked with department chairmen, who will be getting full information shortly, or with the personnel department.

Subject to variations with department head approval, normally hours will be 7:30AM-4:45PM with a half hour lunch for 35 hour personnel, and 7:30AM-6:00PM with a half hour lunch for 40 hour personnel.

Attendance reporting will be 1¼ days per work day, including vacation and sick days. There will be one holiday during the period, on May 31. Since this is authorized as one day, not 1¼, the three remaining days of that week, June 1-3, will be extended to include the extra quarter day--(1 3/4 hours for 35 hr. and 2 hrs. for 40 hr. employees.)

Laserarium Show Put On By South Students

A Light and Sound Show will be presented by members of the Science Club and Phi Beta Lambda in the Gold Coast Room at FAU's University Center, 8PM April 9.

The first portion of the scheduled program will feature motion picture film and slides giving lenticular or three-dimensional effects by a refraction of light.

Computer graphics, with three television sets rigged up to an Apple Computer, will create changing color graphics and spiralling designs for another part of the show.

Caustics will be used to cause the refraction of laser light to form checkerboards and Christmas ball patterns, as well as abstract three dimensional images.

Spirograms--spiral designs--will be presented, after which a brief lecture on the methods and equipment used to produce the visual effects in the show, and examples will be given.

The grand finale is a red, white and blue Tribute to America. Ticket donations are $2.00.

PTK Convention

Five Phi Theta Kappa members from PBJC Central attended the 64th annual convention in cold and snowy Minneapolis recently. Suzane Holtsberg, president; Melba Moran, treasurer; George Molares, reporter; and members Juan Yanes and John McManus were there, along with Allen Hamlin, faculty sponsor. While there, they participated in career workshops.

Department heads will schedule those extra hours during that week.

As in past years, the college will keep a close check on hours. It is good that most people like the modified week, but its primary purpose is energy and cost savings, and if the work of the college and its service to the community suffer, the modified week may be abandoned in future years.

E E O C Charges Dismissed

Two charges against the college before the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission have been dismissed, according to word received last week by Joseph Schneider, Director of Personnel.

A charge by a Hispanic man that the college had discriminated by not employing him as a Director of Continuing Education on the North Campus was found to be without merit.

A case filed six years ago alleging race and sex discrimination when a position called Assistant to the President for Employee Relations was not filled does not warrant further investigation, the EEOC said.

In the last 10 years only three charges have been filed with EEOC in addition to the two already decided. Two have already been dismissed.

The sole remaining charge is one alleging racial bias in hiring of custodial personnel by a black male who was not hired. Although declining to make a flat prediction, Schneider said he anticipates no problem with this charge.

147 Seniors Dually Enrolled

March 8 was the first day of classes at PBJC for 147 county high school seniors who would have lost their Social Security entitlement May 1 had they not become full-time college students before the cutoff date.

PBJC Central enrolled 69; PBJC South 37, PBJC North 27 and PBJC Glades, 14, in classes for Freshman Communications I and Social Institutions. The courses, required of all college students, are being taught in an 8 week session, each of which meets twice weekly.

In the past, Social Security aid to children (because of disability, death of one parent, or other reasons) has ceased at age 18 except when the child was already enrolled full-time.

Since many high school students had not been aware of the May 1 deadline in time to arrange for dual enrollment before the start of Winter Term classes in January, PBJC received many requests to offer the dual enrollment classes.

Honors And Awards

Dr. Etta Ress, founder of the Institute of New Dimensions, was one of five area recipients of the Jefferson Award, a bronze medallion from the American Institute for Public Service, Washington, D.C., at a ceremony given recently by WPEC, Channel 12.

The medallion, struck by the Franklin Mint and signed on the reverse side by Jacqueline Onassis and Robert Taft, Jr., was given for her "outstanding contribution to community betterment."

She was interviewed last Thursday on Channel 12, about her innovative program. A summary of the contributions she has made to the community has been sent to Washington for consideration in the national awards competition.

Last December, Dr. Ress received a plaque from Dr. Eissey and the board of trustees in appreciation and recognition of her services to the college.

Several department chairmen have brought to my attention that other department chairman are requesting through work orders the movement of college property which is not on the requesting department's inventory. Since each department chairman is responsible for the custodianship of their inventory, arrangements should be made with your fellow department chairman before requesting that their property be moved to another location. Your cooperation in this matter will be appreciated by all.

Former Astronaut

Alfred Worden: Commencement Speaker

Astronaut Alfred Worden will be the speakerfor the 47th annual Palm Beach Junior College commencement ceremonies, to be held Tuesday, May 4 at 8 p.m. at the Palm Beach Jai Alai Fronton, according to Dr. Edward M. Eissey.

Worden, who was Command Module Pilot of Apollo 15, the fourth manned lunar landing mission, logged 295 hours and 11 minutes in space, covering a distance of nearly 1.4 million miles.

Now a resident of Palm Beach Gardens, Worden announced Wednesday he will run for Congress in the new congressional district, which is expected to include northern Palm Beach County, Martin, St. Lucie, Okeechobee, Highlands, Hendry, Glades, and parts of Indian River and Collier Counties, because he feels the country is at a "critical juncture".

Worden has been serving as a consultant to aerospace corporations, and is vice president of Apollo Aircraft Company.

During his military career, he logged more than 3,850 hours of flying time, 80 percent in jet aircraft; he retired from the Air Force and NASA in 1975.

Last Monday Was Wet, Wet, Wet

As it turns out, the super-wet weather Monday was an unscheduled day off for almost everybody.

There was a bit of a delay in getting a decision to cancel classes bacause of two factors: 1. Dr. Eissey, who would normally make this decision, was not in town. 2. Dr. Tate, who would normally make the decision in Dr. Eissey's absence, had a telephone out of order, and could not be reached.

The decision was finally made by Dr.Graham and Dr. Erling at about 7:30 a.m., and word given to radio and TV as rapidly as possible thereafter. One station, not knowing that we are not part of the county school system, had already been announcing since 6:30 a.m. that we would not have classes.

Playing fields, parking lots, courtyards and some walkways, like many other parts of Palm Beach County, were flooded for much of the day Monday, but good work by maintenance crews kept damage to a minimum.

Lake Osborne was so full it kept backing slowly up toward the east fence around the maintenance building, but stopped just short of providing major difficulty there.

Noh Theater Tomorrow

The PBJC Department of Continuing Education and its Center for Multi-Cultural Affairs in cooperation with the Morikami Museum will present a demonstration of the Japanese Classical Noh Theater, Tuesday, April 6 at 7:30 p.m. in the PBJC Central Auditorium.

Mr. Fusataka Homma, an outstanding performer of the Hosho School, one of the four main schools of Noh, in existence since the 14th century, will conduct the demonstration.

Noh is a composite art based on the three elements of song, dance and drama.

The Noh usually wear brilliant costumes embroidered and brocaded in silver and gold and exquisitely crafted masks.

There is no charge for admission to this program.

Dr. Russal On State Panel

Dr. Barry Russal, Associate Professor of English at PBJC Glades Campus has been appointed t the Literature Panel of the Florida State Council for the Arts. His responsibilities will include reading, evaluating, and recommending grant applications submitted to Florida Arts Council in the Literary category.

Dr. Russal received his B.A. at City College of N.Y., M.A. at Univ. of Wisconsin, and his Ph.D. at Kent State. His area of expertise is Victorian literature. He has written and published numerous poems. He organizes and directs a series of open poetry readings in the South Florida area.

Dr. Russal teaches Composition, Speech, English Literature and Theater at PBJC Glades. Dr. Russal was nominated to the Florica State Council for the Arts Literature Panel by the Grants Office. ...George Matsoukas

Bowling Tournament - PBJC South

The semi-annual PBJC South Bowling Tournament was held March 18 at the University Bowl, according to Dr. Harris McGirt, director of Student Services. Twenty-seven South Campus students participated, with the following results:

Women's Awards: Joyce Gadoury, 150, Karen Runsey, 138, Elizabeth Spiegel, 127.

Co-Ed Doubles Team Bowling Awards: Ed Waters/Elizabeth Spiegel, 160; Bob Waters/Pat Lizosoain 150; Gary Fiantello/Karen Runsey, 148.

Recruit Class No. 30 Has A First

When members of Recruit Class #30 of the Criminal Justice Institute at PBJC graduated recently, they had a "first".

Two graduates--Roland Brantley Bennett, Jr., of the Boca Raton Police Department and Scott Luther Schlosser, of the Jupiter Police Department--tied for first place academic honors, the first time in 30 basic recruit class graduations at PBJC.

Graduation speaker, Chief Charles Kilgore of the Delray Beach Police Department, told the 41 graduates representing 12 county law enforcement agencies to "never forget you're a public servant."

Small Business Program: Exemplary

At a meeting of the National Small Business Network, Region 4, held at the Stadium Hotel in Atlanta Monday, PBJC was named Regional Site of the Year, according to Dr. Betty Woolfe, director of Continuing Education, PBJC North.

"PBJC is one of 30 participating community colleges in Region 4, and one of nine in the State of Florida, so we feel it was an honor to have our program selected as an exemplary one," Dr. Woolfe commented.

PBJC was selected by the American Association of Community and Junior Colleges in January, 1981 to participate in a coordinated national network of 159 two-year colleges offering low-cost, high quality small business management training.

This is part of a five-year mission to provide two-year colleges with technical assistance on community economic development issues.

Aids Anglo-American Relations

Ben Roberts Turns Into A Detective

Faculty librarian, Ben Roberts, is a collector of "fine bindings", so when his friend, music instructor, Philippe Drevet, discovered a beautiful, leather-bound book at a rural book fair in Grenoble, France last summer, he purchased it for the bibliophile.

Roberts had no idea that because of the book, he would become involved in an interesting piece of detective work (in which he was encouraged by Judy Neumann and other members of the library staff) involving an antiques magazine, Who's Who, a castle in Wales, and a correspondence with an English Lord.

When he began looking through the green and gold gilt-edged book, with a coat of arms embossed on its cover, and entitled "Catalogue of the Pictures at Penrhyn Castle and Mortimier House in 1901"by Alice Douglas Pennant, and published in 1902, he saw many hand-written enclosures.

"I realized that the volume was apparently the author's personal copy by the voluminous, hand-written comments, geneological tables and reminiscences throughout," Roberts pointed out.

Also included was a complete listing of the purchasers of the pictures from the castle--both individuals and museums.

"It had been on my conscience from the time I opened the book, that someone in the family should have the material it contained," Roberts noted.

A notice in an antiques magazine announcing that Penrhyn Castle is now a property of the National Trust of Great Britain, led Roberts to look up Penrhyn in Who's Who, and he found a listing, with address for the Right Honorable Lord Penrhyn.

"In my letter I offered him the book without monetary compensation, but asked in exchange, a finely-bound volume of approximately the same quality".

Lord Penrhyn must have sent the letter by return mail, it arrived so quickly.

Penryn wrote: "I have in fact no proprietary interest in the ownership of any Penrhyn property, which passed to another branch of the family 30 years ago...but I would be interested from the point of family history in acquiring the information written by Alice Douglas Pennant, who was the second of 12 daughters of the second Lord Penrhyn, a great, great aunt..."

This solved Roberts' dilemma.

"I felt he had offered a solution when he suggested he was interested in the family history contained in the book, rather than the book itself, and I agreed in my next letter that a photostatic copy would serve both my purpose of disseminating the personal material and his desire for the information it contained, and I hoped he would grant me absolution.

Roberts mailed a five pound package containing the entire book and enclosures last week.

"I feel I put another link in the chain of Anglo-American relations, and now I can enjoy the book in peace," Roberts added.

ATTENTION: The Sunshine Playmakers invite all college personnel and students to the Lion Who Wouldn't, a musical play, Tuesday, Apr. 6 at 10:30 AM in the PBJC Auditorium.

PBJC MONDAY REPORT:

Dedication And Entertainment

Glades Cultural Arts Center Opens Saturday

The final week's countdown starts today, and the great day will arrive Saturday night, April 17. At long last the Cultural Arts Center at PBJC Glades will be dedicated, opened and ready for the serious business of being the first community auditorium in the Glades area.

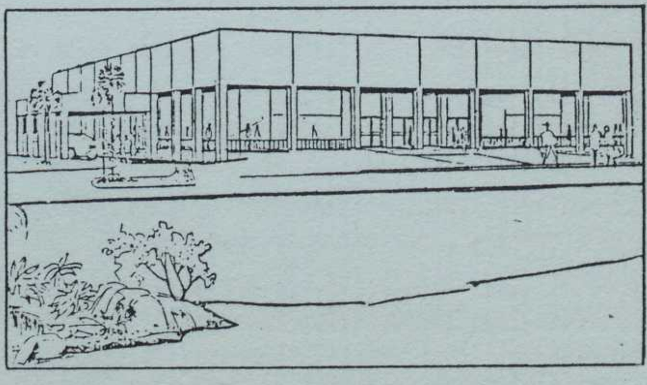
The first entertainment to be offered in the auditorium will be by the PBJC Music dept., which will bring a revised version of its recent successful production,"An Evening on Broadway" to Belle Glade for the occasion.

The gala affair will be formal dress optional, and for invited guests. They will include a number of community leaders whose cooperative work made the center possible, trustees of the college, administrative staff of the college, and the faculty,staff and students of PBJC Glades.

The count of invitations accepted was approaching 400 as of late last week, and the 500 seat auditorium will probably be filled to capacity at the 8PM starting time Sat.

The basic plan for a cultural arts center at PBJC Glades surfaced in 1977, and underwent many changes while adequate funding was sought from the state, the county commission, the City of Belle Glade, and a number of privage individuals and firms.

Mrs. Homer Hand, PBJC trustee who was closely involved in developing the center from concept to reality will take part in the dedication program, giving a brief account of major steps in the history of the center.



Originally conceived as a small and simple auditorium costing much less, the completed

James Michener Aids Our Library

One of the most distinguished writers of our time, James Michener, will join with a long-time friend of the college, local dentist Dr. Paul Shelton, in public support of our PBJC North library Tuesday morning.

Dr. Shelton will present the new library a complete set of Michener's works--23 volumes--as the first books for the shelves of our temporary library facility, created from two classroom spaces.

The presentation program is scheduled from 9 to 10:30AM in the library, which is in the southwest corner of the ground floor of the classroom building.

Michener, who has become a personal friend of Shelton's since the Micheners moved to this area, will be guest of honor for the ceremony and will talk to students and faculty in the first event to take place on the new PBJC North campus on PGA Boulevard.

Following his talk, Michener will autograph the set of books for the library. He has also agreed to a question and answer session, and will autograph personal books for those who wish to bring them to the meeting.

Since space and facilities are still strictly limited, the Monday Report item you are reading is the only advance publicity for the event. If you have free time, and perhaps a Michener book you'd like autographed, you will be welcome.
Arrangements are being made for a PBJC North class to meet at the site. This will provide an adequate audience, leaving just enough room for others from the college who have a special interest.

Dr. Eissey, who met with Michener and Shelton in planning the event, says he is grateful for the author's interest in our college.

First Festival For May Day

The Center for Multi-Cultural Affairs (CMCA) will present its first International Festival at PBJC Central on Saturday, May 1, from 10AM to 9PM, and Sunday May 2, noon to 8PM.

To quote John Townsend, coordinator for the affair, "it will be a feast for the eyes, ears and palate, with colorful native dress, ethnic music and dancing, and mouth watering specialties from many countries to be sold at booths set up in the cafeteria, SAC Lounge, and Patio areas."

Arts and crafts will be displayed, and it is hoped that there will be several rousing soccer games to be played on the nearby PBJC soccer fields.

Twenty-one ethnic organizations serve as an advisory committee to the CMCA, and a subcommittee of this group, headed by Arthur Kouchalokos, of the Order of AHEPA (American-Hellenic Education and Progressive Association, a Greek-American organization) is planning the festival.

There is no admission charge, and the public is urged to come. Other ethnic groups who may wish to participate should call the PBJC Continuing Education folks at 439-8011.

See you all there!

Speechifying!

The 25th annual High School Speech Tournament will take place Monday, May 3, from 8AM to 4PM, sponsored by the Communications Dept. of PBJC, with invitations to all the county high schools.

Events in the competition include Extemporaneous, Original Oratory, Interpretation, Humorous/or/Dramatic, and Poetry Reading.

Assignment and registration will be in the Auditorium, with finals in some categories in the Allied Health Lecture Hall and in the auditorium. To find which is when, call 8140 for schedules.

FACC Joint Commission Meeting Here

Palm Beach Junior College will host a joint meeting of two statewide commissions of the Florida Association of Community Colleges Friday and Saturday of this week. The meeting will take place at the Country Squire Inn, near the Florida Turnpike entrance on Lake Worth Road.

The theme of the joint conference is "Community Colleges Meeting Demands for Quality," and a feature will be a competition to reward teaching excellence, to be held for the first time this year.

The competition, developed by Dr. Sarah H. Pappas, chairman of the FACC Curriculum and Instruction Commission and Dean of Instruction at PBJC North, has created considerable interest in the state, and 20 of the state's 28 community colleges have already named entrants.

Topics to be considered at the joint meeting with the Faculty Commission of FACC include: Keeping the Door Open and Maintaining Quality; Assessment, Placement and Exit Competencies; Defining Academic Skills and Increased Job Requirements; Faculty Motivation of Student Learning.
Also discussed will be: Improving General Education; Legislative Influence on Curriculum; Honors Programs and the Superior Student; and Excellence in Curriculum and Instruction.

The new competition is planned as an annual event, with selection of an innovative curriculum practice, or outstanding improvement in performance of an existing practice, from each of the five FACC districts.

The five finalists will present their projects at the FACC state convention in November.

Registration for the conference is scheduled from 11AM-1PM and requires a $15 fee. FACC members will be welcomed.

South Campus Students Honored

Susan Drake, a PBJC South political science major from Boca Raton is a candidate for the $5,000 Harry S. Truman Foundation Scholarship for 1982. In a recent ceremony in Dr. Eissey's office, she received a certificate of nomination and a White House portrait of Truman.

An outstanding student who maintains a 4.0 average, she is president of the South chapter of PTK, and served on the Student Advisory Board. Last year she organized the Silent Vigil for the Release of American Hostages in Iran, in which the City of Boca Raton also joined.

Student of the Month for South is Steve Park, a 19 year old International Business major from Boca Raton. After June graduation this year, he will go on to FAU.

building, including equipment inside and parking, lighting and landscaping outside, has cost more than $2 million, according to Tony Tate, who has also been closely involved with the project from its inception.

The building, designed by Marion, Paluga and Associates, looks a bit like a slightly modernized version of a Greek temple from the outside, with a columned walkway on three sides.

Dr. Eissey, who was the leader in every phase of the development of the center, will be master of ceremonies, and will preside over the ribbon cutting.

Dr. Philip Lichtblau, chairman of the board of trustees, is first speaker on the program after a welcome by Dr. Cecil Conley, Glades Provost, and the invocation by Rev. David Evans of the Ministerial Association.

The 44 voices of the PBJC Concert Choir under the direction of Pat Johnson and the 23-member Orchestra directed by Jim Gross will perform music from several of Victor Herbert's operettas and from "Kismet", "The Most Happy Fella," and "The Music Man." Dr. Hugh Albee is stage and technical director.

The student government at PBJC Glades will provide valet parking for the occasion and the members of Phi Theta Kappa will be ushers.

PALM BEACH JUNIOR COLLEGE
MONDAY REPORT

Volume IV, Number 28

April 19, 1982

Thanks To Our Legislators

The News From Tallahassee Is Good

Community colleges in general and PBJC in particular fared very well in the final outcome of a legislative session that was like a wild ride on a tilted roller coaster. If the governor signs, and as we learned last year, that if can become an important word, "we will be able to carry on with all our projected programs," Dr. Eissey said.

"We don't have a breakout of PBJC figures yet, but the general level of community college appropriations is high enough to say that we are assured continuation of our programs," he added.

Although the Community College Program Fund is always the most important single item, PBJC had many other concerns, and the legislature saw it our way in almost all of them:

- PBJC North's Library and Academic Labs--$4.75 million.
- Enabling legislation to allow FAU to sell its 45th St. site to obtain funds for a building at PBJC North.
- A good bill allowing additional scholarship days at race tracks and jai alai.
- CIS funding continued at last year's level.
- Community college permission to enter lease-purchase agreements.

All of the above were made possible by the untiring work of the county delegation to the legislature, who were "really super in their support of the college," according to Pat Wilson, who was pretty "untiring" herself. Dr. Eissey is our chief Tallahassee representative and Pat isthere when he has to return for duties here.

From the early days of the session, the House bowed to the inevitability of new taxes and constructed a realistic budget. The Senate, however, was facing a somewhat more complicated situation and refused to budget with funds from a new 1¢ addition to the sales tax until the final days of the session.

After the sales tax was resolved and conferees were working with an adequate projected income level, the conference amounts started falling at or near the original House figures.

The Community College Program Fund came in at $294,486,540...some $2 million under the House figure but $31 million more than the Senate figure. In addition, $2 million in CIS funds

Dusty Leaving For University Job

After 298 victories, and maybe 2 more by the time you read this, Dusty Rhodes will be heading for the 1st assistant coaching job at the U of F upon completion of this years coaching duties here.

Dusty has finished 8 seasons, and is responsible for turning our baseball program into one of the most respected JC programs in the state and nation. Currently the Pacers rank #1 in the state, and are battling to win the division, perhaps the toughest division in the nation.

He will join Jack Rhine, a friend from grade school days, who followed Dusty at Florida Southern, and who is now head coach at Florida, now leading the Southeastern Conference by 1 game.

His responsibilities will be recruiting, coaching outfield, and defensive strategy. He will have no teaching duties, allowing full time to the game that has been a day & night pursuit for him since grade school.

Going along with the coach will be 4 Pacers, all of whom signed letters of intent Thursday morning: Byron Jefferson from John I. Leonard, a 9-0 pitcher last year and 3-3 this year, son of our own Freddie Jefferson; Robbie Thompson, slick-fielding short stop from Forest Hill, who is batting over.400 this year; Richard Rice, L.W. High pitcher, who has come back from knee surgery to a 7-0 record in relief this year and the lowest ERA in Florida; Tim Owen, LW catcher, batting .460 this year.

Rhine, who said he is losing only 4 players this year--2 pitchers, his catcher and fielding in the middle, said "It's fantastic. I'm not only getting the best ass't. coach in Florida, I'm getting all my recruiting done in one day." (Cont'd P.3)

Kelly International Society President

Elected April 13, Jack Kelly, Director of Data Processing, will serve 3 years at the top position for the Association of Education Data Systems (AEDS). One of his first duties as president-elect will be to attend a White House conference on Computers in Education, in Washington, D.C., April 26 & 27.

Jack has been associated with AEDS since 1964, back when he was still with the PB County School District, where he spent 16 years before coming to PBJC in 1978. He has served on the board of the international organization, which originated in Florida, but has since grown to accomodate more than 3,000 members in 11 countries.

Besides his responsibilities for administrative computing at the college, Jack also plays an active role in developing and supporting the data processing instructional program. He still keeps in touch with public interest in computers by teaching data processing courses for the PB County School District Adult Vocation Center.

The blond, cheerful father of six daughters, aged 11 to 20, plays golf with a 13 handicap, and cheers his beloved Phillies, who once gave him a Sandlot League tryout while he was in high school in his native Philadelphia. Football is another sports passion, but he really gets into books...he is an avid reader, fiction, biographies and history are his favorites.

He spent time as an aircraft radio operator on C-130's in Korea, and is very glad to be back in Florida and his 1/2 acre wooded home in the western suburaban area. His new position with AEDS will require much international travel, which he looks forward to, but he'll always be glad to get back to PBJC and home.

The Man Behind The Lady Pacers

In his 6 years of coaching softball, John Anderson's Lady Pacers have never placed less than 3rd among the state's 28 community colleges. Discipline is his overriding rule, and by the time the season begins in earnest in February, the team will have been through the Fitness Center evaluations and have been working out, throwing and fielding, doing wind sprints and up to 5-mile runs, working with the Nautilus weights, for at least six months. For next season, conditioning will start in July, with prospective team members turning out each M-W-F at 8AM.

Part of the reason for consistently placing among the state's top teams, John says, is that the Pacers practice daily, when not playing, in the heat of the day. From 2-5:30 they are on the field practicing, and develop the stamina and endurance to outlast teams who don't commence their practice days til 4PM or later.

Bachelor Anderson is a blend of "father confessor, listener, disciplinarian and proud poppa" to his team. One of his favorite "brags" is that his girls are "pretty, smart and friendly," good ambassadors for PBJC when they travel to other campuses. "They wear dresses when they go out to dinner, and look like the ladies they are," he added. Of more than 25 Pacers who have gone into four year schools since he's been here, graduating or graduated, John hears from many. Some keep in touch with letters telling of their progress academically and athletically. One example is Lisa Turdo, who will graduate from U. of S.F. in Tampa this spring, and has been studying for her CPA exam for the past year. She will take it in November, but when she said that it has never been done so early, John made a bet with her that she can get it done, he believes in her. If she believes as firmly as he believes, she'll make it.

"I love my job, and my team knows it. They play hard for me, and when they must accept defeat, I say do it gracefully. They know when they drop a game, I hurt," and he knows they do too. As the 15 young women pile into vans this Wednesday, heading for Tampa and the state play-offs, you might be able to hear part of a song wafting out the windows. It's been paraphrased from "I Believe In You" and they sing loudest "East is east, west is west, being first is always best." Go,Lady Pacers! You are Number 1 in our hearts!

Annual Contracts Recommended

More than 20 PBJC teachers whose annual contracts were not renewed last month will have renewal recommended at the April meeting of the trustees.

In the month since Dr. Eissey recommended that the board delay the appointments, the legislature has adopted an appropriations bill that will give enough funds to the college to continue all its current programs.

The trustees meeting on Wednesday, April 21, will meet in Conference Room C, as Foodservice air conditioning has been cut off due to roof repairs.

Action on the teacher contracts is only a small part of 14 pages of personnel changes, including reappointment of Administrative-Professional personnel for next year, and appointment of credit-course instructors for Spring and Summer Terms.

Among the personnel items is the announcement of the impending retirement of Don Whitmer, Dean of Occupational Studies, as of Dec. 31, 1982. Whitmer has been with the college since 1957 when he transferred from Palm Beach High School.

The board will be asked to approve 9 new positions connected with the opening of the new PBJC North campus. Among the construction and development items, most of which are addenda and change orders, is approval of the preliminary plans for the new Student Services Building on Central campus.

The lengthy agenda consists primarily of construction and development and business affairs.

Matthews To Be Presenter

Dr. Barbara Matthews, Professor, Psychology, just received notification that she will present at the national conference of the National Women's Studies Association in California this summer. She was also asked to chair a panel of presenters on the topic "The Role of Community Colleges in Feminist Education."

At last year's national conference, sponsored by the University of Connecticut, Dr. Matthews was elected to a 2 year term on the organization's national governance board, and represented community colleges at the 1st board meeting at OSU earlier this year.

"There is so much to be done in furthering the goal of education equality, and despite resistance, we are making some progress," Barbara says. "Before women and men can enter society as whole and productive human beings, certain aspects of education must change, and it is professionally gratifying to me to be involved in this important work."

was budgeted elsewhere, so the final figure actually matched the House even more closely than is apparent. Last year the governor vetoed an item for our Institute of Governments, not realizing that this was actually a state-wide program to be developed here, rather than solely a PBJC program. This year, that item is clearly a state-wide item.

When, and if, the governor signs, the meaning of the appropriation for PBJC will begin to be spelled out in more detail.

By the time you read this, the Pacers will have played Miami-Dade New World Center Friday and Saturday afternoons. Pending the outcome of these games, and the 2 games facing all other contenders, the Pacers will either have an automatic berth in the state tournament, or will be in a play-off for qualification at the WPB Municipal Stadium April 22-24.

Currently, we are 33-7 overall and 10-6 in league play, tied with Indian River and Broward for first place.

MONDAY REPORT:

"Waiting A Long Time"

We Move Into Our New North Campus

It is about to happen. If the architects are right and that last-minute alteration in requirements for utilities is operational on time, and if all the proper inspections are made, the staff at PBJC North will be reading the next Monday Report at the PGA campus.

Dr. Ottis Smith, whose outwardly calm attitude and deliberate policy not to make alternate plans for classes now appears justified, says he is planning to start moving on Saturday, May 1, and be set up for business on Monday, May 3, with students scheduled on campus for the first time on May 6.

If all goes well, beginning May 3rd, the telephone number for both the 45th street campus and the Palm Beach Gardens office will get a transfer to the new PGA number: 622-2440.

Although completed to the point that it will be ready for occupancy, just in time, there will be a long check list of items still to be accomplished by the contractor before final payments are made, Dr. Smith said.

Fortunately, the Spring and Summer Terms are small enough so that the new facility will not be immediately filled, and some flexibility for continuing construction work will be possible. By the time of the Fall Term, everything should be completed.

As Monday Report readers know, there are two main buildings on the new campus, an Administration/Student Services building and a classroom building with 12 classrooms and a temporary library made from three classrooms, plus a small mechanical building on the site. Some work on outside athletic fields-- a soccer field, baseball field and a softball field near the south entrance has already been done.

By the Fall Term, Dr. Smith expects complete utilization for evening classes, with many more scheduled in the facilities now in use, and perhaps very small room for future expansion of day classes.

Evening classes are already filled, with

President To Visit Republic Of China

Dr. Eissey will be visiting the Republic of China on Taiwan May 16-26, as one of nine community college presidents visiting there by invitation of the Ministry of Education of the Republic.

The trip was announced by Dr. Eissey near the close of the April board meeting Wednesday night. He said he wanted everyone to know that the entire trip is being paid for by the Republic of China.

The invitation came from Community Colleges for International Development,Inc., and the presidents will be encouraged to observe the educational and economic development of the Chinese on Taiwan.

Better understanding and friendly relationships between the Chinese and American people is the purpose of the trip.

Trustees acted favorably on all matters announced in last week's advance story on the meeting -- annual contracts, 14 pages of personnel changes including reappointment of administrative personnel, approval of start-up positions for the North Campus, and preliminary plans for the new Student Services Building.

The plans show a building occupying most of the available space west of the current Student Activities Center, and south of the Criminal Justice Complex. Joint roof overhangs will connect the SAC building directly to the new building.

Offices are provided for all Student Affairs functions, including the Registrar's office. It is planned, however, that actual registration will take place in the SAC building.

Dolly Hand Cultural Arts Center

It was a great day in the Glades on Saturday, April 17.

The closely held secret that the new auditorium there would be named the Dolly Hand Cultural Arts Center was revealed by Dr. Eissey and Dr. Lichtblau only as they approached the auditorium with the name in full view.

Dolly was suitably overcome with emotion, but rallied to give her talk about the history of the auditorium in fine style. After Dr. Eissey formally dedicated and named the building, the musicians started singing "Hello, Dolly" and the audience came to its feet with applause -- another first in a night full of them.

The Music Department gave a great performance. It was an evening long to be remembered.

Ground Zero

The college provided a forum last week for the discussion of defense and disarmament policies under the title of "Ground Zero." There were similar observances in 350 colleges across the nation, according to news reports.

The local observance was sponsored by the Student Government Association, Students for International Understanding, and Phi Theta Kappa. It was chaired by Dr. Richard Yinger of the Social Science faculty.

Although two speakers appeared who favor the continued building up of defense capability, most of the speakers in a lengthy, three-day agenda discussed such topics as the horror of nuclear war, the impossibility of adequate civil defense, and the moral imperative of peace in a nuclear age. Most favored an immediate freeze on production of more nuclear weapons, and held views favoring disarmament, with the method and extent varying from speaker to speaker.

At the end of the trustees meeting Wednesday night, Dr. Eissey noted that the subject matter of Ground Zero was highly controversial, and that the meeting had already given rise to one anonymous piece of hate mail now in circulation.

He said the college has given a forum in the past to many controversial issues of importance in the community. He pointed out that we had hosted pro-ERA meetings and anti-ERA meetings, pro-abortion and anti-abortion meetings, and given a meeting place to people who were angry about airport noise and to those wishing to expand the airport.

"We have not advocated any position on any of these, and we are not advocating any position now," he said. "We want to provide a forum for open and frank discussion of all issues of community interest.

"We want people to make up their own minds after ample flow of information and an opportunity to hear all viewpoints."

Personals

Meta Campbell, of the PBJC Duplicating Center, will retire April 30 after 18 years with the college. An all-day Open House is being planned by her co-workers Wednesday, April 28 starting at 9 a.m., so please drop by her office at AD-21 (now 201) and wish her well.

Heartfelt thanks to all who made the opening of the Dolly Hand Performing Arts Center such a fantastic success. I want all of you to know how much I appreciate your good work.

It is my pleasure to announce that the Editor-in-Chief of the Beachcomber, Kim Davis, has been awarded the Harris Sims Scholarship by Florida Southern College. The scholarship is awarded to the most respected incoming Journalism student. ...Art Noble

ATTENTION ALL BOWLERS. Roy Bell tells us there are still plenty of spaces left for the bowling party on May 18 at Lake Worth Lanes. Deadline for getting in on the fun is one week away, Monday, May 3. You can bring guests. Call Roy at 8070 if you are interested.

First Play In New Auditorium

"Tribute" At Cultural Arts Center

The first play in the new Dolly Hand Cultural Arts Center at PBJC Glades will be Bernard Slade's "Tribute" produced by the Glades College and Community Theatre.

Performances are scheduled Friday, May 7 and Saturday, May 8 at 8 p.m. Tickets are available at the college Bookstore during hours the bookstore is open and at the box office of the new auditorium Monday through Thursday, 7 to 10 p.m.

The Glades College and Community Theatre, as the name suggests, is composed of students and other interested citizens who wish to expand theatrical opportunities in the Glades.

The founder and guiding spirit of the College and Community Theatre is Dr. Barry Russal of the PBJC Glades faculty. The group was formed in 1980, and produced "Prisoner of Second Avenue" in a makeshift theatre built into a classroom.

The play was a sell-out with excellent reviews, and the group has been waiting for the availability of the new auditorium for the production of "Tribute". Dr. Russal will direct.

Selected as one of the ten best plays of its year on Broadway, "Tribute" is often comic and tender and sometimes shocking. It deals with one imperfect man's attempt to find his place in life under the shadow of death. Tickets are $3.

Two Meetings April 30

Dr. Eissey has scheduled the all college meeting for the PBJC Central auditorium Friday, April 30 at 2PM. As you know, one of these meetings is scheduled near the end of the Fall Term and another near the end of the Winter Term.

The Senior Choral Group under the direction of David Chandler,(who made his PBJC singing debut as the basso of the Earth Tremors at our last meeting), will present a short program of songs. David is a talented and serious conductor as well as a fun loving basso, and we are sure you will appreciate him in a different role. The group is composed of singers over 55 years of age from the community.

You will also hear a brief review of events in the 81/82 academic year, and perhaps some projections for the future. The meeting is mandatory for full time personnel on duty at that time, and optional for those who are not working at that hour.

Prior to the college-wide meeting, the annual retirement luncheon for faculty will be held in the cafeteria, beginning at 11:30AM.

Dr. Hal Hutchins, William G. Baldree, Walker Graham and Jesse Ferguson are to be honored at this meeting.

If you plan to attend and have not received your ticket, please contact Dr. Erling's office. A ticket will be necessary.

five classes scheduled in Palm Beach Gardens High School in Spring and Summer.

PBJC North is planning a gala dedication and open house on June 4, and you will be reading more about that later in the Monday Report.

"We've been waiting for this for a long time," Dr. Smith says.

JUNE, 1982 DEADLINE... The Nat'l Endowment for the Humanities announces a deadline for fellowships for Independent Study and Research and Fellowships for College Teachers 1983-84. Awards will be announced 12/82

Fellowships for Independent Study and Research are for scholars who can make significant contributions to humanistic thought and knowledge. They are not for candidates seeking support for work toward a degree.

Fellowships for College Teachers are provided to enhance the candidates capacities as teachers, scholars or interpreters of humanities to the public. This program is intended for those whose daily responsibilities lie in the teaching of undergraduate students. It will not support advanced degree work.

PLAN AHEAD FOR SUMMER 1983

The Nat'l Endowment for The Humanities announces an Oct.1 deadline for 1983 Summer Stipend Programs. $2,500 may be awarded to faculty members who can make a significant contribution in their field. The proposed project may be one completed within the stipend period or part of a long range project. Three applications may be submitted from PBJC. No more than 2 nominees should be in the early stages of their careers. The scope of the Endowment's support includes but is not limited to the following: history, philosophy, languages, archaeology, jurisprudence, history & criticism of the arts, ethics, comparative religion, and those aspects of the social sciences that employ historical or philosophical approaches.

PALM BEACH JUNIOR COLLEGE
PBJC MONDAY REPORT:

Volume IV, Number 30 May 3, 1982

1,270 Eligible

A Record Class Graduates Tuesday

The largest graduating class ever -- 1,270 students -- will be eligible for graduation ceremonies Tuesday, 8 PM at the Palm Beach Jai Alai Fronton.

As usual, most of the graduates from Spring, Summer and Fall Terms will not be present for the ceremonies, but most of the 635 from the Winter Term will be there, with relatives and friends in the audience.

Ample seating for all who wish to attend, plenty of parking, and easy adaptability to the traditional PBJC ceremony were discovered at the Fronton last year when the management came to the rescue of the college after civic auditorium facilities were unexpectedly cancelled.

"We are grateful to the Fronton management for its continued cooperation," says Dr. Eissey.

Rehearsal is scheduled for 10AM Tuesday. As previously announced, Col. Alfred Worden, former U.S. Astronaut will deliver the address.

The 1,270 graduates just edges out the previous high of last year (1,225), up from 1,085 in 1979-80.

PBJC North Campus Still Not Ready

Everything we told you last week about PBJC North --well, almost everything, is not so.

North has not moved, the old phone numbers are still good, and North people reading this are still in the same old offices for the time being.

The utilities problem we mentioned and some air conditioning problems defeated the plan to get into the new building right away, and then continue with a long punch list of uncompleted items.

Late Tuesday morning, the college learned that the PGA campus could not be made ready for occupancy, and Dr. Smith, Dr. Pappas and others began an immediate search for rooms for all the sections that were scheduled.

The news came at the worst possible time to get in touch with students, but efforts are being made to arrange a mailing, and news releases and public service announcements are urging students to call in for their new schedules.

It is not known when a realistic occupancy date can be set, but Dr. Smith is definitely not cancelling the planned dedication and open house Friday, June 4 at 10 AM.

At first the classroom situation did not seem too serious -- we could continue to use the 6 rooms at 45th Street, and we were already planning to use rooms at Palm Beach Gardens High for evening classes, but in anticipation of having the new facility, we had schedule more day classes than can be handled at 45th. Evening classes, also proved harder to place than anticipated. As this is written, we are three classrooms short, but still working on the problem.

The Modified Work Week began today. We hope you made it at 7:30 AM, if you were supposed to. For most of us, Friday is added to make a three day week-end, and to conserve energy. (For air-conditioning, as well as ours) and you planted early)

Mother's Day is coming ~ Plant seeds with your child for each of the special women in his life. It will be his responsibility to care for the seeds by nurturing the soil and watering them. Since it takes several weeks for the seeds to germinate you'll need to begin them between the beginning to middle of April.

. . . And Soon We Grow Older

Institutional Research, in a recent statistical report, shows the average age of PBJC students creeping upward. This Fall Term, an average of 31.4 years was reported, an increase of .3 from the previous year.

For full-time students, it is 21.7 years, closer to the age bracket commonly associated with junior college students, while part-timers, who outnumber full-timers, averaged 34.7.

Men overall were younger than women, averaging 29.8 to their 32.5, and pursuants of A.A.'s ran to 24 years as compared to A.S. degree students at 26.4. Non-credit students of CIS averaged 48.1, while miscellaneous and certificate and longer term non-credit course students averaged 38.2 years.

New Counselor For The Handicapped

Gail Tomei arrived on the central campus for her first day of work to find the campus afloat as a result of that week-end's rainstorm. She has since found her way to dry ground, and is now engaged in her specialty of counseling the handicapped.

She came to us from the Michigan Department of Vocational Rehabilitation in Warren, MI. Her Master's, as well as her Bachelor's were earned at Wayne State in Detroit.

Gail's husband is a systems programmer for Palm Beach County, and they share an enthusiasm for sailing and diving in their leisure time.

New Dimensions Gains National Recognition

Director Dr. Etta Ress and Administrator Anita Furst introduced and presented facets of the programs for older students within the Institute of New Dimensions. They were one of two junior colleges invited to participate in the National Council on the Aging in Washington, D.C. Other participants came from colleges, universities and widely divergent organizations.

The two women report that the Institute of New Dimensions has already, as a consequence of the convention, been invited to participate in a national catalog of model projects for the elderly to be published by the Administration on Aging, and a national roster of model projects to be selected after evaluation by a committee of the National Council on the Aging.

For those not familiar with the Institute, it is an innovative educational program that came into being in 1975 to combine the expertise of retired professionals with the desire of older adults for intellectual nourishement. It became a PBJC college sponsored program in 1977, after a start under a grant from ACTION to the RSVP Program.

Get Your "Tribute" Ticket Now

If you do not have your ticket for "Tribute", the first play in the Dolly Hand Cultural Arts Center at PBJC Glades, it might be a good idea to call the Glades Library, or the auditorium box office and get your seats reserved.

As this is written, Thursday afternoon, word is that there is still a good selection of tickets, but the center section is filling fast, and a good audience for both Friday and Saturday is assured. Tickets are $3.

"Tribute" is the story of an entertainment personality who has led a superficial life until, at age 51, he discovers he is dying of cancer. His reaction to this news, often comic and sometimes tender, is the stuff from which the play is made.

Jack Lemmon played the central role in the movie. The part he played, Scotty Templeton, will be played by James Montgomery, from Clewiston.

Montgomery played the lead in "Prisoner of Second Avenue," the first play produced by the Glades College and Community Theatre.

Scotty's son, Judd, will be played by Byron Branyon, his ex-wife Maggie by Alicia Lancaster, a full time PBJC Glades employee, and his Doctor by Jane Shepard.

Adele Kimbro will play the important part of Sally Haynes, a friend to Scott and Judd, and Pam and Bill Hatch will play Hillary and Lou Daniels.

Kurt Wagner on lighting, Gene Bair on sound, and Sally Seigler as stage manager are aiding Dr. Barry Russal, who is directing the show.

The entire cast and crew have been working on scenery, according to Dr. Russal.

"We've had to start from absolutely nothing," he said, "and it has been a tremendous effort. But we will be ready by curtain time."

Mickey Says . . .

All full time employees who do not have their current Walt Disney's Magic Kingdom Club cards should pick them up immediately from the Personnel Office in order to receive an Epcot Center Souvenir Book. The book will illustrate all facets of the Epcot Center which opens in October.

The Personnel Office has received notice from the National Club Director that the Souvenir books will be mailed in June to only those members listed on their current membership roster. Therefore, it is important for employees to their their membership applications on file.

Also, employees should be reminded that the Shamu's Dolphic Club card gives an admission discount on many AMC theaters throught Florida. Locally the Cross County Mall Theater in West Palm Beach and the Boca Mall-6 Theater in Boca Raton honor the cards.

For additional information on these and other state attractions discounts, please contact the Personnel Office.

In Baseball, Trouble Is Spelled CHIPOLA

For years, Pacer baseball fans have spelled trouble INDIAN RIVER, but Dusty and his players took care of that myth last week at Lakeland. Now, unfortunately, the fans have a new way of spelling trouble.

Chipola is the only team to beat the Pacers at the state tournament this year, and they did it twice. That second shot, a 5-4 heartbreaker Wednesday afternoon, eliminated us from the tournament, leaving Chipola and Manatee to play for the state championship Wed. night, which Manatee won 6-1.

The Pacers made it to the final three in true championship style, beating their old nemesis, Indian River 6-2 Tuesday. Indian River was responsible for knocking the Pacers out at Lakeland in 1979, the only other time we have made it to the state tournament, and had beaten us three out of four this year, the only team in the conference to post a winning record against us.

Except for Chipola, the tournament was just great for the Pacers. They started out by beating Manatee, the tournament favorite and eventual winner, 9-1.

Then they hit their new nemesis and lost 6-1. From that point on, it was a sudden death tournament.

So, they beat Gulf Coast 6-5, and looked great in winning over Indian River.

At that point, only three teams were left, and the Pacers lost their second game to Chipola. They finish at 40-10 for the season, and 306 wins for Dusty in eight years here.

Graduation No. 47

"The sky is the limit" may prove to be restrictive, according to the message given PBJC graduates last Tuesday night by Alfred Worden. The former astronaut described the emotional experience of looking back at earth as he circled the moon 75 times, thinking of mankind and the happenings on our planet.

More than 2,500 were in attendance, some 600 plus graduates of the Winter Term. Of the once a year ceremony, many who completed their requirements during the Fall, Winter and Spring Terms did not appear.

Dr. Philip Lichtblau welcomed the audience and a special award was given to Arthur Silvester,Sr.,owner of the Fronton, for his contributions to education.

Many of the graduates were greeted with bursts of applause, but when Dr. Eissey left the stage for a special delivery to Gordon Palmer, who was graduating in his wheelchair, there was applause from the entire audience.

During his address, Worden read a poem he had written shortly after his space experience. It concluded with the words: "Embrace your fellow man. There is no other way to survive." Many of the students and much of the audience took that thought soberly to heart.

Will PBJC North Move? Tune In Next Week!

If anybody out there wants to believe it, the Monday Report announces once more that we'll move into the PGA Boulevard campus next Monday, May 17.

Everything said two weeks ago is hereby said again, including that new telephone number: 622-2440. Dr. Smith & staff will be open for business , barring unforeseen last minute problems.

A 30.8 Percent Gain

Spring Term Enrollment Soars to 5,572

The largest over-the-year percentage gain in recent history brought 5,572 students into the Spring Term last week -- a 30.8 per cent increase over the 4,225 at the same time last year.

More than half of the huge gain, 754 students, was attributable to the fact that PBJC South did not have a Spring Term last year, and does this year.

Last year, PBJC South maintained a very complicated schedule of terms, partly on our schedule and partly on FAU's quarter system. As a result of that fast shuffle, they recorded no students in the Spring Term, so the 754 students they have now was scored by the computer as a clean gain over last year.

Even so, the remaining increase of 593 students is about 14 per cent, and represents a significant jump in enrollment.

PBJC North scored heaviest, with 231 of the 593 increase bringing their Spring enrollment past 1,000 to 1,027.

Central gained 213 to 3,322 students and Glades went from 255 to 374 students. That is a 46 per cent gain.

The increases were consistent in all categories, perhaps a little heavier in evening students and in non-credit students, but still very respectable in day students.

The solidity of the gain was illustrated by an increase in FTE from 466.5 a year ago to 611.5 this year.

Assigning reasons for the increases is largely a guessing game, but South's addition of a Spring Term, and North's increased offering of day classes in anticipation of the new campus, are not guesses.

Glades may have benefited somewhat by the increased visibility in that area because of the Dolly Hand Cultural Arts Center.

It is usual for community college enrollment to increase during times when jobs are hard to get, and this is probably also a factor.

After that, your guess is as good as anyone's. It could be that we are doing a few things right... JK

Steckler, Flatley To Head Departments

Barring some unforeseen development, the college will have two new chairpersons by the time you read this...Ann Steckler for the Business Department and Dr. James Flatley for Dental Health Services.

The trustees were to meet Thursday night, after the Monday Report deadline.

Ann has been an economics teacher here at the college since August 21, 1973. She is a senior instructor.

Two years ago she served as chief negotiator for the United Faculty of PBJC, and impressed people on both sides of the table with her ability, her quick grasp of essential facts, her skill in fashioning effective arguments, and a sense of humor that helped to lighten overserious moments.

She has not acted in that capacity in the past year.

Dr. Flatley came with the college last September. He is a native of Kenosha, Wisconsin, and was in private practice there for 36 years.

An author, he has written on dentistry, travel, and is a short story writer. He is also editor of the International Journal of Orthodontics.

Also on the agenda for Thursday was an expansion of the youth employment program coordinated by the Urban League which met on campus at PBJC Central last summer with 90 students in attendance.

Home At Last!

We REALLY Do Move Into The North Campus

The battle has been won -- the first battle, anyhow -- and we have moved into the PBJC North Campus at 3160 PGA Blvd., Palm Beach Gardens, 33410, telephone number 622-2440. The second battle will be to get that long list of uncompleted items in apple pie shape before the Fall term.

Now comes a day for dedication, open house, and celebration of the fact that we are at long last in a place where growth can be more orderly, and service to the student can be more beautiful.

The time has been set for Friday, June 4, 10 a.m., and you are all invited.

Appropriately, the ceremonies will be opened with a welcome from a student, Matthew Aloi, president of Phi Theta Kappa, North Campus Chapter.

After the ceremonies, PTK members will conduct tours of the two buildings that now make up the campus.

Reverend Charles Kline, pastor of Simpson Memorial Methodist Church will give the invocation, Father Frank Flynn, of St. Ignatius Loyola Catholic Church will lead the prayer of dedication, and the benediction will be pronounced by Rabbi William Marder, Temple Beth David.

Hugh Albee will sing the National Anthem and another solo number, and Alfred Meldon will give some background music during the reception.

Dr. Smith will bring greetings, Dr. Eissey will speak briefly and introduce guests of honor, and Dr. Lichtblau and the provost and president will all get involved in the ribbon cutting.

All this will take place in the student information area on the ground floor of the Administration Building.

Afterwards, there will be light refreshments and a chance to chat with friends on the patios outside the area. The printing of the programs and the refreshments are courtesy

Approval For OTA Program

The American Occupational Therapy Association, Inc., after a complete on-site evaluation of our OTA Assistant Program, has granted full accreditation and a certificate of approval.

The report analyzed the major strengths of the program as follows:

1. The Administration of this institution is to be commended for the strong support of the Occupational Therapy Assistant (OTA) program and the program director.

2. The Coordinator of Allied Health Services contributes significantly to the strength of the program as a strong and effective advocate for OT.

3. The concise and well-organized application materials prepared for the reapproval survey accurately represent the program and have facilitated the paper review and on-site evaluation process.

Glades Open House

By the time you read this, the Dolly Hand Cultural Arts Center at the Glades campus will have had an open house on Sunday afternoon, 3-5 p.m., with Vic Knight and his orchestra providing entertainment. We believe most people in the college and community learned about the event, even though publicity efforts got off to a late start -- too late for last week's Monday Report.

The new Glades auditorium is already in near constant use for some community or college purpose, and some event or practice was held there every day last week except Monday.

So far, everything seems to be going well at the new campus. The move took longer than planned, but -- what move doesn't? With two weeks to get everything out of boxes and into desks and file drawers, everything should be in fine shape for the dedication.

Board Approves A Record Budget

A record budget which continues all programs, adds 11 teaching positions, and sets aside $525,000 for changes in salary schedules was adopted by the trustees Wednesday.

New Coach Recommended

The assistant baseball coach at Florida Southern College in Lakeland, FL is the recommended replacement for Dusty Rhodes, according to Tom Mullins, Athletic Director.

Frank Cacciatore, 29, has his master's degree in mathematics from the University of South Florida. He was an All-American pitcher and outfielder for Seminole JC before playing on Florida Southern's championship team in 1975, his senior year there.

afted by the Detroit Tigers, playing at he Class AA level until he took the job at FSC as an assistant coach, he has built a solid reputation as a talented coach.

A screening committee set up after Dusty Rhodes' resignation to go to the University has made a strong recommendation to Dr. Eissey and the board of trustees.

Collective Bargaining

A collective bargaining session between PBJC and the United Faculty of PBJC has been scheduled for Tuesday, June 8, 3 PM, at the County Parks and Recreation Headquarters in John Prince Park, immediately south of the PBJC Central Campus.

The meeting was called at the request of the union to begin a new round of talks aimed at an agreement for the 1982-83 college year, which begins July 1.

The last round ended inconclusively and without a contract, due at least in part to an ongoing court case now awaiting an appeals judgment from Tallahassee.

Dr. Eissey explained that PBJC's position is much better than that of many other community colleges, and congratulated staff and faculty for good work in cost saving measures.

He said there are reports that one state community college will lay off 25 teachers, that others are encouraging early retirement and will not replace those leaving, and others have been forced to curtail some programs.

"Our budget does not lay off staff, does not curtail programs," he said. "I want to congratulate our staff and faculty for cooperation in the steps we have taken which kept us from getting into these difficulties."

The budget shows $18,392,828 available from all sources, and details spending of $16,473,586, up 8.7 per cent from the $15,149,436 spent this year.

A large estimated fund balance for June 30, 1983 of $1,919,242 is broken down as follows: $500,000 for preparation of the 83-84 budget, $325,000 for "contingent liability" in the appeals court decision, an unrestricted balance of $569,242, and the $525,000 for salary schedule changes.

Dr. Eissey said he would make a recommendation for those changes at the June 16 meeting of the board.

The plant fund section of the budget was dominated by the $4,750,000 appropriation for the academic labs/library learning resources projects at PBJC North. The board passed a resolution to establish a budget for that project.

The meeting last Wednesday was necessary in order to get the budget to Tallahassee as soon after the June 1 deadline as possible. Budget preparation was impossible in time for the May meeting,which was held a week early to accomodate travel schedules of board members.

Dr. Eissey Returns From Taiwan

Off to Taiwan went Dr. Eissey, wearing at the recommendation of our board chairman, Dr. Philip Lichtblau, his new elastic support hose. To judge by the itinerary he followed, as one of a group of consultants invited to tour the Republic of China, the island of Taiwan, they were probably much appreciated.

On Saturday, April 15, departing at 7 AM local time, the 20 hour flight began with the first arrival Atlanta,then to Washington, D.C., and on to San Francisco where China Airlines concluded the sojourn.

The first trip to the Orient for Dr. Eissey started auspiciously, with all his airline connections being right "on the dot." Though there was jet lag initially because of the swift transition from EDT to Pacific Time, the San Francisco early morning "wakeup" time by his biological clock was taken up by jogging in place, doing sit-ups and such at 4:30AM. Hope he was on the ground floor, for his neighbors sake.

David Liu, a tall, handsome, English speaking coordinator of the Council for North American Affairs introduced the group to the do's and dont's of customs in the areas to be visited.

Enroute, the captain of China Airlines announced that it was 7:50AM on the morning of what would have been the 16th day of May in the WPB area, but by their reckoning, it was the 17th, and because of the sun's movement, the entire flight would take place in daylight. So much for naps!

Strongest initial impressions were of motion and energy....electric signs, motorcycles, bicycles, crowds of people, sometimes as many as five to a Honda! And exercise buffs abound... at 5AM it was impossible to get onto a tennis court.

At the National Taiwan Institute of Technology (NTIT) the first of many meetings with the educators with whom he was to meet, he learned that this particular college accepts only the top 25% of those who apply. Of those accepted, 90% graduate and of that number, 3% continue into graduate school, and a great number of them come to the U.S. for additional degrees.

The ten educators who comprised the group visited eleven schools, colleges and universities during the tour were invited as guests of the Minister of Education of the Republic of China, the Honorable Hwei-sen Chu.

The Call Of Alice Paul

It's time to counter rhetorical banality,

To shout in firm and fair finality,

To serve notice to the nation and to Tallahassee,

To Mr. SLY and MRS. SHAFTly, (sic)
THE ONLY ACCEPTABLE EQUATION IN THIS DEMOCRACY IS - EQUALITY===

June Board Meeting

Salaries, Personnel, PBJC North, South On Agenda

If you are wondering about what Dr. Eissey will recommend on salaries for next year, your curiosity won't be satisfied until the 17th item on the agenda of the June meeting of the trustees, which will be held in Conference Room C at 7:30PM.

The item reads: "Discuss salary adjustment for all College personnel except those covered by the Bargaining Unit."

Actually, since most items on the agenda will probably be passed on a single motion with the consent agenda, it will probably be the third or fourth item discussed.

One earlier item, Personnel, is never on the consent agenda, and has a number of recommendations of interest in the college community:

John Schmiederer is being recommended for Dean of Vocational Education, and the position of Coordinator of Allied Health is being eliminated.

Frank Cacciatore, the new baseball coach, is being recommended for appointment as a senior instructor in the Center for Personalized Instruction.

Dr. Jo Turk at South Center, moves to Associate Professor from Assistant Professor.

Dr. Kamthorn Sukumarabandhu goes to Assistant Professor from Senior Instructor.

Helen Foster moves from Continuing Ed to Monica's spot.

Jean Tacey and Ann Dorosh go from Central to North Campus.

Another item of unusual interest to PBJC North is the Ed Specs for the Academic Labs and Library Learning Resources Center at the new campus.

The board will also be asked to authorize the Physical Plant Screening Committee to begin the procedure for selecting architectural and engineering firms for the South Campus.

It Was A Good Day At North Dedication

The dedication and open house at PBJC North Friday, June 4, was a relaxed and friendly occasion playing to a packed house, and about 100 sitting and twice that many standing, on a beautiful day when the season's first hurricane decided not to interfere.

There were so many VIP's present that even Dr. Eissey decided not to try to name all of them, and was content to introduce the board, the legislators and county-level political figures, and a few other distinguished persons. We are going to chicken out and not try to name anybody.

Dr. Smith gave an excellent historical sketch of the development of the north campus, and then took some ribbing because it turned out to be quite lengthy.

All others performed admirably.

The role played by PBJC North students--who provided the emcee and the tour guides--was exemplary. The sun shone, the refreshments were good, the music satisfying, and the comments from those seeing our facility for the first time were most pleasing.

A lot of PBJC North people must have put in an exceptional amount of work to have the place looking so beautiful after having been moved in so short a time.

It was a good day for the college and for the community.

Full-Time and Part-Time

Trustees Approve 7.5 Per Cent Salary Increase

PBJC Trustees approved a 7.5 per cent increase for all full and part time employees except those represented by the bargaining unit at the June board meeting Wednesday evening.

Dr. Eissey said he was extremely pleased to be able to recommend the increase, especially in view of the fact that some community colleges are getting two per cent, some four per cent, and some are having to let people go in order to make a budget.

He said he would not recommend an increase for bargaining unit personnel without a signed contract.

There was one small exception to those receving the 7.5 per cent -- if a salary is paid through a grant, the raise will be given only if the grant contract permits, and if grant funds are available.

Raises will be effective July 1 or when a person returns to work if he or she is not working on July 1 -- again with one exception.

Adjunct faculty employed for the Summer Term will not receive the increase for the Summer Term, but will receive it at the beginning of the Fall Term.

Those employees who are not at the top of their salary schedule, and who have been recommended by their supervisors for an additional increment, will receive that increment in addition to the 7.5 per cent.

Dr. Eissey commented that full-time, non bargaining unit personnel will have received a minimum of 37 to 39 per cent increase, plus a one-time bonus of $1,000 in the four years he has been president after this increase takes place.

Although the pay raise was the most interesting item for those of us who work at the college, several other important actions were taken by the board.

FOR PBJC NORTH the board approved ed specs for Academic Labs/Learning Resources Center, and

George Matsoukas Co-Authors Book

George Matsoukas, Grants Coordinator, has co-authored a book entitled, Due Process in Special Education, published by Aspen Press this week. The 511 page volume was the result of a need to help parents, educators, lawyers and advocates better understand the due process procedures that were defined in Public Law 94-142, The Education of All Handicapped Children Act, which was passed by Congress in 1976.

The need to help understand the due process procedures involved in identification, evaluation and placement of handicapped children became apparent when George was employed as a specialist at the Council for Exceptional Children in Washington,D.C.

It has taken three years to write the book and in the course of its evolution, it became a more legal and specialized book. It is an original and valuable contribution to the field of special education.

George says he hopes that ultimately, exceptional children will receive the education that our system guarantees them.

Jeanette Sanders, Super Choral Parent

Community Involvement: The Vikings Go To Germany

Jeanette Sanders of Continuing Education was following a PBJC tradition by taking an active part in the Lantana Junior High School Choral Parents Association when her daughter, Angela, became a member of the Viking Choir. Our staff and faculty are known for their hard work in community affairs. But when, as president of the Association, she was faced with the almost impossible task of raising $63,000 from the community for a Viking trip to sing at the Bad Neuenahr Festival in Germany, she decided to talk to her boss, Otis Harvey about it.

"I knew I might need some unusual flexibility in my work schedule, and I didn't want to undertake such a big job without college support," she says. "Mr. Harvey was very supportive, but suggested I also talk to Dr. Eissey.

"I'm glad I did, because Dr. Eissey was just super. He told me this was the kind of interaction we want with the community, and encouraged me to make the attempt."

The trip was a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity. Only 2 junior high school musical groups in the U.S. were invited, and this is the last year Lantana Jr. H.S. will exist ---next year it becomes a middle school. Jeanette was determined the $63,000 would be raised, and allowed no talk of failure.

The singers earned as much as they could through candy and cookie sales, a marathon car wash, a flea market, auction, door-to-door canvassing collecting money and Green Stamps.

Jeanette said it was marvelous to receive such large donations as the $2,600 from the First State Bank of Lantana, and contributions of $1,000 or more from the German-American Club, Lantana Lions Club, Lantana/Boynton Civitan, Trailside Lions Club & Max Davis..

But with all their work, and many encouragements, they were short $15,000 Friday, June 18, with Monday, June 21 as the deadline. Jeanette still wouldn't give up.

"If you set a goal, work long and diligently, and if God intends it to happen, it will," she says. "That's what I told the kids, and that is what happened."

"They're Not Lost. We Just Can't Find Them"

At the June meeting of the trustees, Dr. Lichtblau, board chairman, inquired into why eight projectors were on an annual inventory of missing or stolen items from one department.

Betty Morgan, chairman of the offending department, explained that nurses were not the only ones using those projectors, and that frequently, after someone else uses the room, the equipment will be gone.

After more discussion, Betty suddenly declared: "Dr. Lichtblau, they're not really lost, we just can't find them!"

Betty not only brought the house down with her remark, the next day she proved she was mostly right. She went out and located six of the missing eight.

We don't know whether Betty is ready to concede that the two she hasn't yet found are really lost, but our record of missing items this year was the poorest in our history.

Some is no doubt due to the large number of renovating projects last year, but Dr. Eissey has asked Dr. Tate for suggestions for better inventory control.

Collective Bargaining

The collective bargaining meeting on June 22 was concerned primarily with an enumeration of ground rules and a response by the college to union proposals.

The response did not include economic items, since one of the ground rules of prior years was to try to resolve non-economic issues first.

Wedding Anniversary

Don and Rae Whitmer celebrated their 40th wedding anniversary with an open house Sun.,June 20th and a number of people from the college were among the 125 who stopped by.

They thought 40 really a better year to celebrate than 50--since by that time, retirements, relocation and bad health may mean that many friends might be unavailable.

Anyhow, if you celebrate 40, what's to keep you from celebrating 50 too when that time comes? Happy 40th to Don and Rae and a sincere wish for a happy 50th ten years hence.

Jeanette (Cont'd)

By Saturday, the amount needed came down to $10,000, aided by $1,400 in trading stamps.

By Sunday, it was $5,000, and the largest single donation, from the Spanish River Resort and Beach Club, came in from Harry Moll, who had learned about the problem from some excellent last minute stories in the local media. The donation was $5,000.

"We still need about $2,000 in emergency funds," Jeanette says, "but we are going."

July 1, the triumphant Viking Choir will head for Germany, with Jeanette as one of the chaperones, a united group, welded by work and faith, and the knowledge that there are people out there who care.

"I love them all," Jeanette , super choral parent says. "If I had a big enough house and enough money, I'd take them all home."

16.6% Increase

Summertime Enrollment At All Time High

Enrollment has reached an all-time high for a Summer Term with 3,785 at the end of drop and add, 833 more students than last year's previous high of 2,902.

President-Elect of Presidents

Dr. Eissey has been named president-elect of the President's Council of Florida, an organization of the 28 public community college presidents in the state.

The President's Council, which meets monthly, has become a key communications link in the community college system, and is one of the strongest voices in the state on the promotion of community college interests.

Dr. Eissey, who has been a council member for less than four years, said he is "honored by this expression of confidence from my colleagues."

His membership on the legislative committee of the council will continue.

Dr. Eissey will be president-elect for a year, followed by a year as president and another year on the executive council as past president.

Three similar councils exist in Florida and PBJC is well represented on all of them.

Dr. Melvin Haynes is chairman-elect of the Council on Student Affairs, much the same position on this council as Dr. Eissey's on the president's council.

Dr. Tony Tate is on the steering committee of the Business Council, and Dr. Sarah Pappas is on the steering committee of the council on Academic Affairs.

Collective Bargaining

The 4th session in the current bargaining between PBJC and the United Faculty is scheduled for tomorrow, Tuesday, July 6, at 3PM in the County Parks and Recreation Bldg, John Prince Park.

Before talking about a 30% increase, we checked with Charles Graham, and he pointed out that 401 of those students, (350 on central campus alone), were really there because we have more non-credit students enrolled this year --and partly a result of better reporting techniques.

So, we subtracted the 401 students, and still came up with a solid 16.6% increase over a year ago.

The gains were largely at Central and North. Central gained 609 students to a total of 2,230. North gained 243 to a total of 792. South picked up 21 more students to 548 and Glades went from 143 to 146.

If you look at the registered hours, and FTE's the gain at North becomes even more satisfying. North picked up 790 more registered hours, with Central picking up 721 and South 41. Glades lost 56.

This confirms the suspicion that the gain at North is largely in credit enrollment. Not only are there more students in our new buildings there, but that they are taking more courses per student. It is also an endorsement of the idea that new buildings engender increased service to the community.

Central still has 199.5 of the FTE's for this term, with North at 89, South at 67.1 and Glades at 18. If present trends continue, it will not be long before North, South and Glades combined equal and then surpass enrollment at Central.

I AM THE NATION*

I was born on July 4, 1776, and the Declaration of Indepence is my birth certificate. The bloodlines of the world run in my veins, because I offered freedom to the oppressed. I am many things, and many people. I am the nation.

I am 225 million souls-and the ghost of millions who have lived and died for me.

I am Nathan Hale and Paul Revere. I stood at Lexington and fired the shot heard around the world. I am Washington, Jefferson, and Patrick Henry. I am John Paul Jones, the Green Mountain Boys and Davy Crockett. I am Lee and Grant and Abe Lincoln.

I remember the Alamo, the Maine, Pearl Harbor, the Pueblo, and the Hostages in Iran. When freedom called I answered and stayed until it was over, over there. I left my heroic dead in Flanders Fields, on the rocks of Corregidor, on the black slopes of Korea and in the steaming jungle of Vietnam.

I am the Brooklyn Bridge, the wheat lands of Kansas and the granite hills of Vermont. I am the coal-fields of the Virginias and Pennsylvania, the fertile lands of the west, the Golden Gate and the Grand Canyon. I am Independence Hall, the Monitor and the Merrimac.

I am big. I sprawl from the Atlantic to the Pacific...my arms reach out to embrace Alaska and Hawaii...3 million farms. I am forest, field, mountain and desert. I am quiet village...and cities that never sleep.

You can look at me and see Ben Franklin walking down the streets of Philadelphia with his bread-loaf under his arm. You can see Betsy Ross with her needle. You can see the lights of Christmas and hear the strains of "Auld Lang Syne" as the calendar turns.

I am Babe Ruth and the World Series. I am 130,000 schools and colleges, and 326,000 churches where my people worship God as they think best.

I am a ballot dropped in a box, the roar of the crowd in a stadium and the voice of the choir in a cathedral. I am an editorial in a newspaper and a letter to a congressman.

I am Eli Whitney and Stephen Foster. I am Tom Edison, Al Einstein, Billy Graham, and Martin Luther King Jr. I am Horace Greeley, Will Rogers and the Wright Brothers. I am George Washington Carver, Daniel Webster and Jonas Salk.

I am Longfellow, Harriet Beecher Stowe, Walt Whitman and Thomas Paine.

Yes, I am the nation, and these are the things that I am.

I was conceived in freedom, and God willing, in freedom I will spend the rest of my days.

May I possess always the integrity, the courage, and the strength to keep myself unshackled, to remain a citadel of freedom and a beacon of hope to the world.

This is my wish, my goal, my prayer in this year 1982, two hundred six years after I was born.

Hodges' Stars In Film

Representatives of the National Youth Sports Coaches Association (NYSCA) recently made a training film for volunteer coaches in the PBJC gym.

Bill Hodges, PBJC's new basketball coach and a dozen youngsters from the Boys Club of WPB were "actors" in the taping, with Hodges explaining warm-up exercises and such techniques as how to dribble, pass, shoot and tactics for defense and offense.

Preceeding the taping, Bill's 4 year old son gave a demonstration of his prowess with a ball, dribbling offside where he then perched on the ball and watched.

The films are used by recreation professionals to train volunteer coaches in 2 three hour sessions for each sport Other films put together by NYSCA include a football training film with the UM Hurricanes, another on soccer with members of the Ft. Lauderdale Strikers, and one of softball/baseball.

The program has been endorsed by the National Recreation Parks Assoc., which has 18,000 members, and is also used by coaches for the Dependent Youth Activities Program by the Army and Air Force bases in England and Germany.

Getting Ready For The 20th

The First Adjustment Was Uncle Sam's Tax Cut

No, no, no. That little adjustment you got in your paycheck of July 5 was not the increment raise you expect this year, and it was not the 7.5 per cent granted virtually all non-unit employees--it was your share of the tax cut under the Economic Recovery Tax Act.

You have to wait until the pay check of July 20 for increments, if you are due one, and the 7.5 per cent, if you get it--and you might be surprised how much cooperative work must go on between Personnel, Data Processing and Payroll to get ready for that event.

This first change, the one you have already gotten, was fairly simple to make, with the Federal government and our computer doing most of the work. The government provided new tax withholding tables, and these were inserted into our program for check paying by our data processing people, and the computer did everything else.

It won't be that simple getting ready for July 20.

Personnel starts the ball rolling with a new pay requisition form for every individual employee. This is a fairly complicated form, and includes such items as hourly rate, (the new and correct one), number of hours worked, pay schedule, etc.

After this form is checked item-by-item by Payroll, it goes to Data Processing. In Data Processing, the new information is punched, all old pay data is eliminated, and the new data entered.

The ball then goes back to Payroll for another screening for possible errors before the word is given to proceed as on a normal run.

There is nothing mysterious about all this process--it is meticulous, exact, time-consuming work, and most of the time it goes unnoticed, unless, as happens on rare occasions, a mistake is made. Then it gets noticed--plenty.

Assuming everything goes right, as it usually does, and your paycheck comes through with all adjustments made, as it probably will, on time, as it always is, on July 20--how about a kind thought for those whose work made this possible? ..JK

Active In FACC

We just learned the other day that Dr.Joan Young has been elected Secretary-Treasurer of the Faculty Commission of FACC. Joan has been working with characteristic energy in both the FACC and in the United Faculty, and she is now president of the UF. We believe Joan is the first faculty member to hold an office in both the UF and the FACC, and think this emphasizes the different goals and objectives of these two organizations.

While we are passing out congratulations, we might mention that a number of other PBJC people are involved in state or regional FACC roles.

Dr. Sarah Pappas is chairman of the Curriculum and Instruction Commission. Dr. Robert Suttle is chairman of the Occupational Education Commission.

Fund Raising

The college was shocked and saddened to learn of the tragic death of Pacers baseball star, Kevin Campfield, recently.

The PBJC Athletic Dept. cooperated in a fund raising effort to help defray funeral costs and transportation back to Indiana for burial.

The fund-raising was spearheaded by Ron Benhart, coach of the American Legion, Post 47 baseball team, for which Kevin had formerly played.

A benefit game was arranged for the evening of June 28 between Post 47 and Post 12, netting $750 in donations and concession funds toward the total of $4,000 in contributions.

Trustees Meet Wednesday

After Reorganization -- A Doozy Of A Problem

Palm Beach Junior College trustees will hold their annual reorganization meeting as the first item on the agenda Wednesday, 7:30 p.m., in Conference Room C at PBJC Central.

Collective Bargaining

Stories in the press and on radio and TV of our collective bargaining this year have illustrated the difficulty of condensing a comlex and convoluted process into a few words. If you have been reading and viewing, you could easily be quite confused about what has been going on.

What has been going on is collective bargaining closer to the traditional sequence of offer, counter offer, counter to the counter,etc., than we have had in many prior years.

Agreement has been reached on a few minor matters. More importantly, both sides have shown the ability to listen to the other side, even on matters where there has been a great deal of past disagreement.

Economic positions have, indeed, inched closer, but are still a long way apart--12 per cent demanded and 6½ per cent offered, with strings attached to both--and looming at the end of the road, even if everything else could get worked out, is the same problem we could not solve in 1980 and 1981--Management's Rights.

Perhaps the First District Court of Appeals will give the decision it has had under advisement since February before the Fall Term begins, but then, again, it might not. Even if the court acts tomorrow, it has established with certainty that there is, indeed, one institution in Tallahassee that is slower than Heinz catsup.

Tuesday, 3 p.m., at the Parks and Recreation Building in John Prince Park will be session 5 of the current series of collective bargaining meetings. Everybody is supposed to have reserved Thursday, July 22, same time and place for session #6.

The board chairman and vice chairman for 1982-83 will be elected, and time, date and location of meetings scheduled. Dr. Philip Lichtblau is the current chairman and Mrs. Homer Hand is vice chairman.

The first problem to be faced by the newly reorganized board involves serious flooding in Monet Oaks, a subdivision adjacent to the PBJC North campus.

The problem has been under study for more than six months. A solution proposed by the South Florida Water Management District will not be favored by the college staff, since it may create more problems than it will solve.

Divergent professional opinions, emotional reactions seeking to find a target, the college is being blamed for wet weather -- the first problem is a doozy.

In other items of public interest, the board will be asked to approve the student calendar for 1983-84, and will receive a report on a staff evaluation of the president.

The report is a compilation of questionnaires sent to classified personnel who are not administrators or teachers, librarians or counselors. The purpose was to determine attitude and perception of the president's management methodology, actions and performance.

Among personnel items is the appointment of Patricia Wilson as director of development. She has been acting director.

Dr. Eissey Gets High Marks; Dr. Lichtblau Is Reelected

Board Adopts Good Neighbor Policy

Palm Beach Junior College trustees decided Wednesday night to be a good neighbor even though the available evidence showed clearly the college was not at fault in any way.

They will not only construct the low berm, (an inexpensive earth dike) on PBJC North land, to assist the residents of Monet Oaks as suggested by the Water Management District, they will also dig a shallow swale that will lead any impounded water to a lake which serves as a catchment area.

Unchallenged statements by trustee Willard Findling showed clearly that the Monet Oaks flooding problem was created by the developer and permitting authorities by allowing the homes to be built in a natural basin.

C. G. Mason of Peacock and Lewis, North campus architects, said one home is eight inches below the water table level in the area, and that roads in the development are two feet below Monet Road.

Mason outlined a number of problems with drainage at the PBJC North campus, and recommended the hiring of Gee and Jensen to investigate and report. The board agreed.

Before recommending the berm and swale to the board, Dr. Eissey asked Mason several times if the college had already fulfilled every legal requirement in construction at PBJC North and was assured that this was so.

Dr. Eissey Gets High Mark

Dr. Eissey was given high marks in a staff evaluation of the president received by the board after some good natured ribbing.

The evaluation by classified personnel went to 265 persons and was answered by 173. It was voluntary and blind, with unsigned responses sent to Institutional Research.

The per cent range of positive responses was from 63.0 to 91.4.

"This can be interpreted as the staff having a very positive attitude toward the

Advertising Club Has Advisory Committee

An initiative from the Advertising Club of the Palm Beaches toward formation of an Advertising Club for students at PBJC has resulted in a new Advisory Committee for the college.

Dr. Eissey not only reacted favorably to the student club, he asked Lee Gregory, current president of the Advertising Club, and Herb Rachesky, past president, to form a committee of professionals to assist the college.

The student ad club is on its way toward development in the Fall Term, but the new Advisory Committee is already in operation with Rachesky, of Rachesky Advertising as chairman, and Gregory, of WPBR, on the committee.

Also serving are Bill Haselmire, of Haselmire Advertising, Ev Aspinwall, WPBR, Eleanor Larson, WEAT, Bill Brooks of Channel 5, and Larry Sartory of Palm Beach Newspapers, Inc.

In the two meetings already held with college personnel who also serve on the committee, discussion has covered such items as development of intern-type programs through cooperative education, teacher education, curriculum development, and the college information program as well as the student club.

Patricia Wilson, Director of Development at PBJC has been assigned the task of organization of the new advisory committee and follow through on suggestions from Dr. Eissey.

OFFICERS RE-ELECTED

In a brief reorganization meeting which began Wednesday's session, Dr. Philip Lichtblau was elected chairman for another year, his third in the position, and Mrs. Homer Hand was elected vice chairman for the second straight year. Mrs. Hand has previously served as both chairman and vice chairman.

Meeting dates, time and place, will remain the same -- the third Wednesday, 7:30PM in Conference Room C, PBJC Central.

The board adopted a student calendar for 1983/84 which closely resembles the calendar for 1982/83.

Collective Bargaining

The next collective bargaining session between PBJC and the United Faculty has been scheduled for Thursday, August 5th, 3PM, in the County Parks and Recreation Center, John Prince Park.

The meeting had been originally scheduled for Tuesday of that week, but conflicts developed which resulted in the Thursday date.

Multi-Cultural Committee Active

Dr. Elisabeth Erling, vice president of planning and information systems, recently announced that the International Festival, which was so successful in its initial year, the two days of May 1 & 2, will be expanded to three days this year (always weather permitting, of course).

This year the festival will be held on the last two days of April, plus May 1.

Many area citizens representing almost twenty ethnic heritages are serving again this year, in new and expanded capacities. The college is grateful to have such an enthusiastic and willing advisory board.

. . . and we have another president.

In the tradition of so many of our staff and faculty, who give of their time and talents to sustain outside, worthwhile activities and agencies, Dr. Mel Haynes, vice president of student services, has accepted the presidency of the Sickle Cell Foundation of Palm Beach County.

The foundation has been active in genetic education and counseling since its beginning 10 years ago under the original sponsorship of WPB Mayor Eva Mack and the Delta Sigma Theta sorority. She will continue as a first vice president.

Mel Haynes' major project this year will be to raise $25,000 toward a building to house the foundation. "A Community Development grant for $50,000 for the headquarters has been issued, with the understanding that we must raise an additional $25,000 for the structure, which will be located in Gaines Park," Haynes said. He also ad d that there are several fund-raisers plann for September, National Sickle Cell Month.

Local Girl, National President

PBJC North Guest Of Honor

Lynn Renee Plimpton is a summer student at PBJC North -- but what is so exciting about this is that Lynn is the National President of Phi Theta Kappa, National Community/Junior College Honor Fraternity. This fraternity consists of over 700 chapters throughout the nation.

Lynn lives in North Palm Beach, and is the daughter of Robert S. Plimpton. Yesterday, she was honored at a special meeting of the North Campus chapter of PTK.

She attends Lees-McCrae College in North Carolina and expects to graduate in May, 1983, then go on to the University of Virginia to study business law.

A graduate of King's Academy, Lynn maintains a 4.0 grade point average at Lees-McCrae while carrying a load of 21.5 semester hours.

Lynn was elected National President of Phi Theta Kappa at the National Convention in Minneapolis last March.

Roger Nielsen, who has assumed sponsorship for the PTK North chapter says: "She is the first girl to be elected president since 1954, and if you could meet her, you could easily see why! She is bright and bubbles with enthusiasm -- but at the same time, a warm and friendly person. We are very proud of Lynn, and pleased to have had her with us this summer."

Frank Barton, who had previously served as PTK sponsor, will continue to act as an advisor.

Volunteers Aid Registration

Evening Registrar Henry Saulter has come up with an idea which should prove helpful in the upcoming registration --VIP's/VRP's (Volunteer Information Personnel/ Volunteer Registration Personnel).

He contacted RSVP (Retired Senior Volunteer Program) and the Jewish Community Center for interested volunteers during registration, and found that a number of seniors were intrigued with the idea.

Saulter will present an orientation for the VIP/VRP Corps Tuesday, August 3 at 1PM in his office.

The Evening Registrar has worked out a job description for the volunteers, which includes duties such as handing out registration applications, answering the telephone, receiving students and other visitors during the registration process, using the computer terminals, assisting at reception counters, processing files and applications, providing students with directions to other parts of the campus, and assisting in other areas when needed

Says Saulter: "I have worked with the Senior Citizens Network, and I know what resources are available, and how the seniors feel a sense of pride in doing meaningful volunteer work.

"I believe it will be of great assistance to us with our staff shortage to have the aid of the VIP/VRP Corps, and will also be stimulating work for the volunteers," he added.

Planning For Financial Independence

The Women's Center of PBJC presents a half-day conference on Planning for Financial Independence Saturday Aug. 28, 9AM to noon in the Continuing Education Lecture Hall.

Pilot Program In Construction Productivity

Thanks to an occupational studies grant of $20,422, from the State Department of Florida Department of Education, PBJC will be presenting a pilot program in September--Construction Productivity Improvement (CPI)--which will eventually be taught at colleges throughout the state, according to Don Whitmer, Dean of Occupational Studies.

Carleton Coulter III, an adjunct instructor, who gathered the latest information on improving productivity from all over the country, will teach the course Sept. 11 and 18 at the AGC (Association of General Contractors) Training Facility at 2617 Australian Ave., West Palm Beach.

Coulter, a West Point graduate, received a Master of Engineering in Civil Engineering and a Ph. D. in Civil Systems from Texas A&M University.

He has managed construction projects in the U. S., Panama, Iran, France and Germany, and is listed in Who's Who in Engineering.

Coulter says that CPI is not working harder or faster, it's working smarter, and getting rid of obstacles.

Much lost time on the construction site is due to poor crew organization and motivation; waiting for another crew to finish a job; waiting for equipment; and waiting for tools or materials, the engineer has found.

Participants will receive a manual explaining the duties of a foreman in CPI, compiled by Coulter, which will be a valuable aid for improving job productivity, or for starting a job or company CPI program.

The course is co-sponsored by AGC of Florida, Inc., Florida East Coast Chapter; the Florida Building Construction Industry and Continuing Education at PBJC, and should play an important future role in keeping down building costs in the state of Florida.

Business Education Individualized Word Processing Too -- At PBJC North

With the opening of the modern individualized office education laboratory at PBJC North, students have an opportunity to progress at their own speed, according to Frankie Davis who is in charge of the excellent two-year Executive Secretary program there.

Credit courses include Typing (beginning, intermediate and advanced); Shorthand (beginning and dictation/transcription); Machine Transcription; Business English, and General Office Practice.

In addition, a one-year certificate program in Word Processing/Information Management will be underway in the Fall Term.

The first course--Introduction to Word Processing--is designed to introduce the concept of Word Processing in the lecture/discussion method.

The second--Word Processing Skill Development--an individualized course, presents hands-on training on an automated typewriter and a text-editing typewriter.

A third course--Word Processing Applications--a more advanced course, will be offered in the Winter Term.

PBJC Committed

Resolution Submitted Concerns Two-plus-Two

One of the two main items on the agenda for the August 18 board meeting is a resolution concerning the lower division at FAU.

The resolutions restates PBJC's unqualified support of the two-plus-two concept, and committment to joint community college/university efforts in programs and in physical facilities.

PBJC is also committed to complete cooperation with FAU and the other eight universities in the State University System, as well as to teaching, learning and the community, the resolution states.

Other agenda items include the annual presentation of a scholarship from the Scottish Rite, reorganization of the board's standing committees, and final approval of two DBT rule amendments regarding selection of architects, engineers & planners, as well as lab and special class fees.

Eleven business affairs items include the acceptance of the annual financial report, and 10 construction and development listings include minor changes in millage projects such as foundation changes in the renovation of the Bookstore/Central Receiving Bldg.

Bids for 6 millage projects include closed circuit TV equipment, a compressor system, classroom furniture, a theatrical spot and an optical mark reader.

RE: Retirement Statements

Joe Schneider, director of Personnel, sent along this memo which will be of interest to those with retirement credit. It comes from the State Division of Retirement.

"In the past, the Division of Retirement has provided each retirement system member an Annual Statement to inform the member of any activity during the past fiscal year in his/her retirement account. This statement showed the member's name, social security number, retirement plan, salary and contributions on deposit. Since the Florida Retirement System is now a noncontributory system and the number of members with new or additional contributions on deposit in their retirement accounts has steadily declined, we have decided to discontinue the printing of Annual Statements. We have a long-range plan to again provide each member with a more detailed Annual Statement which will not only include the current information, but total years of retirement service credit and other pertinent information. However, we do not have the computer capability to furnish this information to members at the present time."

August Board Meeting

Much Routine Business Except For Resolution

Dr. Eissey read a resolution concerning the planned lower division at Florida Atlantic University which supports the present two-plus-two education concept in Florida. It was adopted with modifications to be added, to strengthen the final paragraphs, before presentation to the Presidents' Council and other educational and legislative bodies in the state.

Executive secretary Dr. Lee G. Henderson, of the State Community College Coordinating Board of Florida, Dept. of Education, sent a letter to Gov. Bob Graham expressing concern about the 2% across-the-board hold-back in state appropriations. Dr. Eissey read a copy of the letter where he quoted Henderson as saying "the State Community College Coordinating Board respectfully requests that should revenue trends improve, the withheld funds be restored to the community colleges at the earliest possible date." Dr. Eissey translated the holdback to mean a 1/4 million dollar loss to PBJC.

Among other items transacted during the meeting, the PBJC Scholarship Foundation accepted a $400 donation from the Scottish Rite Foundation, their 10th in as many years; the same standing committee of the district board as last year was approved; approval of new instructors and promotion of Noreen Poole from asst. to associate professor, and twelve business items were approved.

Nine minor changes in millage projects were OK'd, and 8 bids were awarded for equipment, (6 to be purchased with millage funds.)

The classified salary schedule was amended to include new titles; Graphic/Photographic Technician and Audio Visual Specialist, as well as the addition of an IMTS Coordinator to the grants salary schedule.

Final approval for 2 rules changes regarding selection of architects, engineers and planners, and for lab fees was passed.

Help For The Handicapped

As the new Fall Term begins Tuesday, access to central PBJC buildings has never been easier, says Gail Tomei, our new counselor for the handicapped. Special parking areas, curb ramps, lower drinking fountains and telephones, better restroom facilities and elevators equipped with Braille signs are some of the improvements in this area.

But most difficult of all for wheelchair bound students are doors....outer and inner doors...are a real obstacle for many of them.

Wistfully, Gail speaks of the sliding doors such as the college installed in the bookstore cafeteria and Allied Health buildings. "I realize that at $6,000 each, it would be a practical impossibility to put these doors on all classrooms, but it would be nice to have them on entrances and at least one restroom."

So far, about 115 handicapped students have come to Mrs. Tomei's attention, but she feels there are more. "I appreciate the cooperation of instructors who have handicapped students in their classes requiring special assistance, who announce that volunteer door-openers, notetakers readers and tutors are needed by my office." She added that information on student health forms is often inadequate, or incomplete and instructors who find students with special needs will help considerably by calling her at 8057. Her assistant, Gail Ponder, is on campus daily from 9AM-1PM to assist students.

Services proveded by Gail Tomei's office include counseling, advising, pre-registration, referral to appropriate county agencies, transportation & parking, and the provision of special equipment.

PBJC MONDAY REPORT

Volume IV, Number 46

August 30, 1982

Brown To Cody To ________

NEW NON-UNIT SALARY STUDY WILL BEGIN SOON

A salary study for non-unit personnel will begin in the near future, according to an announcement from Dr. Eissey's office. Plans are for the study to be completed before Christmas.

While most position classifications will remain unchanged, some adjustments in salary grade are expected.

The announcement follows in full:

Within the next month several firms are expected to submit proposals for reviewing our Non-Unit Position Classification/ Pay System. Long term personnel will recall that within the past six years two similar studies were completed. In each instance the Brown Report and the Cody Report were implemented according to the recommendations of the two firms.

The primary purpose of this study is to review the current position classifications and salary grades to determine if they are competitive with the labor market. The term "labor market" will, of course, vary depending upon the jobs being reviewed.

Although it is not possible to predict exactly what a survey of comparable positions in the labor market will reveal, it is probable that most positions will not be adjusted either up or down. This statement is made because each year the Personnel Office conducts classification surveys of certain "bench mark" position classifications to determine if our salaries are competitive with other area public agencies. Generally we have found that our salaries are in line with such agencies.

While most position classifications are likely to remain unchanged as a result of this study, certain adjustments in salary grade are expected. In addition to the overall review of classifications, the firm assigned to this project will review the reclassification requests which were submitted by a number of administrators several months ago. September 8th and 9th Brings "Ayako" To PBJC

From past experience, Lis Erling, vice president of Planning and Information Systems for PBJC, has learned that sometimes is does not "pay to advertise", at least not in the usual sense.

When "Shogun" was the much-touted 5 day special promoted as the TV event of 1980, we, along with Morikami gave out public notice that there would be lectures and displays about the various aspects of history and culture of Japan during the 17th century.

Since the price was right,(free), response was overwhelming. This year, for "Ayako" a presentation of Japanese culture by Ayako Uchiyama, a different strategy was devised. Dr. Erling issued invitations to faculty, staff and other interested supporters of the International and Intercultural group, to reserve tickets in advance. Though the price is still "free", it did involve her office staff in much more record keeping, which turned out to be a control of great value. At this writing, there were left only about 45 vacant seats, and when you read this, they may have already been spoken for. for.

The Glades, which will present "Ayako" on Sept. 8th, has adopted a different pattern. Each member of the Advisory Committee was given a block of tickets to be sold at $1.00 each, and reports are that they are going very well.

For those who already know of "Noh" dancing, a person with the expertise of Ayako in the art dance--drama concerts is a night not to be missed. Her artistic energy and perceptive views of Eastern art has qualified her as a visa cultural exchange artist.

A new and better photo directory for all full-time personnel is planned for publication this fall.

Photographs of all new personnel must be taken, and new photos of person included in the last directory will be re-taken, if requested. The news bureau has already begun this process.

On Wednesday, September 1, photographers will be in the Glades for the only visit to the Glades for this purpose. There will also be one-day visits to North and South, announced in the Monday Report.

There will also be a PBJC Central day, including some evening hours, and then a final make-up day, at PBJC Central, for anyone who missed on any campus.

The closer we can come to 100% of all full-time personnel, the more useful the directory will be.

New Dietetic Program

Celeste Beck, chairman of Consumer Education and Home Economics is offering for the first time a new Dietetic Technician Program at PBJC.

Program director is Ethel Fowler, who made a survey and discovered a real need for the middle rung of the dietetic career ladder in this area. Rung #1 is generally the Dietetic Asst., who completes a 90 hour program approved by the American Dietetic Assoc. Completetion of this course accumulates 12 semester hours of credit toward the Dietetic Technician rung. The third rung on the career ladder in dietetics is Registered Dietitian, which requires an upper level degree.

The Dietetic Tech assists in providing nutritional cares services to individuals or groups under the supervision of a Registered Dietitian, said Fowler. This new program meets the standards established by the American Dietetic Association, she added, and salaries compare favorably with those of allied professions requiring similar educational preparation.

Correction

From last week's Monday Report, one may have been led to believe that Dr. Hopkins was giving complete ENT exams. He will be conducting only hearing screenings at the campus.

PALM BEACH JUNIOR COLLEGE
PBJC MONDAY REPORT

Volume IV, Number 47 September 6, 1982

Any Way You Look At It

Enrollment Increases To New Record

There are many ways to look at the enrollment story at PBJC this term, but any way you look at it there has been a substantial increase to a new record.

The simplest way would be to count students, then compare with the same period one year ago. As will be explained in a moment, this is a little misleading--but here goes:

We have 13,648 registered--up 2,155 from the 11,493 of a year ago, better than 18.6 per cent increase overall, and good gains at each campus--Central up 1,088 to 8,411, North up 856 to 2,160, South up 168 to 1,806, Glades up 52 to 578.

These figures are real enough, but it would be wrong to conclude that the college is 18.6 per cent larger than a year ago, since almost half of the 2,155 increase were students with non credit courses only--up from 691 a year ago to 1,725 this year, most of this increase at PBJC Central, although there were gains on every campus.

So--if we exclude non-credit students, our credit enrollment numbers show 11,923 this year and 10,802 last year, an increase of 1,121 or 10.4 per cent overall.

Broken down by campuses, we see a slight gain of 232 students to 6,902 at PBJC Central, a still-respectable 3.4 per cent increase. North went to 2,020 from 1,278, a whopping 58 per cent in one year.

Glades gained 25 to 544, an increase of 4.8 per cent and South went up 152 to 1,690, a 9.9 per cent increase.

But perhaps the most meaningful way of looking at increases is to look at registered hours on each campus.

We gained 9.4 per cent overall in registered hours: 1.5 per cent at PBJC Central, 54.4 per cent at PBJC North, 5.9 per cent at PBJC Glades and 12.9 per cent at PBJC South. By the way, all these figures are

Suspended Privilege

After two years of experience in allowing the public to use its racquetball courts, PBJC has been forced to suspend the privilege for a time, and is considering a permanent suspension.

"We will give it one more try," says Dr. Tony Tate, Vice President of Business Affairs, "but if vandalism and abuse continue, we will close them permanently".

There have been problems from the beginning, Tate said, but recently matters have gotten worse.

Two months ago the college repaired the entire facility. New hinges were put pn gates, coin boxes and light circuits repaired, and anything else that was needed.

Already the gates are off their hinges, and someone has brought tools into the courts to route the lights around the coin boxes, causing costly repairs.

"We have had people bringing six packs of beer, and becoming abusive to our security officers when they try to uphold our regulations," Tate says.

"We want to continue to allow the public use of these facilities," Tate says, "but our primary obligation is to our students and to the physical education classes.

"If we have to close the courts to the public to protect them for this primary obligation, we will do so."

At the present time, the courts are

Plato Seminar

Palm Beach Junior College has recognized that computer instruction and computer-managed instruction are the significant components of computer education.

It has, therefore, arranged a seminar to be conducted by two authorities in the field on Thursday, September 9, 1982 from 9:30 to 12:30 p.m., in the Allied Health Lecture Hall on the Central Campus.

The two speakers who have been associated with the PLATO system since its introduction and adoption by their respective institutions are: Dr. Fred T. Hofstetter, Director of Computerized Instruction, University of Delaware, who will lecture on and demonstate the PLATO system as it is used in his university; and Dr. Gordon Hanson, Vice President of the Control Data Corporation, who will discuss the role of Control Data in the preparation, selection and adaptation of courseware for the PLATO system.

We hope that you may be able to arrange to attend this meeting, bringing with you staff members who have an interest in the applications of PLATO. ...Paul W. Graham

Photo Directory

Photo Directory work continues. Last week, full-time personnel in the Glades were photographed.

Today, Tuesday, 9:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m., photographers will be at PBJC South, to take shots of all full-time personnel who have not appeared in a photo directory, and to re-take anyone else who would like a new picture.

Thursday, Sept. 9, 8:30 to 11:20 a.m., will be photo day at PBJC North.

Monday, Sept. 13, 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., and 2 to 4 p.m., Central Campus at the News Bureau Darkroom, AD 20, right outside Conference Room C.

Tuesday, Sept. 14, 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. and 2 to 4 p.m., Central Campus at the News Bureau Darkroom, AD 20, make-up day for anyone from any campus.

We are hoping this will be the best and most complete photo directory we have had, but we need cooperation on the dates above to make it so.

1983-84 Catalog

With less than a month to go to copy deadline, it is time for all who have work to do on preparation of the 1983-84 catalog to shift into high gear.

Changes for academic sections of the catalog go to Dr. Graham's office, mail station #22. Personnel, This Is PBJC, General Regulations go to the News Bureau, mail station #25.

Copy deadline is October 1. If you remember how pleasant it was to have this year's catalog on time, that should help you to help us to achieve a repeat performance this year.

"Like A Mighty Banyan"

The title suggests the subject, the contribution of blacks to the growth of Palm Beach County. Guest speaker at a program to be held here at the Central campus auditorium on Sunday, Sept. 26, at 4PM will be Dr. Benjamin Mays, president emeritus of Morehouse College, Atlanta. The college is cooperating with the community, aided by the Westboro Business and Professional Women's Club and a small EA/EO grant.

Board Meets Wednesday

Construction Dispute Goes To Arbitration

A demand for arbitration by Renel Construction, builders of Phase 1A of the North Campus, is an early agenda item for the trustees of PBJC, Wed, at 7:30 PM. in Conference Room C at PBJC Central.

A dispute involving responsibility for long delays, a punch list of incomplete items, a list of "extra work" items, and other monetary differences which has been smoldering for months will go public at the meeting.

Amounts to be requested by Renel in arbitration total more than $146,958.64:

1. Extra work items (10)	$60,718.24
2. Delay costs	$75,725.40
3. Interest on funds	$10,515.00
4. Costs due to denying substitution of bonds for retention	Not specified
5. Immediate payment of $99,000 of the $100,000 final amount now being withheld.

Peacock and Lewis has indicated a willingness to pay $4,061.61 of the disputed items, and to recommend payment by the college of $2,835.00 but says it cannot support any of the other items.

On a more pleasant note, the board will hear three minute reports on recent sabbatical leave granted four teachers: Odas Arant, Don Cook, Edwin Pugh and Dr. Arnold Freedman.

The board will be asked to approve a Continuing Education grant proposal for the development of materials for a state-wide short course on contractor financial management.

ATTENTION

DUE TO CIRCUMSTANCES BEYOND OUR CONTROL, THE NEWS BUREAU HAS BEEN FORCED TO POSTPONE PHOTO DAYS ORIGINALLY SCHEDULED FOR TODAY, 9/13 and TUES. 9/14. PLEASE WATCH FOR AN ANNOUNCEMENT SOON FOR RESCHEDULED DATES.

No Immediate Cuts In Operational Budgets

ote to Department Heads and other budget managers: After a thorough review of the budget in relationship to the two percent holdback ordered by the state, Dr. Eissey has some good news and some bad news.

The good news is that it will not be necessary to deduct any items already approved in your current budgets.

The bad news is that our ability to absorb any new and unforseen expenditures has now been seriously depleted.

In short, you can go ahead with your plans for wise expenditure of funds, but don't expect easy approval of any new spending. Word from Tallahassee is that more holdbacks are on the way unless state revenue increases. We will have to cross that bridge if and when we get to it.

Coop Career Day

Kathy Cockrell, Roger Nielsen, Naomi Conley and several cooperative education students participated in the second annual career ucational personal development show at the Palm Beach Mall Sept. 9 through 12. The coop- ive education personnel manned a booth from 10AM to 9PM and enjoyed the experience. People who stopped to ask questions were not only interested in coop, but in other programs, and this was cheerfully supplied. The booth was not only good for coop, it was good for the college.

An "Original" Leaves Us

It is almost impossible for me to sit here at my typewriter and imagine the News Bureau on October 1, without Betty Linn, but the trustees agenda for September insists she will be taking an early retirement on September 30.

I try my best to think long, cool thoughts, and to remember all that business about nobody being indispensable. Pretty soon, I begin to twist and squirm, and I can feel the little beads of sweat beginning to form under my skin--pure panic. What will we do without her?

More importantly, where will the college find the bubbling enthusiasm, the energy, and drive and dedication, the instant identification with downtrodden and helpless, the tenacious zeal in a good cause, and the bravery to storm the battlements of power that are packaged in this one little dynamo?

Nowhere.

When Betty came off the assembly line, there was a little discussion:

"We are never, never going to top this one."

"Agreed. She's the quintessence, or the septessence, or the octessence of whatever it is she is.

"She's going to have lots of arguments.

"And do lots of good. But I don't think we ought to have more than one."

Thereupon, they disassembled the assembly line, and discontinued the model.

Betty really does not want to leave us, but her father needs her, and Betty, who cannot bear to see even a stranger in need, could not possibly allow her father to be cared for by someone who does not know and love him.

Her reason for leaving is wholly consonant with her character.

Some of us are organizing a simple bon voyage get together on Thursday, Sept. 30 in Conference Room C at PBJC Central from 3 to 4 p.m. If you can help with this, please call Pat Schuette at 8077. You are all invited to attend.

You are also invited to contribute to a going away gift, one that is wholly consonant with Betty's character.

For some years there has been a very unobtrusive scholarship given to a graduating student as a memorial to Marie E. Cook, who was Betty's mother. If you want to show your appreciation to Betty, we believe the most appropriate way you can do this is by making a contribution to the Marie E. Cook Scholarship.

If the amount is small and you do not wish to claim a tax deduction, message centers as well as news bureau personnel will accept the contribution. If a check is used for a record, it should be made out to Palm Beach Junior College, with Marie E. Cook Scholarship written somewhere on the face. Financial Aid is the proper destination for checks.

We do not wish to discourage anything you wish to do in a personal way to observe the occasion. It is just that the scholarship was the best gift we could think of, and wanted to share the idea with you.

Firearms On Campus

(Commissioner of State Department of Education, February 4, 1972)

No recruit officer student will be permitted to remain armed or in manual possession of a firearm within the classroom area of any basic recruit training program conducted under the supervision of the Department of Education, except as follows:

(1) Where a facility contains a proper laboratory and is designed to accomodate firearms identification and ballistics experimentation, a firearm may be securely maintained or utilized by a student under supervision and control of a qualified instructor.

(2) When under the close supervision of a qualified instructor, unloaded guns may be used by students when instruction is being given in the handling and use of firearms.

(3) When a recruit officer student successfully completes the required firearms training portion of the basic recruit training program as is required by the Florida Police Standards Board.

All trained law enforcement officers will be expected to use utmost care and caution when wearing their firearms in classrooms.

Finnish Offered

As we all know, our area is well populated with Finns, to our benefit. Now, the Continuing Education Dept. is offering a 14 week Monday evening course in Conversational Finnish, to begin Sept 20, 7 to 9 PM.

It is planned to be of help to Americans doing business with Finland, or with Finnish firms in this country, as well as being helpful to Americans planning to visit Finland.

For American-Finnish families who wish to learn more about their heritage, the course will also offer a full picture of today's Finland, modern issues of importance, which are framed in historical and cultural perspectives as well as economic, geographic & social insights.

PBJC MONDAY REPORT:

Brown To Cody To Cody

September Meeting Is Swift And Harmonius

In a swift and harmonious board meeting last Wednesday, PBJC trustees approved Cody and Associates for a pay plan study, set one meeting per year at North, South and Glades, heard sabbatical leave reports from three faculty members and received a resolution commending the Criminal Justice Department.

The board disposed of the financial dispute with Renel Construction with dispatch. Board Attorney, James M. Adams, said efforts were still being made to find agreement short of arbitration.

Cody & Associates, Inc., having performed well in a previous salary study, were appointed for another study to begin this month and to conclude before Christmas. They will schedule two or three days of interviews here, after which pay data from the college will be compared with other colleges and with private industry in the area. The study primarily involves classified positions.

The board extended its custom of meeting once a year in the Glades to PBJC North and PBJC South. The February meeting will continue in the Glades. The board will meet in November at PBJC South in the Cafetorium of the Henderson School, and at the PBJC North Campus in April.

Dr. Arnold Freedman reported on two visits to Spain and one to Washington, D.C., to research historical documentation. He told of reading records kept by Christopher Columbus in the explorer's own handwriting.

Ed Pugh told of the tremendous opportunities to see government working at first hand during a term at George Washington University in the heart of Washington. He told of appearing before the Hunt Commission on Presidential Selection to urge selection of the vice president as well as the president by nomination and election by the full convention.

VITA Services, Will They Come To PBJC?

I have been contacted by the Internal Revenue Service Office regarding a program called Volunteer Income Tax Assistance (VITA), I understand that more than 1,200 volunteers assisted more than 15,000 people in preparing tax returns in Florida last year.

PBJC is being asked to serve as a site for such services.

Volunteers would receive a training course in basic income tax preparation with instructors and training materials being provided free by the IRS.

I have been asked to respond to the Taxpayer Education Officer of the IRS, indicating whether or not we have an interest in such a program by October 1.

If any college personnel have an interest in volunteering for such a program, please contact Mrs. Ruth Bradbury, Personnel, 8018.

You And The Law

An informative eight-week course in law for the layman -- "You and the Law" -- will start Wednesday, Oct. 20.

Attorney Charles W. Rosenberg, instructor, will use both lecture and group interaction to explore laws of contracts, torts, constitutional rights, family law, wills and trust, as well as business and condominium law.

Completers will become aware of judicial procedures and of legal terms that have a direct impact on their family lives, and put them in a better position to protect their rights as citizens and consumers.

Classes meet 1-3PM, Room SS-55. Register with Continuing Education between 9AM and 8PM Monday through Thursday or from 9AM to 3PM on Fridays; fee is $5. For further information, call 8006.

Join The Palm Beach Four Hundred

PBJC students, staff and faculty and members of the community are encouraged to join the prestigious PALM BEACH FOUR HUNDRED from Monday, Sept. 27 through Oct. 1, 1982.

Every person registering to vote during that time will receive a card verifying membership in the PALM BEACH FOUR HUNDRED in a voter registration drive sponsored by Phi Theta Kappa and the Political Union.

Don Cook reported that visits to other testing centers during his sabbatical had provided many new ideas, and had revealed that our own testing program measures up to the best overall.

Chief Joseph L. Terlizzese, Palm Beach, presented a resolution commending the Criminal Justice Department for outstanding service to the law enforcement community of Palm Beach County, from the county association of chiefs of police.

The resolution mentioned training courses "of a highly technical and professional nature" to the 2,000 law enforcement personnel of the county, five police academies per year training 200 new law enforcement officers, and other services of the department.

Save Your Eyes!

232.45 Eye-protective devices required in certain vocational and chemical laboratory courses.--

(1) Eye-protective devices shall be worn by students, teachers and visitors in courses including, but not limited to, vocational or industrial arts shops or laboratories and chemistry, physics or chemical-physical laboratories, or any time at which the individual is engaged in our observing an activity or the use of hazardous substances likely to cause injury to the eyes. Activity or the use of hazardous substances likely to cause injury to the eye includes:

(a) Working with hot molten metals;
(b) Milling, sawing, turning, shaping, cutting, grinding, or stamping of any solid material using power equipment;
(c) Heat treatment; tempering or kiln firing of any metal or other materials;
(d) Gas or electric arc welding;
(e) Working with caustic or explosive materials;
(f) Working with hot liquids or solids, including chemicals which are flammable, caustic, toxic or irritating.

(2) The school boards of the several districts mayfurnish plano safety glasses or devices for students and teachers, and shall furnish such equipment for all visitors to such classrooms or laboratories, or may purchase such plano safety glasses or devices in large quantities and sell them at cost to students and teachers, but shall not purchase, furnish or dispense prescription glasses or lenses.

(3) To implement and carry out the purpose of this section the school boards of the several districts are hereby given authority to promulgate rules and regulations to accomplish the purpose of the law. ...Paul W. Graham

Beachcomber Staff

PBJC Co-Op

Dr. Naomi Conley announced that her Cooperative Education Program has received a federal grant for the fourth consecutive year. This year's sum is $66,700, bringing the total to date to $306,492. Part of this year's monies were used to develop job competencies in ten fields with the ultimate aim of identifying the skills Co-Op students need to develop on the job. The students have an opportunity to apply the skills learned in the PBJC classroom. Two coordinators, Kathleen Cockrell and Roger Nielsen, assist Dr. Conley in the administration of Co-Op and the 180 students enrolled on the four campuses.

PALM BEACH JUNIOR COLLEGE
PBJC MONDAY REPORT

Volume IV, Number 50 September 27, 1982

A Joint PBJC/Adult Education Project

At Last! Education For Parents

The Parent Center, a newly established joint project of PBJC Continuing Education and Palm Beach County Adult and Community Education will offer classes in parenting skills beginning mid-October in two community schools.

Program Coordinator Linda Schenker says "When a person becomes a parent, he or she isn't suddenly endowed with all the knowledge necessary to become a good parent. Many of the problems with children in school have been traced back to a lack of good parenting skills."

With this in mind, and because both PBJC and Adult Education had been considering ways of alleviating this situation, the Parent Center, a cooperative effort was begun in August, with 4 goals set: 1. To provide educational programs for parents. 2 To provide information and referral services. 3. To provide a parent support group. 4. To organize cooperative child care services in neighborhood settings.

The first goal, educational systems, will get underway October 18 at Jupiter and Santaluces Community Schools, and if need is shown, classes will be offered at other locations in the county.

Some of the courses have such down-to-earth titles as Super Heroes (The Single Parent); How to Love (and Live with your Difficult Child;)Show 'Em Love Through Discipline; Explaining the Birds and Bees to Your Mentally Handicapped Child.; Pre-Natal Health Awareness Fitness After Birth for You and Your Baby; and How to Leave Your Child Happily and Healthily (Parent and Child Separations).

Schenker has compiled the latest edition of "Where To Turn", a United Way booklet listing all the social services available in the county. It will be used as an aid in the second goal of the Center, information and referral services. The third and fourth goals are planned for the near future. Linda Schenker may be reached at her School Board office, 684-5110 for further information.

$500,000 Liability Plan For Educators

We have recently received information that the Association For Educational Data Systems Inc. is offering a $500,000 Professional Liability Plan for Educators. The premium for full time personnel is $25.00 per year.

The college is not necessarily recommending such insurance, nor is it involved through payroll deduction or in any other direct manner. However, our Director of Data Processing, Mr. Jack Kelly, is an officer in this organization.

Further information may be obtained from Mr. Kelly or by writing to: Trust For Insuring Education, Group Insurance Plans, P.O. Box 131, Kansas City, Missouri 64141.

Need Furniture?

The following furniture has been donated to the Foundation and is currently stored at Physical Plant. If a department can use this furniture, you may inspect at Physical Plant on Thurs., Sept. 30, 10-11 AM. You will then notify this office of the items you wish and we will arrange to put on your college inventory.
8 large credenzas; 2 desks for computer, 1 chair, wood; 2 chairs typist; 1 set of 2 chairs, black leather w/formica table built in; 8 bookcases; 5 cabinets; 1 book rack for record keeping. These items will be offered on a "first come, first served basis."

Put away the cookies, punch & party napkins. Don't tell Betty Linn you'll miss her, so she won't cry and find it hard to get her work done. She'll stay one more month, and insists she'd rather leave quietly, at the end of October, and thanks everyone for the good wishes. ...J.K.

New Counselor For Women's Center

Sandy Doyle has joined the Continuing Education Dept. as counselor, replacing Jennifer McCormick, who is now director. She has a degree from Penn State in Social Work, her chosen field for a number of years. Volunteer work has also been important in Sandy's life in her work with organizations such as the Junior League of the Palm Beaches, the YWCA and Crisis Intervention programs. She also spent time helping women convicts re-enter sociaty at a half-way house, and established a center for Non-traditional Employment for Women.

This non-traditional woman is also a talented photographer, having owned a photo studio for 4 years. She is presently teaching the Women in Transition Course for displaced homemakers, widows, divorcees and those who are considering a change in careers. We welcome her to our ranks.

United Way Campaign Closing

The United Way Campaign is coming to a close. If the time has slipped past and you've forgotten, donations to the United Way Campaign may still be left at the office of John Schmiederer in the Allied Health Bldg., or at the payroll office. Your "community" thanks you for your assistance. ...J. Schmiederer

PBJC North Golf Tournament

Excitement is mounting as preparations get underway for the first PBJC North Golf Tournament, to be held at Frenchman's Creek, North Palm Beach, on Thursday, October 21. Tee-off is 1PM, and Jack Hughes of Artcraft Awning is chairman.

The tournament is open to men and women, with first, second and third prizes in each of three flights. There will be an open bar and barbecue.

Golden and Silver Sponsorships and individual entry tickets are available for the tournament for those who wish to support PBJC North in its pursuit of excellence. Individual tickets are $50.00, and for a donation of $25.00, supporters may attend the complimentary bar and barbecue.

Pat Wilson, director of Resource Development has more information at 439-8072.

National Montessori Director To Visit

Bretta Weiss, national director of the American Montessori Society (AMS) will speak to interns, supervising teachers and Montessori and Early Childhood Education students on October 5, from 5 to 8 PM.

Dr. Kathleen Bowser, director of PBJC's Center for Early Learning said "She will also observe the Montessori program here and other Montessori intern sites off campus, where our students are practice teaching, including the four Palm Beach County school alternative classes."

North Campus Co-Op Coordinator

Roger Nielsen, of WPB, has been serving as coordinator of Co-Op Ed. at PBJC North since last January. He hails originally from Teaneck, N.J., and was a youth services counselor for 6 years, and a vocational rehabilitation counselor for 2 years. He is co-sponsor of Phi Theta Kappa and involved in the DECA program at PBJC Central.

Nielsen says that "the whole idea of cooperative education is to give the student an opportunity to find out if he likes his chosen career before getting a degree."

New Dimensions Resumes Classes

An innovative program which has received national attention from educators--PBJC's Institure of New Dimensions--will be starting classes the week of October 25.

Dr. Etta Ress, volunteer director, founded New Dimensions in 1975, when her idea of combining the expertise of retired professionals with the desire of older adults for intellectual stimulation, first took root, as part of an RSVP program.

Since 1977, the Institute has been under the wing of the Continuing Education Department of the college, and each year has continued to grow.

This year, for the first time, New Dimensions classes will be held in three locations: PBJC Central; Northwood Conference Center, and starting in January, at the PBJC North campus, where their main office is located.

Classes are held four afternoons a week, and monthly field trips are scheduled to places of interest; free neighborhood forums are also held in libraries and other locations throughout the county.

A $25 membership fee entitles members to attend all classes on a space-available basis; non-members may attend as space permits for $10 per course and $2 per seminar. For further information, call 622-2440, ext. 307, Monday through Thursday from 9 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.

The Eyes Have It

Dr. Walter Reed Foster, optometrist with Eckerd Optical at J. Byrons, Palm Coast Plaza, screened the vision of more than 60 people last Wednesday in the PBJC Health Clinic, according to Mary Cannon, college nurse.

Dr. Foster said that approximately 50 percent of those screened had no visual problems, and the other half had less than 20/20 vision, in the preliminary test, indicating a need for further testing.

November 16 has been set as a tentative date for Dr. Foster's return, at which time he will administer free glaucoma screening as well as visual screening.

In the meantime, Foster will continue to do the free screening for PBJC personnel at the Optical Center at J. Byrons.

An Update On Monte Markham

Some wonderful things have been happening to one of PBJC's illustrious alumni -- stage, screen and TV actor Monte Markham.

Monte has been on location for 18 weeks in Austria, Yugoslavia, New Zealand and the Cooke Islands filming a six-hour mini-series for television called "Jack Holborn," an exciting, swashbuckling adventure film. Monte has a leading role.

On Monday, Sept. 27, on CBS television, Monte will be in the Movie-of-the-Week, "Drop Out Father," with Dick Van Dyke.

On Oct. 16, Monte will again be on the CBS Movie-of-the-Week, "Hotline," with Lynda Carter.

Bill Graham, a real estate instructor for the past six years, has been appointed a coordinator of Continuing Education, to serve as director of the Institute of Governments. The Institute, dormant for the past year, has been revitalized with an SUS (State University System) grant in the amount of $34,000. Pat Wilson, who now heads Resource Development, was the first director of the Institute when it was established two years ago.
An official advisory committee, made up of city, county, and state administrators, will meet monthly with Bill to determine the nee for courses, seminars & workshops for governmental employees.
